

SOCIETY

QUEEN OF CARNIVAL.

How rarely we see a married couple that seems to us to be perfectly suited to each other, I mean judging altogether from looks. We meet a handsome, healthy, well dressed man with a frail, shabbily attired wife, and we think many things, after the first "I wonder how he happened to marry her." We see more often, perhaps, a richly attired woman, brilliant and vivacious, accompanied by her spouse who is sedate and dignified, with no apparent interest in social life, but we do not wonder so much why she married him, for there is such a difference in a man's and a woman's idea of marriage. Many women are thankful for small mercies and if a man makes a fairly good appearance and has good manners, she is willing after a certain age to accept him for a life companion. A man is more particular and far more is considered by him than these points. Although men, as well as women, are slaves to certain conventionalities, they have more courage to do as they like. Of course, men consider what the public will say and hesitate a long time before "popping" the question. If he thinks his friends might say he was not making a good match.

He wants, first of all, it seems, a wife who has an individuality that is pleasing to him. He wants her to have a face that, although it may not be considered beautiful from a classical point of view, appeals to him personally.

Simplicity cuts a great figure with a man. Nearly all of them seem to hold aloof from women that are in the least bold or mannish. They like candor and sincerity, tact and grace, the latter, perhaps because men are so little liable to acquire this accomplishment.

Women do not study enough what a man likes in their sex. Ignorance, vanity, causes women to fall in ways that are detrimental to their matrimonial future. Men do not believe in the old maxim that "imitation is the sincerest flattery" when it comes to women adopting the costume and custom of men. They prefer womanliness, not mannishness in women.

If a woman wishes to make a good impression upon any certain one of the opposite sex, she is pretty sure of being successful if she will use the one attractive weapon, sympathy. She will only listen with an interest that seems to absorb everything else when she speaks of herself she will have won a point that will go a long way in covering up any defect that she may have thought before that she possessed.

Ordinary men, not dreamers, want to see plenty of evidence of domesticity in a woman they are "sizing up" as a possible life companion, for he generally likes a comfortable home, even though he is not much in it, and they feel more content if they know that the wife is there and wants so to be.

Of course, what a man admires most in women depends much upon his age and development, but even though very young, if he has had a good mother, he can judge pretty well, to his satisfaction, at least, of the disposition of women.

Cinch seems to be popular in Portland as bridge is in New York and the East. There were many card parties given last week, and this was the game chosen. This week Mrs. Seachrest gave a pretty cinch party, also Mrs. Lawrence.

Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Allen Lewis entertained at luncheon for Mrs. Beebe at a more informal one.

The meeting of St. Helens Hall alumni was a pleasing social affair.

The matinee musical given by Mrs. Walter Reed's pupils was much enjoyed.

A young society maid of Portland says her ideas of women correspond with those of the Scotchman, who said the woman he married must have three qualifications—rich, handsome and a fool. He gave as his reasons for this that she must be rich and beautiful or he would not marry her, and a fool or she would not marry him.

Miss Inez Williams, The Queen of the Woodmen of the World Carnival at Corvallis This Week.

The opening of the Woodmen of the World Carnival at Corvallis Wednesday was marked by the largest gathering of people seen in that city in many years. The weather was ideal and by 10 o'clock in the morning the streets were jammed. The city was beautifully decorated in patriotic, carnival and W. O. W. colors. Nearly every business house in town had decorated windows peculiar to the Woodmen. The principal feature of Wednesday was the crowning of the queen and the parade. The parade was the largest and most elaborate ever seen in our city. It consisted of the queen and her suite, Mayor of the city, prominent officials of the W. O. W., company of Uniform Rank, W. O. W. floats and membership.

The queen, Miss Inez Williams, is a most charming young lady and a universal favorite. Her maids of honor were Miss Iva Barclay and Miss Goldie Howard. John F. Allen is lord high chancellor, Masters Edwin Pritchard and Spencer Covell her pages. At the conclusion of the coronation ceremonies, which were witnessed by over 3,000 people, Mayor E. F. Irvine in a most eloquent address, presented the golden key of the city to the queen.

Friday's features consisted of a balloon ascension in the morning, a baby show in the afternoon and a public wedding in the evening. The Woodmen were showered with praise because of their enterprise and public-spiritedness in bringing this splendid show, which is the best ever seen in Corvallis.

General and Mrs. Hancock Clark and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Mears enjoyed a pleasant luncheon at Vancouver Barracks, with Mayor Evans last Wednesday. After lunch a drive was taken out of all nations that had been arranged on the walls of the parlors. They were bright colored little silk flags, very pretty to look at and nearly all of them looked familiar but to give the right names was not so easy. Miss Eva Kierman knew more of them than anyone else and was given the first prize and Mrs. I. Ofner the second. Music from stringed instruments rendered soft and delightful music during the afternoon. Refreshments were served.

The guests were Mrs. R. H. Birdsall, Mrs. Sidney Cavston, Mrs. A. W. Cochran, Mrs. Bruce Curry, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Charles Steele, Mrs. P. J. Mann, Mrs. Gertrude Pratt, Miss Etta Stewart, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. H. E. Jones, Miss Kierman, Mrs. Frank Heitkemper, Mrs. G. Heitkemper, Mrs. Brockman, Mrs. Chas. Boss, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Fieldner, Mrs. Chas. Wanser, Mrs. Edward Werlin, Mrs. Alfred Wascher, Mrs. Frank S. Baker, Mrs. Norman Schade, Mrs. Schuback, Mrs. I. Ofner, Miss Olga Ofner, Mrs. Durham, Mrs. C. W. Wanser, Mrs. W. J. Hawkins, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. I. Goldsmith, Mrs. J. A. Clock, Mrs. Alaha, Miss Verda Monroe, Mrs. Wandell, Mrs. C. Kelly, Mrs. Dammhour, Mrs. Tom Gray, Miss Tallor, Mrs. Labarre, Mrs. Temple, Mrs. J. D. Fenton, Mrs. Branch, Mrs. Bageel, Mrs. Widler and Mrs. T. S. Townsend.

Mrs. Levy Hexter entertained a number of friends at lunch at the Portland cafe, yesterday noon in honor of Mrs. Hamburger and Mrs. Oberdorfer, of Salt Lake.

Mrs. Julius L. Meier entertained the Bowling Club yesterday afternoon at her home, 22 Tenth street. During the afternoon exceptionally delicious refreshments were served.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Marcus Fleischner and Mrs. J. Moritz.

Mrs. Gus Simon gave a splendid dinner

Lawrence was ably assisted by Miss Marion Stackpole. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. St. Claire Gay, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holman, Miss Millard, Miss Jessie Millard, Mrs. and Mrs. W. C. Lawrence, Mr. J. B. Glover, Mr. John Lawrence, Miss Ruml, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, Miss Gilliland, Mrs. Mabel Lawrence, Miss Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fairfowl, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Noon, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Winifred Northrop, Mr. Paul Dehouse and Miss Selover.

One of the several pleasant card parties of the week was that given by Mrs. George Lawrence, Jr., at her home, 749 Flanders street, Wednesday afternoon. Whist was the game played. Mrs. Lawrence was assisted in the parlors by Mrs. James Thompson, Miss Lawrence and Miss Mabel Lawrence. Nothing could have been prettier than the artistic rose decorations that beautified the rooms. Roses were here, there and everywhere, not too many but in just the right quantity and place.

Miss Marion Stackpole secured the first prize and Mrs. George Bates the consolation. Delicious refreshments were served.

The guests were Mrs. W. E. Thomas, Mrs. C. R. Templeton, Mrs. William Wallace, Mrs. Otto Breyman, Mrs. W. C. Lawrence, Miss von Holton, Mrs. Blair T. Scott, Miss N. Russell, Mrs. Oscar Huber, Mrs. H. The fortunate winner of the first prize, a cut glass bon bon dish, was Mrs. J. E. Warren, and a beautiful Haviland China plate was given to Mrs. E. G. Clarke for the second prize. Punch was served during the game to the happy players and later cool and palatable refreshments. Miss Beatrice, the little daughter of Mrs. Locke, sweetly greeted her mother's guests at the door.

Those who enjoyed the afternoon were Mrs. J. C. Olds, Mrs. G. E. Bruere, Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Mrs. Herbert Holman, Mrs. A. E. Butterfield, Mrs. F. A. Jones, Mrs. E. T. Williams, Mrs. H. M. NORMAL SCHOOL CLASS, 1903.

The Class of 1903 of the Eastern Oregon State Normal School at Weston. Their names are reading from left to right: Charles L. Holway, Miss Edna A. Kider, George W. Winn, Ernest E. Walden, Miss Grace V. Ray, Miss Clarissa O'Hara, Miss Ida I. Marsh, Walter E. Ely, Miss Stella E. Anderson, Miss E. Blanche Canfield.

The commencement exercises that have just concluded have ended a successful but eventful year in the history of the normal school at Weston. Robert C. French, the present president of the institution, has been at Weston but a few months, succeeding J. N. Martindale, who died in office February 26, last.

Use of marquerites, this decoration being used because it is a favorite flower of the bride to be. The handkerchiefs were nearly all the handiwork of the girls present and were beautiful both in texture and design.

Those present were: Miss Beharrell, Miss Ethel Beharrell, Miss Jane Owen, Miss Edith Bhusdell, Miss Mamie Rogers, Miss Ella Cozens, Miss Annette Wagner, Mrs. Samuel Lockwood, Mrs. Curtis Robinson, Miss Ethel Nottingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bauer were married four years last Saturday, June 8, and the fact was remembered by a large number of their friends who called to extend congratulations.

WEDDINGS.

The marriage of Miss Milly Hillgard to Mr. George Graham last Friday week at the home of Judge and Mrs. George J. Cameron was the culmination of a pretty romance that saw its beginning many years ago in Scotland, when both were children in the pretty city of Kilmarnock. The childish attraction later ripened into affection that was deep enough to cause Miss Hillgard to make the trip alone from Scotland to Portland.
