QUESTION SEEMS TO BE SETTLED

Officials Believe Council Can Order Marshall Street Improvement Without Legal Complications.

The question of possible legal complications over the City Council ordering the proposed paving of Marshall street, in compliance with the expressed desire of the property-owners, seems to have been settled in favor of the petitioners for the improvement. Several of the city's officials who have investigated the question since the last Council meeting, when the petition was referred to a committee for investigation, are now of the opinion that no violation of the law will be made in granting the request for a specified paving material. It was stated in open meeting when the Council was in session last Wednesday that such an act would be creating a monopoly, which is prohibited by the statutes.

Russell, the Superintendent of the Union home, is endeavoring to make all the women who have taken quarters under her care, feel thoroughly at home.
