Wreck of the Steamer North Pacific in Admiralty Inlet, surrounded by the Salvage Steamers Wanderer, Captain Morrison; Dauntless, Captain Hastings, and Falcon, Captain Burley, Just Prior to the Attempt to Haul Her Free of the Mudbank.

(Journal Special Service.) ROME, July 22.—At 6 o'clock this morning the doors of St. Peter's were thrown open. From then until 3 o'clock this afternoon a constant crowd took its last look at the remains of Leo. At 3 o'clock the doors were again closed and only the specially invited being admitted between 4 and 5 o'clock this evening. The same program will be carried out tomorrow and on Saturday as well.

No one remained in the square of St. Peter's over night, but at daybreak the assembling began. Fifteen hundred persons were crowding against the barriers when 6 o'clock struck.

Three companies of Italian Grenadiers appeared from the Vatican portico where they had been in waiting. One company entered the portico while the other two formed lines from the barrier gates to the cathedral doors. Inside the cathedral 50 Carabinieri of crack patrol, aided by gendarmes, kept the crowd moving. When the gates first opened a crowd of boys and men raced up the steps at top speed. All were decorous when they arrived inside, however.

The catafalque is so placed that the Pontiff's feet are inside the railing. Some persons expressed keen disappointment because they were unable to pay the last homage by kissing the Pontiff's feet. The Pope is fully robed. A noble guardsman stands at each corner of the catafalque with a Maltese guardsman at each side. Swiss guards are in the rear, only a railing dividing them from the blue-coated Italian troops.

All antagonism between the church and state is temporarily forgotten in mutual honor to the dead. Five more companies of troops and an ambulance corps have been added to the guard outside, but the latter are not needed. The crowd is ten times greater than at the Easter jubilee.

This afternoon, however, the crowd is far below that expected, for at 12:30 the heat became so great that the line commenced to dwindle. Restrictions at the entrance are no longer necessary and people passed in and out as they pleased. Some comment is caused because the crowd is so much smaller than that which attended the obsequies of Pius IX. The difference is accounted for by the authorities from the fact that political feeling has died out, intense heat and absence of tourists.

ROBBERY OF SACRED CHURCH OF ST. MARY

(Journal Special Service.) MOUNT ANGEL, Or., July 23.—This town is thrown into a fever of excitement today by the discovery that during last night thieves entered beautiful St. Mary's Church here and pried open and badly damaged the Tabernacle. The Ciborium and the Golden Lunula were stolen. Some valuable tokens were scattered around the edifice.

The greatest indignation is felt throughout this section. At Mount Angel's College expressions of the deepest regret are heard. Yesterday there were three men of bad appearance seen loitering in the vicinity of the church, and to these is attached the blame of the deed. The miscreants were not satisfied with robbery, but they defaced even the walls of the sacred house of worship.

SAILOR BOARDING-HOUSE LAW IS GOOD

From Tenor of Arguments Measure May Be Declared Constitutional.

In the injunction suit of Smith & White Brothers against the State Board of Sailor Boarding House Commissioners, Henry E. McGinn, attorney for the defense, filed a demurrer to the alternative writ of mandamus on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction over the subject matter complained of in the complaint. In support of his contention Judge McGinn held that the power to issue licenses to sailor boarding house proprietors was within the discretion of the board, and the court could not remove it. In support of his assertion he cited the case against McGinn (himself) as District Attorney, wherein he was cited to appear before the court in mandamus proceedings in the Simon Everding Police Commissionership contest about 14 years ago.

THE POLICE COURT GRIND

The cases of larceny against Mabel Butler, who is accused of stealing a watch from Jessie Evers and money and a check from Fred Schlegel, were again continued in the Police Court today. After the testimony had been heard the case was dismissed on a plea for dismissal because of insufficient evidence. Judge Hogue was of the opinion that the complaint should have charged her with larceny as bawler and the matter will again be considered today.

MAKING IT HARD FOR THE JEWS

Advices State That There Is Serious Trouble Ahead for the Race in Russia, as Result of Petition.

Grave Displeasure Is Said to Have Been Occasioned Among High Officials by Action of Americans.

Jews Will Be Expelled from Moscow and St. Petersburg and Taxes Will Be Raised—Strict Emigration Laws.

(Journal Special Service.) LIVERPOOL, July 23.—From authentic advices the Post today published a long article, in which it states that there is serious trouble ahead for the Jews of Russia as a result of the Kishineff petition.

It says that grave displeasure has been created among the ruling classes of Russia, and they now desire to show America that their government was un-influenced by the correspondence on the Jewish question.

A high Russian official who is responsible for the article in the Post says that Russia will enact a more rigid expulsion law and will send all Jews from Moscow and St. Petersburg to interior provinces, and will, besides this, increase their taxes.

It is said that emigration laws will be the most severe where the Jew is concerned, and that it will be almost impossible for those with any wealth to get out of the country.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY WILL SUE

Proceedings Will Be Commenced at Once to Recover Amount of Shortage Found Against Former County Clerks

Expert Found Deficiencies in Books of L. Q. Swetland and the Late H. H. Holmes Amounting to Nearly $3,500.

It Was During Their Terms that Many of the Notorious Tax Settlements by the County Board Were Effected.

Suits will be instituted within a few days against L. Q. Swetland and the estate of H. H. Holmes, to recover the amounts of the shortages discovered in the County Clerk's office by the expert who has been investigating the various departments of the county government.

"I am engaged now in preparing the complaints," said District Attorney John Manning this morning; "and they will be filed early next week. We shall sue the Holmes estate for $2,945.66, and Swetland for $516.60. The preparation of the complaints is a complicated matter and will take several days, but we shall have them ready within four or five days. No suit will be brought against former County Clerk H. C. Smith, as the amount of the shortage in his accounts, discovered by the expert, was only $6.50."

The late Hanley H. Holmes was County Clerk from July 5, 1898, to November 14, 1901, the date of his death. L. Q. Swetland was a deputy in his office and during the last year of Holmes' term, Swetland occupied the position of chief deputy. On November 20, 1901, Swetland was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Holmes' death, and he was County Clerk from that date until July 1, 1902. During the last few months of Holmes' life he was necessarily absent from his office for much of the time, and Swetland, as chief deputy, was in charge.

Total Shortage Nearly $3,500. The expert employed to investigate this department discovered shortages under Holmes' administration amounting to $2,945.66, a large proportion of the items occurring during the period that Swetland was chief deputy. During the eight months that Swetland was County Clerk the shortages amounted, according to the expert, to $516.60.

It is worthy of note that it was during the terms of Holmes and Swetland that many of the notorious tax settlements now under investigation were effected. Some of these transactions give evidence, as the expert notes, of collusion on the part of some person in the County Clerk's office.

Mr. Swetland disputes the amount of the shortage against him by the expert, and insists that if there is anything wrong in the records during the time he was County Clerk it was due to the carelessness or malfeasance of some of his deputies.

ANCIENT QUARREL REVIVED

Oregon City Woman Waited 20 Years Before Filing Suit for Divorce Against Her Husband.

She Says They Fought Over a Sack of Flour Two Decades Ago and that Her Nose Was Broken.

Husband Is a Rich Man and Declares He Will Fight the Case as He Still Loves the Erratic Woman.

(Journal Special Service.) OREGON CITY, July 23.—A broken nose, which she claimed was inflicted upon her by the willful act of her husband, more than 20 years ago, forms the ground for a complaint for divorce, which Mrs. Sophia Grimm has filed before the Clackamas County Court. Cruelty and inhuman treatment are charged. Mr. and Mrs. Grimm have been married 30 years, and have five children.

The fight in which the plaintiff in this action sustained her injury was the result of a quarrel over the price paid for a sack of flour.

The court has notified the husband to advance $400, with which the wife may prosecute the suit, and has also ordered him to pay $20 a month for her maintenance until final judgment.

William Grimm, who was in this city yesterday, is a rich man and announces he will fight the suit to the last ditch. He says his wife is frivolous and often stays out all night at dances, but that he loves her still.

The Grimms formerly resided in Texas, but came to Oregon in 1895.

PATERSON LOSS IS LESS THAN REPORT

Examination of Wreckage Today Proves Original Estimates Far Too Heavy.

(Journal Special Service.) PATERSON, N. J., July 23.—Two thousand people are engaged in cleaning the streets today as a result of last night's tornado.

The damages have been grossly exaggerated. There were three killed and possibly 100 injured, but all of the latter will recover.

The first reports of the property loss were that it would exceed $1,000,000, but it is today announced it will not be greater than $250,000.

RELIANCE WINS RACE

The Reliance won from the Columbia in today's race. At 3:30 o'clock the Reliance started for home two miles ahead of her rival.

NEWPORT, July 23.—The official start of the boats was 11:47. There was a boiling sea and an eight-knot breeze. The Constitution failed to get a new mast in time to participate. The start was one of the bitterest ever witnessed. Commodore Morgan had Columbia's wheel and Captain Barr had Reliance's. When the warning gun sounded Barr carried the Reliance up on the Columbia and threw her over the weather quarter.

CHICAGO IN MORE TROUBLE

Union Workman Shot Down by Boss Who Was Leading Body of Non-Union Men to Work in Place of Strikers.

Man, Who Is the Brother of Factory Owner, Escapes Being Lynched Only by Timely Arrival of Police.

Several Meetings of Union Men Are Called and Serious Complications Are Expected to Arise.

(Journal Special Service.) CHICAGO, July 23.—Great excitement was occasioned this morning when Robert Kuter, a union striker, was shot and fatally injured by Adolph Ehman, a brother of Charles Ehman, the owner of the Ehman Mantle Company.

Serious complications are almost sure to arise from the incident as already several meetings have been called by union labor organizations to take action against what is called "the despotism of bosses."

As it happened the speedy arrival of the police at the mantle factory alone prevented the lynching of the murderer. The trouble was occasioned when Adolph Ehman appeared at the head of a body of non-union workmen whom he was escorting to his brother's factory to take the places of men out on strike. He flourished a revolver in his right hand, and when near the entrance to the factory he observed a delegation of strikers who had assembled to see his brother. Ehman told the body to clear out, as several of the strikers were blocking the progress of the procession of non-unionists. Robert Kuter told Ehman that he would not leave, and without the scene was shot.

As he fell several union men attempted to grab the man with the gun but he was too quick and entered the factory and barred the doors and then summoned the police.

The non-union men who did not succeed in getting inside the building were roughly handled before the police arrived.

Ehman is severely criticised by the police and by everybody in touch with the situation, as his action was that of cold-blooded murder, as those who witnessed the scene say that he was in no manner assaulted. Ehman was arrested and taken to the station, where he is held without bonds.

The occurrence starts afresh the warlike demonstration against non-union men which began more than 10 days ago.

Serious trouble is expected tonight, and the police have been notified to await a possible riot call.
