ENGLAND STANDS FOR FREE TRADE

Colonial Secretary Chamberlain Turned Down In His Scheme to Amend Fiscal Policy of England.

Strenuous Debate Occupies the House Until Midnight, but Only One Voice is Raised In Support.

(Journal Special Service.)
LONDON, June 10.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain met with a signal defeat in his attempt to launch his great protection scheme which he has been so strongly advocating. Packed was the House of Commons all day long yesterday and until midnight with people excited with curiosity to ascertain how much support would be accorded Mr. Chamberlain when his measure was proposed. Not a single voice was raised in his support, except that of Mr. Chaplin. On the other hand, ex-Ministers of the Cabinet, irrespective of politics, and private members as well, were loud in their denunciations of any proposition which would effect the repeal of the free trade policy of Great Britain, which is free trade.

The final blow came when Premier Balfour officially announced that the Cabinet was adverse to accept, or in any way support, Mr. Chamberlain's plan. Chamberlain to resign. It is today ascertained that a great deal of certainty that Mr. Chamberlain will resign from the Cabinet because of the proposal of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Ritchie, to repeal the corn tax law. Mr. Balfour has been industriously endeavoring to persuade the Colonial Secretary to remain in the Cabinet, but it is feared even should he remain his usefulness and strength would be of a negative quantity. Mr. Chaplin, who moved for an amendment which would bring the matter of the repeal of the grain duty up for a general debate, was the occasion of that gentleman attacking Mr. Ritchie on his measure to repeal that duty. Until nearly midnight a debate occupied the house which was listened to with grave attention. The result was an avowed expression that England would remain for free trade without a qualifying amendment. This decision defeats the expectancy that a great deal would be done by England against practically the world.

YOUNG ARISTOCRAT IN SEATTLE JAIL

Son of Ex-Governor Waite of Colorado an Alleged Embezzler.

(Journal Special Service.)
SEATTLE, Wash., June 10.—The fact leaked out today that Edward L. Waite, who for the past fortnight has been a prisoner in the county jail in this city, is a son of ex-Governor Waite of Colorado, he of the "blood to the bride" fame. Young Waite was arrested by a United States deputy marshal at Blaine, Wash., two weeks ago, within a few hours after his arrival from the Orient, on a charge of embezzling $9,000 while cashier of Colonel Newberry's bank in Manila, P. I. Yesterday a cablegram from Manila had reached the Federal authorities here several days in advance of the arrival of the Empress liner at Vancouver, B. C., and the deputy marshal followed the alleged fugitive from the wharf to a train bound for Seattle. The arrest was made the moment the train crossed the international boundary. The officer was instructed to follow his man across the continent if necessary and serve the warrant the moment he touched foot on American soil.

REMOVE ADMINISTRATOR

Seventy Residents of St. Johns Are Trying to Lose Robert Catlin His Job.

Seventy residents of the town of St. Johns have petitioned the Court of Multnomah County to remove Robert Catlin as administrator of the estate of James John, deceased. Under the terms of James John's will he left valuable property at St. Johns to be devoted to the promotion of the educational interests of the place, the establishment and maintenance of free school or schools. Catlin was appointed administrator with the will annexed, but the petitioners declare he is incompetent and not a fit person to have the care and management of the estate. It is charged that Catlin has neglected and wasted the property, has failed to collect rents, has sold property much below its true value and has allowed the property to become run down and out of repair. The petition charges that over half the estate has been disposed of and that the schools or town have not received the support provided for in John's will. If Catlin remains in office it is claimed the entire estate will be dissipated. James John was the first settler in the town of St. Johns.

DAUGHTER OF HANNA A BEAUTIFUL BRIDE

Married to Joseph Medill McCormick at Cleveland --- President Roosevelt Signed Certificate --- Miss Lewis of Portland a Bridesmaid.

(Journal Special Service.)
CLEVELAND, O., June 10.—The marriage certificate which Miss Ruth Hanna, youngest daughter of Senator and Mrs. Marcus A. Hanna, bore away from St. Paul's Episcopal Church today contained the signatures as witnesses of the President of the United States and of several United States senators and members of the diplomatic corps at Washington. Miss Hanna, one of the most notable and popular figures in Cleveland and Washington society, became the wife of Joseph Medill McCormick of Chicago.

The presence of Mr. Roosevelt and a large number of distinguished guests together with other incidents which attended their union, rendered the wedding an event of national interest. Cleveland has been the scene of numerous notable weddings in the past, but at none of them has the attendance of famous personages been equal to that at today's function in St. Paul's Church. The interior of the church, which is well adapted to artistic floral arrangements, presented a delightful picture. Gorgeously was not contemplated in the decorations. On the contrary, it was the desire of every one closely connected with the event to have American simplicity reign, and this was done, though it was an elegant simplicity. Roses were freely used in the decorations. In the high chancel more than 200 palms, large and small, were arranged and a curtain of green hid the carved oak reredos.

Musical Arrangements. The musical arrangements were on a scale fitting to the ceremony. The members of the President's party had rarely seated themselves in the pews reserved for them at the head of the main aisle when the musical exercises were begun with the "Lohengrin" bridal music. Soon after 12 o'clock in the midst of a glorious burst of music from the organ and choir, the bride, radiant and happy, entered the church, leaning on the arm of her distinguished father. No happier or fairer bride ever approached the wedding altar than Miss Hanna.

The Bride Party. The bride party was headed by the bridesmaid, Miss Eleanor Patterson and Miss Adelaide Hamilton, both of Chicago; Miss Laura McGinty and Miss Virginia Johnston, of Pittsburgh; Miss Mary Hopkins of Washington, Miss Frances Lewis of Portland, Or., and Miss Claire Hanna and Miss Florence Cobb, of Cleveland. Miss Luella McCurdy, the maid of honor, followed without attendant. Then came the bride, Miss Ruth Hanna, leaning on her father's arm. President Roosevelt and his daughter, Miss Alice Roosevelt, were immediately in the rear of the bride and her father. Flower maidens and the ushers completed the procession. The ushers were as follows: William Williams of Philadelphia, Robert Allerton, Mr. Beck, Joseph Medill Patterson, all of Chicago; Ernest Minor of Cincinnati, James Barney of New York, and Howard Hanna and Malcolm McBride of Cleveland.

Bride and Groom. Joseph Medill McCormick, although a young man and just beginning for himself, has a fine heritage. He is the grandson of the late Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, and his father is ambassador to Russia. Since his graduation from Yale in 1890 Mr. McCormick has been on the staff of the Chicago Tribune. The bride of today is a girl of distinction and poise, an American girl of the finest type. She is tall and slender, with expressive features and a fine carriage. She cares more for outdoor sports than for the pleasures of society and has long been a devoted horsewoman, fearless and a fine rider. Miss Hanna and Mr. McCormick first met about three years ago, when both were visiting at Thomasville, Ga., where Senator Hanna maintains an elegant winter home. It was a case of love at first sight, at least on Mr. McCormick's part, and he pleaded his cause with such devotion that the announcement of their marriage was not long in forthcoming.

RUSSIA'S POLICY AS NOW OUTLINED

Must Have An Open Port to Protect Her Interests and Must Control Outlet at Newchwang and Port Arthur Through Yellow Sea.

(Journal Special Service.)
NEW YORK, June 10.—Russia's policy in Manchuria arises from inevitable necessity. She must hold Manchuria and control Newchwang, because her interests require an outlet to the sea. She must have an open port, free from ice at all seasons of the year, and there is only one—the harbor at Port Arthur, by way of the Yellow Sea. This is the real point of the Manchurian problem and explains every move made by Russia in the pending controversy. She can't get out of Manchuria at Vladivostok, via the Sea of Japan, during the frozen period of the year, and Newchwang is the only alternative. It follows that Russia will get out that way despite all protests from the powers and all objections from China. The foregoing is the substance of views expressed by Charles Johnson, B. C. S., in the current issue of Harper's Weekly, in which he discusses the Yellow Sea problem as manifested in Russia's grasp of Manchuria to protect her open harbor at Port Arthur. He says: At the time of the last Turkish war, 25 years ago, the population of Russia was a hundred millions, preponderantly of homogeneous white race. It is now more than 125,000,000, and the Slav element is steadily gaining on all others, and crowding out the alien elements. At the same rate of increase, which has been maintained for three centuries already, Russia will, in 77 years, have a population of 200,000,000. At the end of the twentieth century Russia will have a white population of more than 400,000,000 souls. The Great Problem. This is the problem which her far-seeing statesmen have been facing for the last ten years, with Minister Witte at their head. This is the main spring of the Siberian, and later, of the Manchurian railroads. Already the Siberian line is carrying 200,000 colonists annually to the fertile wheat lands of Siberia. Russia has already a territory of 6,000,000 square miles in Asia, which will thus gradually fill up with the excess of her European population. For this vast territory, twice the size of the United States, she needs an outlet to the sea. She desires to carry the maximum of freight on the Manchurian railroad; she would greatly prefer to carry American freight rather than introduce Japanese or English or German goods with a political string tied to them. It remains for us, as a practical people, to meet Minister Witte's way, and to accept the opening he offers us.

ENGLAND WILL NOT BROOK AN INSULT

Makes Investigation of Expulsion of London Times Correspondent.

LONDON, June 10.—Last week the correspondent of the London Times was expelled from St. Petersburg by an edict of the Department of Police. The reasons given were that articles frequently appeared in the Times derogatory of the Czar's government, and which contained untruths regarding the conditions in Russia. The correspondent was given only a short time to leave the country and it is said that he was not given time to communicate with the English Ambassador. That functionary, however, took the matter up and informed the home government, and today he was instructed to gather every detail of the circumstances with the view of taking strenuous action against Russia for the insult.

JAPAN WANTS TO KNOW

Consul Katto Inquires Regarding the Utilizing of Pine Needles and Leaves Into Useful Articles.

The fame of Oregon's resources appears to be known and talked of the world over. Not only do the secretaries of the local Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade receive inquiries regarding the wonders of this State from every section of the United States, but quite often there come letters from people who wish to tell the story in lands across the seas. Recently the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce received a letter from the Japanese Consul at Seattle asking regarding an industry that does not seem to be as widely advertised throughout even this State as are many of the others. The officer of the Bureau Kingdom wrote: "I am told, at some point in the State of Oregon, there is a factory where some materia medica or chemicals are extracted from the leaves of pine or some other kindred plants. I shall esteem it a great favor if you will kindly let me learn the name of the factory just cited, or where I shall apply to secure the same if you may be in possession of any information in this connection. "Thanking you in advance for the trouble I am now occasioning, I am yours respectfully, K. SAITO." The Assistant Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce told the Consul that there was a factory at Grants, Pa., Ore., which utilized pine needles and leaves, making from them soaps, extracts, medical confectionery, cigars for asthma, sachets, underclothing, insoles, mattresses, sofa pillows, etc. The thanks that the Secretary received for the information given was written in a style that seems to breathe the flowery politeness of the little folk from the Land of Cherry Groves. Consul Katto replied: "I am extremely sensible of your speedy reply to my late communication. Nothing is more valuable than the information therein contained for my present situation." He pleased therefore, to accept my heartfelt thanks.
