WOODMEN CROWN PRETTY QUEENS

On Coronation Night the Carnival Was Largely Attended—Many Visitors from Outside Cities There.

Francis Clarno Is Mysterious King and A. B. Ferrera Plays the Jester—Women of Woodcraft Tonight.

Today the reign of Queen Emma I and King Clarno is at its zenith. Last night was Coronation Night at the Woodmen's Carnival and within the Park Blocks were assembled as large a crowd of spectators as ever were confined in a similar district of this city. The spectators were from all over the Pacific Northwest—the representation from the towns which had elected queens being especially large.

It was shortly after the hour of 8 o'clock when the procession of royal personages started from the Hotel Portland and after a circuit of the business section of the city the ride to the carnival grounds was made.

The parade was headed by DeCaprio's Military Band, followed in turn by Col. Harry L. Day, assistant director-general in charge of the Uniform Rank degree team of the Woodmen.

The carriage of Queen Emma was the first in the line of vehicles, which was guarded by the degree team of Albion Camp, following in the rear. The Queen's maids were in the next carriage—the third being occupied by King Francis Clarno, Lord High Chamberlain J. W. Morrow, Coss Jester A. B. Ferrera, and High Priest F. E. Coulter.

The queens from the outside cities were next in line and were followed in a carriage by Mayor Williams, Edward Worlein, Woodman of the World Orator, and Director-General J. J. Jennings.

Several other carriages were in the parade and were occupied by leading members of the carnival committee.

Arriving at the Stadium the coronation ceremonies were held with Queen Emma on the center throne. The other queens were grouped about her.

Then followed several orations by leading Woodmen, which in turn were followed by a speech from Queen Emma to her loyal subjects.

The successful carrying out of the coronation program is due to the untiring efforts of George L. Hutchins, who has worked on the contest for queen and the formation of the coronation program for many weeks.

Tonight is especially set apart for the Women of Woodcraft, who will render a specially prepared program. Tomorrow evening will be the red-letter occasion of the fair—"Woodmen's Night."

LAUNDRY WORKERS GIVE UP CONTEST

Decide to Return to Work for the Members of the Association.

After being on a strike, or lockout, since May 2, because they demanded a nine-hour workday instead of a 10-hour day, the laundry workers have decided to give up the fight. They will now try to secure their old positions with the members of the association, if they are still open to them.

For a time about 400 laundry workers were idle. At the time they failed to get immediate assistance from their international organization, as they had expected, and one by one members deserted the union for their former places, many through sheer necessity. There were finally left in the union only 65 who undertook to carry on the fight. They would have prolonged the struggle indefinitely, it is stated, had it not been for the action of the United States Laundry, which had made an agreement with the union. Last Monday it made an application to join the Laundrymen's Association, and the strikers then became discouraged and decided to capitulate. It is said that the United States Laundry was forced to take the action it did.

LETTER OF THANKS

Assistant Secretary Mossesohn of the Chamber of Commerce received the following letter of acknowledgment from Mrs. Strowbridge, whose honored husband recently died.

"To the President, Officers and Members of the Chamber of Commerce:
"Dear Sirs:—Please accept my grateful acknowledgment of the kind expression of sympathy in our recent sorrow, and the beautiful testimonial of the high regard and esteem in which you held the loss of my dear husband. Your thoughtful consideration is deeply appreciated. For 50 years my husband carried the interests of his beloved Portland upon his heart, and the welfare and progress of Oregon were his joy and pride. Most sincerely yours, MARY C. STROWBRIDGE.
"Portland, Or., July 16, 1933."

REDUCED RATES TO THE SEASIDE

Go to Newport on Yaquina Bay—an ideal beach. It is becoming very popular with the Portland people. The low rate of $3.00 has been made by the Southern Pacific Company in connection with the Corvallis & Eastern Railroad for the Sunday round trip from Portland, tickets good going Saturday, returning Monday.

A delightful ride through the beautiful Willamette Valley, with privilege of going up one side of the Willamette River, returning the other.

Ask any Southern Pacific Company or Corvallis & Eastern Railroad agent for a beautifully illustrated booklet describing the seaside resorts at Yaquina.

Try using soapy water for making starch. It is said that the linen will be given a gloss by this means and that the irons will not stick.

PAINTERS DON'T LIKE A. F. OF L.

Decide to Try Their Fortunes with the American Labor Union at a Well-Attended Meeting Last Night.

Committee Appointed to Organize a Central Labor Body—Say Other Unions Will Follow Their Lead.

Recent efforts made by local representatives of the American Labor Union have at last borne fruit.

At a well-attended meeting of the Painters' Union last night a committee of five was appointed with instructions to organize at once a central body which is to be affiliated with the American Labor Union.

While the painters claim that this action does not necessarily imply that they intend to give up their charter in the American Federation of Labor, well-known leaders of the latter organization say that it can have no other interpretation. For several years past the American Labor Union and the American Federation of Labor have been fighting for supremacy in the West. The former holds undisputed sway in the Rocky Mountain States, and the latter is equally strong on the Pacific Coast. Samuel Gompers leads the A. F. of L., while Daniel McDonald of Butte presides over the destinies of the A. L. U.

Gaining a Foothold. Until last winter not a local of the A. L. U. was in the State of Oregon; now there are five in different towns of the Willamette Valley, those having been mentioned a short time ago in the columns of The Journal. When they were being formed the invasion into their territory was viewed with some alarm by local leaders of the A. F. of L., but they consoled themselves with the remark:

"A few outside towns do not matter much, but they (the A. L. U. men) will never be able to secure a foothold in Portland. We are too strongly organized here for them."

On April 6 the painters of this city inaugurated a strike for increased wages. After being out for more than two months they lost, and they attribute their defeat in a great measure to the alleged cold indifference of the Federated Trades Council of Portland, as to their welfare. From the day of their defeat a large number of the painters, at least have been dissatisfied with the American Federation of Labor, and have been industriously working to get into the A. L. U., and their determination to do so assumed definite shape at their meeting last night.

Will Others Follow? It is also stated that a number of the other unions, whose members are engaged in the building line and other organizations will follow the lead of the painters. Some of those employed in bringing about this result are confident that nearly all the unions which formerly composed the Building Trades Council will fall in line with them in swelling the ranks of the A. L. U.

This view of the matter is scoffed at by the A. F. of L. representatives, however, a few of them going so far as to say that they are better off without the painters, but they believe that none of the other unions will desert them. While both sides are inclined to belittle the influence of the other, it is apparent that each is aroused to the seriousness of the situation.

Card System Again.

It is announced that the Carpenters' Union will again take up the card system which was abolished at the timethe labor difficulties were on. While they will not refuse to work on the same buildings with non-union mechanics of other crafts, it is stated that they will not do so with carpenters who are not members of their union. The reason assigned for taking this stand is that there are now more non-union carpenters at work than there should be, and an attempt will be made either to have them join the Union or thrown out of employment. Out of 800 carpenters at work in the city it is said that more than 100 of them are non-unionists. These latter came in from other places during the strike.

Longshoremen Meet.

The Longshoremen's Union No. 265, held its semi-monthly meeting last night. There was a good attendance, but nothing but routine business was transacted. No. 264 will meet tonight.

PETTY THIEVES ARE UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

These are busy times for crooks of all kinds, who seem to be working with absolutely no fear of arrest.

J. A. Anderson, rooming at the International Hotel, Third and Everett streets, was the victim of a sneak thief last night. The burglar entered room 64 and took a suit of clothes and $19 in money, belonging to Anderson.

Burglars gained entrance to the feed store of Lynch Bros., 264 Front street, but were evidently frightened away before they had time to accomplish their purpose. Only a small looking glass was taken.

L. P. Lamere, 262 Clay street, has reported to the police the theft of his watch, which was stolen from his pocket Monday. The timepiece was a silver hunting case.

M. Hansen, 86 North Sixteenth street, reports that about midnight burglars entered the basement of his residence and stole an ax. The sleeping householder was aroused and gave chase to the intruder, who made a hasty flight. Later in the night they attempted to break into the adjoining residence at 84 North Sixteenth street, but they were unsuccessful.

W. TUCKER DID NOT STOP WHEN BID TO

He Encountered Two Men Near Montgomery Gulch Bridge Early This Morning.

W. Tucker, a fireman in the Albina pumping station, thinks an attempt was made last night to hold him up. Tucker resides at 341 Front street, and returns to his home in the early morning after being relieved from duty at midnight.

About 12:30 o'clock this morning he was on his way home, and was just crossing the Montgomery Gulch bridge when he noticed two men standing near a telephone pole. Tucker, who was riding a bicycle, at once thought of the robbers now operating in this city, and he began to pump his machine for dear life. The men ran toward him, yelling for him to stop. Tucker never looked back, but kept plugging away homeward. No shots were fired after him.

As it was quite dark at the place the men were standing, the bicyclist says he was unable to obtain a very good description of them. He says they appeared to be short and quite heavy-set. The police seem of the opinion that the men in the shadow were not "hold-ups."

WILL CHANGE LOCATION

Portland Chamber of Commerce Will Probably Move West Week.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce which now occupies a part of the office of the Board of Trade, will probably move to their new headquarters in the Mohawk Building, Third and Morrison streets, next week. The new rooms are large and comfortable, all furnished with the latest and best furniture that could be bought. Their quarters were formerly at 246 Washington street, but on account of strikes, have occupied a desk in the Board of Trade offices for over four months. The permanent exhibit will occupy one large room and the other two rooms will be used as offices.

VANDERBILT HIS FERRYMAN

NEW YORK, July 17.—William Blair of River Edge, N. J., was 91 years old today, and his relatives and neighbors gave him a reception on his lawn. Despite his advanced age Mr. Blair was as chipper as any of his grandchildren present. In his prime Mr. Blair was one of the most widely known sailmakers on the Atlantic Coast and during the 60 years he was engaged at his trade he rigged out many of the best boats that left this port. It was while making a trip between Staten Island and Perth Amboy to measure a vessel that he paid 25 cents to Commodore Vanderbilt for rowing him across the Kills.

DIE ON SAME SCAFFOLD

SOUTH MALESTER, I. T. July 17.—

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson

Everything is in readiness for the double execution which takes place here this afternoon in the federal jail stockade. The condemned persons are Charles Barrett, who killed John Hennessy, an aged miner, his money, and Dora Wright, colored, who whipped a little child to death and then mutilated the corpse to throw suspicion on a white man. Strenuous efforts were made to save the Wright woman from the scaffold, but without avail. Her attorney journeyed to Washington in an effort to obtain clemency from the President. Mr. Roosevelt, however, after going over the transcript of the evidence and learning the revolting character of the crime, said: "A woman never enough to do that ought to have nerve enough to meet her punishment."

BREWER'S ADDRESS

(Journal Special Service.)
DES MOINES, Ia., July 17.—There was an increased attendance of delegates this morning when the Iowa State Bar Association began the second day of its annual meeting. The feature of the forenoon session was the annual address which was delivered by Justice Brewer of the United States Supreme Court. Justice Brewer took as his subject, "The Triumph of Justice," and his remarks were listened to with rapt attention by a large and distinguished audience. Before taking final adjournment late this afternoon the Association will choose officers for the ensuing year.

ART EXHIBIT OPEN

Portland Association Permits Visitors to View Works on Week Day Afternoons.

The Portland Art Association has thrown open its doors for the public to view its wonderful collection of paintings. Among the display are works of Thomas Gainsborough and Sir Joshua Reynolds. These famous men were rivals and each posed men and women of their day famous for their grace and beauty. Thomas Gainsborough painted the royal portraits for King George III of England. The King George and Queen Charlotte series, which was chosen for this exhibition, are historically as great interest as any of his works. Other paintings by Reynolds include his own portrait and that of Dr. Samuel Johnson, also ones showing these charming bits of child life.

A very interesting part of the exhibition are photographs chosen to illustrate the work of great masters. The pictures were selected without regard to dates, thus showing the work of great artists of all lands and ages. The glory of the Renaissance is shown by a Leonardo da Vinci, a Raphael and a Titian; the Dutch School by Hals and Rembrandt; Germany by Holbein and Durer. Spanish art is illustrated by Velasquez, while Rubens and Van Dyck show the glories of the Flemish schools.

The cast room is full of work in sculpture of Greeks and Romans and is very attractive to art lovers. The rooms are open every afternoon except Sunday, from 2 to 4:30 o'clock.

EPWORTH LEAGUERS HAVE A BUSY DAY

Sunrise Prayer Meeting Opens Second Session at the Detroit Gathering.

DETROIT, Mich., July 17.—The second day's session of the Epworth League international conference began at an early hour this morning with a "sunrise prayer meeting" in the Central M. E. Church. There were present nearly 1,000 delegates. The exercises were led by Rev. S. B. Towne, D. D., of Greencastle, Ind. Following the exercises an experience meeting was held, in which delegates from nearly every state of the Union and from several of the Canadian provinces participated.

It is estimated that there are fully 18,000 Leaguers in the city. In spite of the early hour this morning was so well prepared for the entertainment of the visitors that not nearly half its entertaining capacity is exhausted. The residents report that they are not crowded in the least.

Four separate conferences were held this morning in as many meeting places. When the delegates assembled in the Central M. E. Church, H. E. V. Porter of Jamestown, N. Y., presiding, the splendid choir led a short service of song, after which the morning topics were taken up in 10-minute speeches by the delegates. "The Heart of the Weekly Devotional Meeting" was the first subject by Rev. H. E. Werlian of Lenoxville, Que. Under the lead of "Our Obligation to the Juniors," Mrs. Anna H. Woodcock of Aurora, Neb., delivered an interesting address. "Training the Worker for Personal Work" was the topic assigned Rev. A. B. Higgins of Middleton, Can. Rev. F. S. Parker of Crowley, La., spoke on the subject, "Prayer a Farce in League Work," and Rev. J. J. Robinette of Maryville, Tenn., closed the session with an address on "The Presence of the Spirit an Essential."

Missionary papers and discussions occupied the time of the delegates assembled in the Detroit Opera House. W. W. Cooper of Kanawha, Wis., presided over this meeting and the speakers included John W. Pennington of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Rev. Seth Ward, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn.; and Miss Bessie Brooks of Heaven, Pa. The Juniors held away in the Central Presbyterian Church, where the problems of child culture, study courses, and the enlistment of adult helpers were some of the topics discussed.

The literary and social work of the league were the chief subjects of consideration at the fourth of the forenoon conferences, held in the Fort Street Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. M. Workman of Benning, Ark., presiding. After an offering of prayer by the Rev. M. W. Dogan of Marshall, Tex., papers treating of social fellowship, reading rooms and the literary activities of the league were presented by Rev. W. P. Ewald of Bloomsburg, Pa.; Miss Clara Wallace of Toronto, Rev. C. O. Jones of Knoxville, Tenn.; Rev. W. E. Grose of Baldwin, Kan., and others.

A wide range of subjects relating to league and denominational work were discussed at the three large meetings of the afternoon, prominent among the speakers being Rev. S. G. Thompson of Oklahoma City, Rev. F. H. Conant of Buffalo, Rev. G. A. Hough of Los Angeles, I. Garland Penn of Atlanta, James M. Ogden of Indianapolis, and Rev. E. J. Manning of Montreal. The Rev. R. J. Campbell, pastor of the People's Temple, London, is one of the eminent speakers to be heard at the meetings tonight.
