MAYOR MULVIHILL AS A STOKER.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 9.—The official head of Mayor Mulvihill, Bridgeport's stoker-Mayor, is in jeopardy. From a common stoker, Mulvihill was made Mayor of the big city. When the recent labor trouble affected the whole town, the stoker-Mayor's sympathies were naturally with the class he sprang from.

CORSET TURNED WEAPON

Deflected Knife Blow Alleged to Have Been Aimed at the Heart of Miss Della Ostbye at Mount Tabor.

Frank B. Ridney, Charged With Assault With a Dangerous Weapon, is Before the Court as the Result.

Young Woman Alleged to Have Been Assailed by Jealous Suitor While Walking With Another Man.

A corset worn by Miss Della Ostbye for the sake of form acted as a shirt-of-mail to turn aside the point of a knife alleged to have been aimed at her heart, and as a result the young woman who thus miraculously escaped injury is appearing this afternoon in Justice Graham's Mount Tabor Court, as a witness against Frank B. Ridney, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon.

The trouble which is being aired in court occurred at an early hour Sunday morning in Center Addition, near Mount Tabor. It is claimed that Miss Ostbye was walking out in the company of a young man named Ellice, when Ridney suddenly appeared and struck at her with a knife.

The blade, it is said, penetrated the thin shirtwaist worn by the young woman, but struck the padding and steel ribs of her corset and was deflected from her body, not even drawing blood. Her clothing was badly cut, but beyond a rather severe nervous shock the girl escaped entirely without injury.

Ridney, who is a married man, lives near the home of Miss Ostbye, in Center Addition, and it is charged that he has been attentive to the girl, who is said to have spurned his advances.

THREE MEN KILLED AND SEVEN INJURED

(Journal Special Service.) CHARLESTON, S. C., June 9.—While repairing a trestle on the Seaboard Air Line over Broad River yesterday afternoon a locomotive and plow went down, precipitating the engineer and crew of ten men into the water. Three were killed and the others injured.

EDDIE IS FULL OF SORROW

The Wife of Young Millionaire Edgar Sutro, Returns From a Long Visit Home and Discovers Things.

She Finds Some Very Silly Love Letters Written By Her Recreant Spouse to Another Whom He Loved.

Epistles, Were so Gushing in Sentiment That No Other Way Was Left Open But to Seek a Divorce.

(Journal Special Service.) SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—Mrs. Edgar Sutro, who went to visit her home in South Africa, returned yesterday to San Francisco and found letters written by her husband to Mrs. Merrill, who had lived with Sutro at the Latham Hotel during his wife's absence.

A sample of the letters is as follows: "ARCADIA, July 17, 1896—Oh, partly mine—Eddie is very, very sorry because he wrote his poor, sick little, suffering, lonely Minnie such a mean letter. Yes, he is very sorry. You will forgive your Eddie, won't you, partly mine. He will not do so again.

"Your lonesome baby—EDDIE." Many other of the letters are written in the same love-lit style, and some of them are so silly that they are disgusting.

Young Sutro is the son of the late Adolph Sutro, multi-millionaire. He is past 30 and enjoys the income from many thousands per year.

Standifer asked her where she was going, and she said "To town to have you arrested."

Standifer replied: "If you do I'll kill you. I guess I'd better kill you right now."

Then he reached toward his boot after his gun, and Mrs. Brown says she knew him well enough to take no chances and shot him as he stooped over, the bullet hitting him in the back and he fell out of the buggy.

She went to Miles City where she surrendered and was released on $5,000 bail. The poor woman's action is approved by citizens generally who regard Standifer as a bad character.

GAVE MONEY AWAY DYING PENILESS

(Journal Special Service.) BAKER CITY, Or., June 9.—William L. Burnham, a California argonaut and Eastern Oregon pioneer, died last evening at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. He was aged 69 years and death resulted from pneumonia.

He made three fortunes and died without a penny, having literally given his money away. In the olden days of placer mining he found a band of stranded and hungry miners at The Dalles and chartered a boat and took them to Portland.

He was connected with Bonta in a plan to build an electric road from Baker City to Burns.

BAER TESTIFIED

(Journal Special Service.) HOLYOKE, Mass., June 9.—As a result of the strike declared by the employees yesterday 11 coarse-grade paper mills are closed down this morning. There is likely to be a long drawn fight as both the operators and mill owners are determined to win.

He admitted in testifying that rates per ton for merchandise to the Atlantic seaboard were lower than those on coal. He gave as a reason the expense of building spurs to the mines. He further admitted that the financial statement given to the stockholders differed from that given the Interstate Commerce Commission and explained that by saying that the statement given the latter was only such as is required by law.

HIS LOVE FOR HER IS ENDED

Birdie McCarty's Eloquent Appeal to Man Who She Claims Wrought Her Ruin, to Save Her From Disgrace.

Breach of Promise Suit For $70,000 on Trial in Federal Court and Morbidly Curious Crowd Room.

"Would You Want Any One to Treat Your Daughter So?" Says the Plaintiff in Letter to Jim Heryford.

Dear Jim: Your letter of the 10th received this evening as I just came home from Detroit, and words cannot express my feelings when I read those words from you, that you had changed your mind, when it is not two months until we were to be married. Jim, if you had stabbed me to the heart it could not have been worse. Only think of it, man, what it means to me. You, who promised to love and marry me, have now at the last moment almost told me you did not intend to do so.

I hope heaven may spare you the pain you have caused me, and so sure as there is a just God you will have this sin to answer for. Think of me, a woman who gave all her love to you, and trusted you, Jim, no words uttered by a minister could bind us closer than we are. Still, that legal form you now object to. You know I am a poor girl working for my livelihood, and do you think you are treating me justly? Would you want any one to treat your daughter so?—Extract from Birdie McCarty's appeal to Jim Heryford not to pass her by after his alleged promises of love and marriage and working her ruin.

For toying with the heartstrings of Birdie N. McCarty, James D. Heryford is facing a damage suit in the United States Circuit Court in the sum of $70,000.

The case was called for trial yesterday afternoon and its principals are James Heryford, cattleman and banker of Lakeview, and Miss Birdie N. McCarty, a school teacher, from Michigan. According to the plaintiff Heryford is worth in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million, but the defendant declares he has only $70,000, the amount of damages asked by the woman.

Protestations of love, broken promises of marriage and her ruin are the charges brought by Miss McCarty against the big stockman. Heryford, on the other hand, declares that the woman has not been compromised, and that he has at all times been willing to take her as his wife.

According to the story of the plaintiff Miss McCarty came to Lakeview in September, 1900, to teach a school. She boarded at the home of Heryford, a widower of 45, with four children, Miss McCarty, at the time, was 23 years of age. A strong friendship sprang up between the man and woman and this finally ripened into love. Miss McCarty declared that Heryford promised to marry her and she consented on condition she be allowed to spend half her time after the marriage in Michigan. It was shortly after this that Heryford, the woman alleges, wronged her, and their relations continued until the summer of 1901, when she returned to Wayne, Mich., to prepare for the wedding.

The two corresponded during the summer until finally the stockman wrote that he no longer loved Miss McCarty, and asked that he be released from his promise to marry her. She wrote begging him to marry her. To this entreaty she received no response, and finally, after several months, upon the advice of attorneys, she threatened suit for breach of promise. Then Heryford agreed to take her, provided she would come to Reno, Nev., but she refused, and last fall suit was filed in the United States Court.

Miss McCarty occupied the witness stand during a greater portion of the trial today. The courtroom was crowded with the morbidly curious, and several women were present listening to the story related by Miss McCarty.

FRAUD IS CHARGED (Journal Special Service.) SALEM, Or., June 9.—James F. Smith, formerly a street car employee, has been arrested here by Deputy United States Marshal Roberts on a charge of receiving mail belonging to another. Smith last year worked in Seattle. He received, it is said, a letter addressed to F. J. Smith, containing a draft for $100. He endorsed and cashed the same. When arrested he waived examination before the United States Commissioner and was taken to Seattle for trial.

Smith recently fell from a light pole, breaking his foot, and is now in the hospital. He stands, well-to-do, where he has lived many years, and his friends are shocked at the charge.

THE KOREA IS FAST (Journal Special Service.) SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—The steamship Empress of Japan, for some years holding the speed record, is scheduled to leave for San Francisco from Korea in a race from Nagasaki to Kobe. The Columbia arrived last night from Portland.

Called the Race Off (Journal Special Service.) HIGHLANDS, June 9.—The Constitution, Reliance and Columbia had nearly reached the starting point at 2:30 when the regatta committee signaled the race is off. Light winds was the cause. All the forenoon a heavy fog overhung the water. A considerable number of spectators were disappointed.
