

MURDER FOLLOWS HOLDUP

Max Calof, Who Was Shot on Monday by Two Highwaymen, Died This Morning From His Wounds.

Chief of Police Hunt Admits That Situation is Beyond His Control and Takes Measures Accordingly.

Streetcar Employees and All Responsible Citizens May Now Carry Arms for Their Own Protection.

Max Calof, the aged strawberry vendor who was shot through the stomach by would-be robbers in his barn shortly after 10 o'clock Monday night, succumbed to the wound at 7:50 a. m. today, and the case thus develops into murder.

The assassins, two in number, have disappeared completely and the police and detectives have not the remotest idea as to either their whereabouts or identity.

The situation has become so desperate in Portland that Chief of Police Hunt this morning admitted to 'The Journal' that it is beyond his control, and while not advising citizens to arm themselves, he stated that no responsible person who carries a weapon during this hold-up panic will be molested by the police.

Chief Hunt also wrote a letter to the managers of the various street railway companies this morning, requesting of at least strongly urging them to equip their conductors and motormen with weapons.

"I am asking the managers of the car companies to provide their men with weapons because there are not sufficient patrolmen on the force to afford protection in case of hold-ups such as those of recent date," said Chief Hunt. "A car might be held up, and the district officer might be two miles distant, and would render no assistance whatever. But if the motorman and conductor were armed they might get the drop on the robbers and compel them to surrender."

With regard to the matter of citizens arming themselves for protection at this time, Chief Hunt said: "I cannot advise the carrying of weapons, because there is a law against it. However, I may state that at such times as this, when it is dangerous to be out after dark, the police will not interfere with any responsible person who desires to carry a weapon for the purpose of defense."

Chief Hunt is anxious to offer a reward for the capture of the murderers Calof, and at yesterday's meeting of the Police Commission he spoke of the matter. Commissioners Beebe and Sichel seemed in favor of the proposition, and it is possible that the city will make an offer. Chief Hunt stated at the meeting that without some monetary consideration it is almost impossible to get one criminal to inform on another. With a reward in sight, the chief said, some person might come forward immediately with information that would lead to the speedy apprehension of the guilty parties.

Fatal Bullet Recovered.
The bullet which caused the death of Calof is now in the hands of Coroner Finley. It is a .38-caliber and was recovered after considerable probing by Dr. Sanford Whiting this morning. The direct cause of death was peritonitis and perforation of the bowels. The latter was pierced twice by the leaden missile in its course downward to the muscles of the right hip, where it was found.

Coroner Finley will hold no inquest over Calof's body, as he considers it unnecessary under the circumstances.

Carmen Are Armed.
Manager Hurlbut of the Oregon Water Power & Railway Company today announced that Colt revolvers and other weapons of defense were being issued to carmen in the employ of that company and that the men were given instructions to resist in any attempts made in the future to hold up and rob their cars. This course has been considered necessary by the recent epidemic of crime.

SAYS REWARD RESTS WITH CITY COUNCIL.
Mayor Williams, when asked today about the city offering a reward for the apprehension of the thugs who have been concerned in the series of holdups that terminated in the murder of Max Calof, was rather non-committal and said that the entire question was one for the City Council to decide. That is the sole municipal body authorized to take such a step.

"I think it would be well enough," said the Mayor, "for the City Council to set aside or create a fund for that very purpose, and it might be desirable to offer a reward, for we cannot tell what instances and what necessities may arise, and while it may not be necessary to take that step at the present time, the future may develop just such an emergency. I am not prepared to say whether a reward for the apprehension of the thugs would be in order now, but the City Council could decide that question at their meeting on next Wednesday."

The present state of affairs is exceedingly deplorable, and it is also extremely unfortunate that Portland must be made the dumping ground for the criminal element which has been driven out of Seattle.

CLAIMED THEY WERE GARROTED AND BEATEN

Two Swedes, whose names were not learned by the police, reported that while on their way home about 11 o'clock four men sprang out from the darkness at the corner of Front and Taylor streets and grasped them about the throat, felled them to the sidewalk and searched their clothing for money and valuables.

The victims stated that after the would-be robbers finished the search and found no money, they beat and kicked them. They were then ordered to get up and "make tracks" for other parts.

The two men appeared at the Anderson Brothers' stable, corner of Third and Madison streets, and when asked by Frank Anderson what was the matter, told the story related above. They were hatless and very much excited. They were advised to go to the police station, which they did.

This morning, however, nothing was given out to the newspapers by the officers at headquarters regarding the reported holdup.

BRUTAL AFFAIR MONDAY NIGHT

A most brutal holdup and robbery, occurring about midnight Monday, is told of by Joe Joseph of 210 Market street. He states that he and his brother, Solomon, were walking on the sidewalk in front of their home, and looking out of the front window, they saw two masked men bending over a helpless victim and searching him. They removed several things from their victim's pockets.

Fear for their own lives prevented the Joseph brothers from interfering with the desperadoes. A number of years ago one of their brothers was shot and killed by highwaymen who were having fun with their victims. It was a stray bullet from the revolver of one of the bandits that ended his life. The robbers were caught and later hanged for the crime.

WILL HOLD CONVENTION

The annual convention of the representatives of the Episcopal diocese of Oregon will be held in this city Friday and Saturday. It is expected about 25 will be in attendance, among them Bishop Funsten of Boise, Idaho, who will deliver the principal address during the session of Friday.

Considerable important business will be attended to. The question of re-naming the church will be brought up and recommendations made, though it is believed a motion favoring a change of name cannot carry.

The women's auxiliary will meet at St. David's church tomorrow morning and visiting bishops and rectors will meet at Trinity Chapel tomorrow evening, when the program for the convention will be mapped out.

DUNSMUIR STRIKE OFF

(Journal Special Service.)
VICTORIA, B. C., June 24.—There was general rejoicing in Ladysmith last night at being understood that the strike in the Dunsmuir mines at Extension was practically settled and that the men would go back on old conditions. Dunsmuir says a few little points are yet to be decided.

Many of the miners' families have been suffering from deprivations, hence the joy at the prospect of the strike being off.

HEPPNER SUFFERERS RECEIVE STATE AID

Contributions Continue to Come In from All Parts of Oregon, and Work of Clearing Away Wreckage Goes On Rapidly.

(Journal Special Service.)
HEPPNER, Or., June 24.—Complimentary resolutions were sent to the O. R. & N. Co. of the City of Portland, A. Woolley of Ione, J. N. Neal and J. N. Davis, Portland, several days ago. One reply has been made by A. L. Mohler of the O. R. & N., who states:

"I am in receipt of resolutions in which the several cities very complimentary mention. I am sure that the officials of the company were only too glad to be able to render you every possible assistance, and to alleviate promptly the sufferings of the unfortunate people of your city."

Mayor Frank Gilliam said today: "The people of Heppner will never forget the remarkable energy the O. R. & N. exerted in rushing its work of rebuilding its plant without charge, and in establishing communication between Heppner and the outside world and in carrying free all people who came to work for our relief, and also in transporting supplies without charge, and in doing so ten times what ordinary humanity demanded. We are especially indebted to Supt. O'Brien, Assistant Buckley and Campbell, and Chief Engineer Kennedy and his gallant corps of men, who worked without sleep and scarcely ate during 72 hours."

"The unsung heroes of this great calamity were railroad men and operators, whose efforts being successfully carried out."

An excellent system of handling laborers was evolved by C. C. Berkeley and W. F. Matlock of Pendleton and J. N. Davis of Ione, which eliminated waste and prevented shirking.

When this town was sorely stricken, generous people throughout the Northwest responded to calls for relief. On the other hand there were numerous people here who responded to calls for assistance in the rehabilitation of their own town, and demanded such compensation for goods supplied as would make the flood a bonanza for them. Also well-to-do people came to committee headquarters and attempted to secure aid for their sufferers. One man who owns two bands of sheep and has money in the bank and mortgages on other people's property, demanded free meals.

One store sought a bill against the relief committee, two items of which were: One skirt, $9; one ditto, $7; ribbons, $1.50. The committee refused to pay the bill, and called on the merchant who had furnished the goods to put in bills for the articles.

Great vigilance is now exercised at headquarters to prevent "grafting," of which prodigious proportions was the chief feature yesterday afternoon, last evening and today. Under a new iron rule of the executive committee, "grafters" have been successfully side-tracked.

LEXINGTON IS STILL NEEDING ASSISTANCE

Mayor F. E. Notson of the town of Lexington, which was one of the three communities visited by the disaster flood of June 15, has written a letter to Mayor Williams of this city in which he describes the present condition of the place, and returning the thanks of the residents for the aid that has been rendered them. His communication is as follows:

LEXINGTON, Or., June 22.—Hon. George R. Williams: Dear Sir—My attention has been called to a statement in the newspapers that you wish me to reply to my telegram and asked as to our needs. Your telegram was not delivered, hence our silence.

We were fortunate here, in that no lives were lost. Our property loss is comparatively heavy and falls upon people who are not in very good circumstances. Our immediate needs in the way of food and clothing are being supplied. We need help to clean up the debris to prevent sickness. We are receiving a little money to help people get their homes rebuilt. We received $100 from Newburg and about $175 has been sent from the United Artisans. Two houses and several barns are entirely swept away. Three more houses are total wrecks and must be torn down. Three more are almost wrecks, but they may be repaired and moved back to their foundations. Several more are badly damaged. Much damage is done in houses that did not leave their foundations. The Methodist Church is a total wreck and the Congregational Church is badly damaged. We had fine orchards and gardens that are damaged beyond estimate.

The people of Lexington have been helping our neighbors and doing their best to take care of themselves. They appreciate the kindness of the people who have rendered assistance in any way.

(Signed) F. E. NOTSON, Mayor.

NEEDS OF HEPPNER STILL VERY GREAT

The first work at Heppner is to clear away the debris and wreckage and disperse the germs of disease. When this is done the matter of rebuilding the town and providing homes for the unfortunate will be given more attention than will be possible until after good health has been insured.

That is the statement made by members of the Portland committee looking after the Heppner relief fund which has been gathered here. No report has yet been made indicating the total that will be necessary to repair—as near as money can repair—the damages wrought by the flood, but gold given by charity continues to pour into the hands

LINEMEN STILL OUT ON STRIKE

Local Men Communicating With Various Points and Are Confident of Being Able to Win the Contest.

Officials of Company Attach Little Importance to Trouble, Stating It Did Not Affect Them Much.

There is no material change in the situation of the striking linemen and linemen. Members of the union say that all the men are out in Portland with the exception of three or four non-unionists, and they seem confident that they will be able to induce them to join the strikers before night. They place little credence in the Associated Press reports from Everett and Spokane to the effect that the linemen at those places refused to walk out in compliance with instructions issued from the Western Conference at San Francisco.

C. A. Eaton, Fourth Vice-President of the International Electrical Workers' Union, arrived in the city last evening from Seattle. Although he did not know for an absolute certainty, but he said this morning that he felt reasonably sure that the men at Everett are out.

"If they are not," he concluded, "they will be in a very short time. I intend to leave for the Sound tonight, and intend to investigate this matter immediately. If I find the men at work I will call them out, and I know they will obey. The Everett workers are all right, and if they are still in the employ of the company it is owing to some misunderstanding on their part."

Operators Refuse to Go Out.
Although headquarters for the striking telephone linemen at San Francisco report everything progressing smoothly and as was ordered by the head of the Linemen's Union, local conditions do not bear out this assertion and reports from Tacoma also tend to disprove this report. Seeking to gain power and to force the issue by tying up the entire telephone system throughout the Northwest, the linemen this morning requested the telephone operators to refuse to answer calls and finger the "plugs" on the switchboards until the demands made by the strikers had been granted. This the operators flatly refused to do. Had the wish of the linemen been obeyed in this particular Portland and every other city in the Northwest would have been deprived of telephone communication and messenger boys or actual word of mouth would have been the only means of rapid transfer of ideas, telegraphic facilities being obviously inadequate to take the place of the "hello line."

Close at 12 on Fourth.
The "Barber" union met last night and subscribed $100 to the proposed cooperative laundry in addition to the amount donated at a former meeting. A resolution was also passed by the Union to the effect that all shops must close on July 4 at 12 o'clock, but on the preceding evening may be kept open until 9 o'clock of 8 o'clock. At the next meeting delegates to the Federated Trades Council and three members of an arbitration board will be elected.

ALL DISOBEY ORDER OF MORMON CHURCH
Three Hundred Young People May Be Excommunicated for Attending Dance.

SALT LAKE, June 24.—Because they disobeyed an order of the church authorities 600 young Mormons of both sexes are threatened with excommunication. The cause of the trouble was brought about by 300 attending a dance in the pavilion which was started in opposition to one owned by the church.

LEGISLATURE MEETS
(Journal Special Service.)
TOPEKA, Kan., June 24.—The State Legislature convened this afternoon in extraordinary session to legislate on relief for the flood sufferers.

NO CHANGE IN TACOMA.
TACOMA, Wash., June 24.—The strike situation here is unchanged. The men are still out and no work is being done on the wires. The Sunset Company officials are holding a consultation today. It is said to be the plan of the company to break the strike by moving a squad of linemen from city to city in

THEIR BAIL INCREASED
(Journal Special Service.)
ASTORIA, June 24.—The outlook for Charles R. Lane, alias John L. Bock, who was arrested here last night, is attituded the bank suit against the City of Astoria and obtained $2,500 damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered on a defective street, is decidedly poor. The men are held on a charge of perjury, in that they testified falsely at the trial of the damage suit.

When arraigned yesterday Lane swore that his true name was John Lane, while at two previous trials he had given the name of Bock. Smith, while at former trials he had given the name of George R. Rodgers.

Judge McBride increased their bail to $10,000 each and they were sent to the county jail. Their case will doubtless be tried at this term of court.

START FOR THE PEN

(Journal Special Service.)
ASTORIA, June 24.—James K. White and Charles Finn were taken to Salem last night by Sheriff Livinly to serve out three-year-terms in the penitentiary. White and Finn are the forgers who bilked several local business men and who were found guilty before Circuit Judge McBride.

MARINE NOTES

(Journal Special Service.)
ASTORIA, June 24.—The schooner Churchhill arrived from San Francisco and will load at Knappton. The steamer Homer sailed for Seattle with light-house supplies today. The steamer Columbia arrived from San Francisco this morning.

BURNS CONTRIBUTES

The people of the little City of Burns have been most generous in responding to the Heppner call for aid. Up to date, Burns' citizens have subscribed $25, which sum was sent to the scene of the recent disaster. The benevolent orders of the little city took a very active part in raising the relief fund.

Charles Garrow, cowboy preacher from Oklahoma, will commence revival meetings in Immanuel Mission, 247 Couch street, tonight, continuing every evening during the week.

THINKS OREGON IS WELL ADVERTISED

L. O'Leary Says that Eastern Railroads Do the State Much Good.

F. L. O'Leary, treasurer of the Wash road, was in Portland this morning. St. Louis is home, but he makes a trip to the Coast every year, conferring at various points with sub-agents of the cities of the Sound.

"This is not my first trip to the land," he said, "and I hope not my last. I was here in 1888 and I saw the sea at that time that the present city has grown from. The forward strides of Portland in the past 10 years is remarkable—more remarkable, I think, in the case of Portland than in that of any of the cities of the Sound."

"It is surprising how Eastern railroads are advertising the cities of the West. Not alone the roads that expect to derive direct benefit from the carrying of settlers and tourists, but others east of Chicago, that are interested only from a freight standpoint.

"You will find in Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and a dozen and one other cities of note, every variety of literature bearing on the great resources of the undeveloped West. It is not only offered freely, but it is read, and thousands have come West on the strength of opinions confirmed by reading Oregon literature."

"Regarding railroad matters, I can say but little. One thing that may be of interest is the fact that the Washabash has decided to fight the electric roads locally on their own low-rate basis. The Fort Wayne & Southwestern and the Washabash & Logansport Traction Companies, both interurbans, have made rates so low as to threaten to drive the Washabash from the field.

"After careful consideration by head officials, it was decided that the field was too valuable to desert and announcement has just been made. I am advised, that rates have been reduced to a minimum margin of profit to correspond with those made by the electric roads. This applies between Logansport and Fort Wayne, and is, I think, the first time a steam road has offered direct competition to an electric line."

"Much as I dislike to own it, it is a fact that no railroad man will deny that steam roads have the fight of their lives on hand wherever electric competition enters the field. Many a line has abandoned local passenger and freight traffic rather than enter what appears to be a losing fight. The Washabash has sounded the alarm in Indiana and intends to stay by its decision to cut to the lowest notch rather than give up the fight in its own territory."
