purposes. But they never did. After the line had been run and the survey ready for grading, a call was made by the company for the coin. The promoters were calmly told that the road had to come that way anyhow and there would be no money forthcoming. No appeal to the honor of the town was recognized. The road had to come there and that's all there was to it. Such being the case there was no reason why they should be called upon to part with their coin when there was plenty of whisky being brought in on muleback and sold at the rate of two bits a gulp. The $5,000 would get numerous gulps ard it was better to have a few swal-lows than a railroad that had to pass through the town whether they got a subsidy or not. But the men who were behind the railroad had built railroads before. They knew how and where to construct them and when they were given the merry laugh and you've-got-to-comehere package they simply swung their survey through the middle of the valley and left Jacksonville on the hillside five miles away. the city.

The city authorities are considering the proposition of either filling in the site of the present Williams avenue bridge on the East Side, or constructing a new bridge. The structure is said # be in an extremely rotten condition, and in immediate need of repairs.

Last fall the bridge was condemned by City Enginer Elliott and closed to traffic, but the City & Suburban repaired its section and was allowed to run cars over it. The driveway was also fenced in until recently, when a section was removed, and for a time the dangerous driveway was used by vehicles until it was closed a second time. Now the City & Suburban has issued an ultimatum to the effect unless the city immediately make re-pairs the company will build a new bridge, as allowed by its franchise, and assess three-quarters of the cost to
