

VANCOUVER

CLARKE COUNTY
BONDS ARE GOOD

Eastern Firms Are Eager to Buy Short Term School Bonds at Low Prices and Pay Big Premium.

Bonds Repaid in Eight Years, Sell at 4 Per Cent to State Land Commissioners—Bids Were Plenty.

(Journal Special Service.) VANCOUVER, Wash., July 29.—The school directors in session last night opened bids for the issue of $14,000 in bonds which has been authorized by a recent election for erection of a new building. The members of the board soon discovered that the credit of Clarke County is very good, even to the far parts of the country, for several Chicago firms were willing to pay a premium for these short term bonds and also to accept them at a low rate of interest.

The best bid, however, came from the Land Commissioners of the state who offered to take the entire issue of bonds without premium at 4 per cent. As the bonds run for only eight years at the farthest, and are repaid $2,000 a year, beginning in 1904, this bid of the commissioners was considered unusually low and was accepted as the best proposal offered.

One local business man, J. W. P. Anderson, bid 4 1/2 per cent for $2,000 to run the longest term of years, and his bid was the next best, but the directors desired to dispose of the entire issue to one party if it could be done to advantage. Chicago firms were in the field in numbers, three being eager for the bonds. These were the Royal Trust Company, S. A. Kean and C. N. Ellinwood & Co. The Royal Trust Company offered to take the bonds at 5 1/2 per cent and to pay $25 premium. The Kean firm would take them at 5 per cent and pay $34 premium, and Ellinwood & Co. offered a premium of $101 and a per cent of 5. W. D. Perkins & Co. bid a per cent on the issue.

A bid was offered for the glass and glazing work on the new building by Fuller & Co. of Portland, their bid being $376, which was accepted by the board.

POOR OUTLOOK FOR FALL MOBILIZATION

Department of Columbia Will Hardly Have Funds Enough for General Muster.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 29.—It is believed at department headquarters here that there will be no general mobilization of militia and regulars the coming fall, and that even the troops of the department will not be ordered into a general camp on the Sound. Regiments may go together, but nothing like a general muster will be attempted.

Some time ago it seemed evident that the militia of Washington, Oregon and Idaho would not join with the soldiers of the army, because the various states did not have sufficient funds to provide for the heavy transportation bills, nor could the volunteers all leave their various pursuits at the same time. Now it seems that even the government is shy of funds for its troops and they may have to take their fall maneuvers in small doses.

Department authorities point out the fact that it costs more to mobilize the troops of this section than those of any other in the land. That large numbers of men would have to be transported great distances and that the unusually large number of forts in the department means that many small bodies of men would have to be concentrated at considerable expense. In the East the work is easy and, according to reports, it would appear that three Eastern departments could be gathered into one camp easier than the men in this department could be placed in three or four central grounds, let alone the question of making one gathering of the entire force.

AN UNLUCKY MAN'S STORY

John Sandys Has Been Cheated by Death and Fire and Wishes Court to Aid Him.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 29.—In a petition to clear his title to a quarter section of Clarke County land, filed in the Superior Court here, John Sandys relates a hard luck story.

Mr. Sandys states that years ago he purchased from W. A. Sandys a half of his quarter section, that the deed was not made out because the brother died soon after making the bargain and receiving the money.

After the death of W. A. Sandys, it is alleged, John Sandys and his nephew, the deceased, H. L. Sandys, Samuel Sandys and Mattie Sandys, were, with the petitioner, John, made heirs of the estate, which consisted of the disputed quarter section. Later the three other heirs are said to have decided their portion and interest in the quarter to John, but before he could make a town trip and have the instrument recorded, a fire burned the deed and no record was left of the other transaction. Now the plaintiff prays that the court clear up his title to the quarter section and arrange matters that neither death nor fire can dispose of his right to the land twice purchased.

Bids Comrades Goodbye. VANCOUVER, Wash., July 29.—The musical program rendered at the post hall for the enlisted men and their friends last night was unusually good and pleased those present more than any of the former occasions. The feature of the evening was the impromptu farewell talk given by private N. M. Young, of Company E, Nineteenth Infantry. Mr. Young has been in the service for three years and this morning was honorably discharged. On the last night of his service he spoke to his comrades in a hearty, sympathetic strain that touched the men that had marched and fought with him as nothing but the heartfelt words of a comrade could. The selections rendered by Miss Florence Chaffee were greatly appreciated by the audience.

Women love a clear, healthy complexion. Pure blood makes it. Burdock Blood-Bitters makes pure blood.

OREGON CITY

Simple-Minded Lad. OREGON CITY, July 29.—John Rex, a lad of 17, was brought to this city today charged with having entered a house and purloined a rifle. The boy was brought in from Marquam and is simple minded. He was remanded to the jail for safe-keeping.

Soldiers "Up in the Air." OREGON CITY, July 29.—The members of the disorganized company of militia in this city are "up in the air" as to just what they are going to do with the property they have on hand. Some want to sell it and distribute the money among the individual members; others are anxious to organize an athletic society and rent the armory for a clubroom. Others would form a theatrical troupe and give entertainments, while there are still others who do not care just what they do. The company, when disbanded had property valued at about $600, including a fine piano.

Father and Son Arrested.

SALEM, July 29.—Mathias Springer and James V. Springer, father and son, were arrested last night, at their farm home, seven miles north of Salem, and brought here on warrants charging them with assault and battery, alleged to have been committed on Joseph La Follett yesterday afternoon. The Springers had rented a piece of ground for a hay crop from La Follett, and when cutting the hay, left some 20 acres uncultivated. Springer, Jr., it seems, told La Follett they would not cut the hay, so the latter, not wishing to lose his interest in the crop, hired two men to help him in harvesting the crop, when the younger Springer assaulted La Follett. A fight took place and the elder Springer took a hand with a large wrench, and when La Follett took this weapon away from the old man, the son rushed to the house, seized a gun, and threatened to shoot La Follett unless he left the place. Bystanders intervened, taking the gun from the enraged man and thus averted what might have become a tragedy.

The elder Springer then, in order to settle the quarrel, agreed to cut the hay crop, and deliver La Follett's share to the latter. La Follett at once came to Salem and swore out warrants for the arrest of the two men. They were arrested this morning and released on their own recognizance, and their trial will probably take place this evening.

Greater Salem Club.

SALEM, July 29.—The Greater Salem Commercial Club met last night, and appointed ex-Sheriff Frank W. Durbin a committee of one, with power to appoint any assistants required, for the purpose of raising a subscription of $1,000 for the Greater Salem stake of $2,000 to be offered at the state fair this fall. Salem always provides one half the purse for the best racing event of the state fair on Salem Day, and this year the war will be subscribed by the citizens for that purpose.

Fanny Davenport Arrested.

SALEM, July 29.—Fanny Davenport, a woman of ill repute, was arrested last night on the charge of disorderly conduct. She is accused of cursing and abusing the police officers while she was under the influence of liquor. The case is set for hearing in the recorder's court at 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, and the woman has retained an attorney and will fight the case. This will necessitate the employment of an attorney by the city, as Salem has no City Attorney, and the case promises to be a warm one. The woman is out on cash bail.

This is the first instance in a number of years where a like disturbance of the peace has occurred in Salem, the city usually being very orderly, and the officers propose to push the case to the bitter end, in order to prevent a like recurrence in the future.

Next School Pamphlet.

SALEM, July 29.—The Attorney-General has arranged a set of rules and blank forms, for the use of school district officers desirous of issuing bonds and selling them to the State Land Office. The compilation is published in pamphlet form and can be had free, on application at the State Land Office. It gives complete directions to school boards as to the steps to be taken in issuing bonds for sale to the State Land Office, and under the new law all district bonds must be first offered to that office, and when refused, may be sold to other investors. The directions just issued will avoid errors and delays, and will greatly facilitate the transaction of business between the school districts and the State Land Office, it followed by school boards when preparing to issue bonds.

SALEM

WILL GOVERNOR
SAVE THE LIFE?

Attorneys for William P. Peacock, Condemned Murderer, Have Presented Their Case Before State Executive.

Mr. Chamberlain Conversed with Prisoner Himself and Took Final Decision Under Advisement.

(Journal Special Service.) SALEM, July 29.—Late yesterday the attorney for William P. Peacock, who is awaiting execution for murder, appeared before Governor Chamberlain and formally argued the application for commutation of the death sentence of Peacock, who is sentenced to die on August 7. Oscar Hayter, a Dallas attorney, represented the petitioners, while District Attorney J. N. Hart of Dallas appeared against the application and presented a strong remonstrance from the people at Parkers, where the murder of Alex. S. Kerr was committed by Peacock on May 18 last.

The statements of five physicians—Dr. J. P. Calhoun, W. T. Williams, L. F. Griffith of the same city, Dr. Harry Lane, a former superintendent of the asylum, and Dr. W. A. Cusick, late physician at the prison—were placed before the Governor. These physicians had made a critical examination of Peacock and all of the united declaring the man insane on the subject of persecution, and that he was not accountable for the crime committed by him in killing Kerr.

After the Governor had heard the attorneys, he announced that he would himself visit the hunchback and examine him, and he would make his decision known in a few days. During the afternoon Governor Chamberlain visited the prison and for nearly an hour held conversation with Peacock. The Governor did not say what the result of his investigation was, but it is generally believed that he will incline to the side of mercy, and commute Peacock's sentence to life imprisonment.

Restored to Citizenship.

The Governor last evening restored to citizenship Charles Wendling, a Lane County man, who was discharged from the penitentiary on June 6 last after completing a two-year sentence from Benton County for larceny. The pardon was granted for the purpose of restoring Wendling to citizenship, and is based on his excellent prison record, good record before his crime was committed, and excellent behavior since being liberated, and it is done upon the request of a number of influential citizens of Benton and Lane counties who speak in high terms of the young man.

Big Salt Over Calif.

(Journal Special Service.) SALEM, July 29.—F. Goffin, the Fairfield farmer who recently brought suit against L. Aral and Mary Aral, his neighbors, for the possession of a calf claimed by both parties, and which was awarded to the Arals, yesterday afternoon filed his notice of appeal and he will have the case reviewed in the Circuit Court. The testimony at that time showed that the calf was worth about $15, and the costs taxed against Mr. Goffin aggregated $94. Both parties are well-to-do farmers, have plenty of means to fight the case and long and expensive litigation is in prospect, with the probability of the case winding up in the Supreme Court, at cost to the ultimate loser of at least $15,000. The case promises to rival the famous Iowa calf case, wherein a heifer, valued at $4, was in the courts for nine years and cost the original plaintiff $2,800.

EUGENE

EUGENE RESIDENTS
LOOK TOWARD HILLS

Lane County Possesses Many Summering Places Popular with the Public.

(Journal Special Service.) EUGENE, July 29.—The vacation season for business men, clerks, people of leisure and people of work is almost at hand for Lane county residents. In this county every person counts on and looks forward to the few weeks which can be devoted to a careless existence in the wilds of some of the canyons of the county, on one of the numerous fishing streams or in a shady nook where heat does not penetrate and where there is nothing present but comfort.

This happens about the first of August in Lane. The condition brings to the minds of all the various resorts which the county has. Most of them are of the mountains, although at Florence the variety of seaside recreation, so dear to so many, may be enjoyed.

McKenzie Bridge stands first in the list of Lane attractions. This place is not exceeded on the Coast for exquisite scenery and actual benefits as a place to camp and stay for several weeks. As to the scenery, the exuberant youth might say that the Almighty selected that part of Lane county as the spot upon which he decided to paint his masterpiece in landscape. And not only in the color of scenery does McKenzie Bridge satisfy the tourist but the fishing and hunting about the place are unexcelled.

"Uncle George" Frisell, proprietor of the Bridge Hotel or Log Cabin, is a character of the mountains. He comes to "town" but once in a great while and lays in enough provisions to last him and his household a long time. Then he hies back to the haunts where he loves to hook the funny beauties from the valley, babbling waters of the cold McKenzie. He fishes in season and out of season, hunts when he gets ready and is a man of wonderful vivacity for his age. He has made the resort famous and a visitor to Eugene in the summer time has not seen life until he goes to the Cabin and enjoys the hospitality of "Uncle George."

But with the lead that McKenzie Bridge has on other resorts of the county there is no monopoly. There are just as pretty and perhaps more secluded, and thereby more valuable to the hunter, places in the many nooks of the mountains. Foley Hot Springs is a place of health and a happy company is always found there in the heated days of August.

Boswell Hot Springs, on the Southern Pacific line is more easily reached than either McKenzie Bridge or Foley's. Many Sundays are spent there by those whose business cares in the city are so arduous that more time cannot be taken from them.

Kilton Springs are also on the list and other places too numerous for special mention. Lane county is well supplied with places of resort. The coast attracts those who like the ease of travel and elegance of existence, but the sturdy climb of the mountains and the enjoyment of nature in Lane is far more popular than the seaside.

With the close season for deer now past for a short time the resorts expect to be the headquarters of many hunting parties.

Pioneer Woman Dead.

EUGENE, July 29.—Mrs. Mary Phillips, aged 82 years, died in this city yesterday morning. She was an old resident here and leaves a family of seven children.

MYRTLE CREEK IS GAINING WEALTH

Oil Well Being Sunk; New Sawmill Erected and Mines Are Being Developed.

(Journal Special Service.) MYRTLE CREEK, Or., July 29.—Myrtle creek is booming and the boom is caused by unusual activity in the development of mining interests, the sinking of oil wells and the completion of the Johnson Lumber Company's plant here.

The shaft of the oil well has penetrated to a depth of 750 feet, and experts say that indications are good for a fine oil well. The work of sinking this well is being pushed by Contractor Smith, who has crews at the boring machine for 18 hours a day. Inside of 30 days the depth of 1,000 feet will be reached.

Within the next week the lumber plant of the Johnson Company will be ready for work, and a large force of men is already cutting and hauling logs to the mill for conversion into lumber. The sawmill at this mill will run all the year from $4,000 to $5,000 a month, and this alone is expected within six months to increase the population of Myrtle Creek to at least 1,000 people.

There are 40 or more mines in the vicinity of this place, the principal one at the present time being the Chieftain, Continental, Legal Tender, Halls, Two Cranks, Rattler, Yellow Jewel and Johns. On each of these mines work is being rushed with all possible speed and there are a great many strange men in the vicinity examining other properties with a view to purchasing them and undertaking their development. Recently the Rattler changed hands at a handsome price, and the Chieftain and Continental are being purchased. A number of mine owners have refused good offers for their properties, preferring to develop them themselves before placing them on the market.

The prune shipping industry is one of importance in this section of Oregon, and for several years 1,000,000 pounds of this fruit have been handled annually. This amount will be considerably exceeded this season.

Bathers Must Use Tub.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 29.—The Vancouver "tads," named from their affection for muddy water, will no longer disport themselves before the public gaze arrayed in the slenderest of wardrobes. The edict of the City Marshal, today announced, forbids bathing on this time on no swimming will be allowed from the docks, wharfs or other frontage resorts, hitherto patronized by Vancouver youths. It has been the common practice for boys and young men to usurp any bit of vacant wharf or dock for natorial purposes, and of late so bold have the swimmers become that streets near the ferry and boat landings were miniature beaches, where nude youths held sway. Immediate arrest is promised for future offenders.

GRANTS PASS

JOSEPHINE COUNTY
HAS WATERMELONS

Fine Crop in View—Much of the Fruit Finds Its Way Into Portland.

(Journal Special Service.) GRANTS PASS, July 29.—The warm weather is on in good shape here at present, after a comparatively cool season, and the watermelon growers, of which there are many in Josephine County, report that the crop of melons for this year will be large. Down below the city on the bottom lands along Rogue River melons are grown in fields of 40, 50 and even 80 acres. Over these fields the big melons are already smothered under the vines, and the men will be gathered up by the wagonload and brought to this city. Only a very small part of them are consumed by the local demand. Portland gets many Grants Pass melons, as does Tacoma and all Sound points. Here they are very cheap—10 or 15 cents will buy one large enough for a whole family of meloneaters. Some 600 acres are planted in melons in Josephine County this year. Some men engage in the business exclusively. Fifty or more cars will be shipped from here this year.

A Strike Soon Settled.

GRANTS PASS, July 29.—A strike that was soon settled occurred at the sawmills of Hobbs, Wall & Co., near Crescent City, a few days ago, and was brought on by the poor food served to the men at the messhouse. The men had reason to believe that the food was not given to them in quantity nor in quality sufficient to justify their paying the price for board demanded, and when one of the waiters in passing a mince pie declared it was made from scraps picked from the waste barrel, the last straw was broken and the men formed in line and marched to the office of the superintendent. They made known their troubles, and the boss agreed to see that better food was given them.

Too Many Rapids.

GRANTS PASS, July 29.—The Applegate Boom & Lumber Company, whose mills are located on Applegate River, this county, and who tried for the first time the experiment of floating logs down the Applegate, did not meet success in their undertaking. On account of the many rapids and the sudden fall of the river a great part of the logs were hung up on the bars and riffles. They are being gathered up and hauled to the mills by team. The same experiment has been tried on the Rogue, without success.

COTTAGE GROVE IS VERY PROSPEROUS

The Demand for More Resident and Business Houses Is Quite Strong.

(Journal Special Service.) COTTAGE GROVE, July 29.—John Paul Jones, traveling passenger agent for the Southern Pacific, is in the city today for the purpose of stirring the citizens up to the necessity of providing homes for the many settlers who are coming here from the East and have no place to stay while they are looking around. The tide of newcomers is so great that it is a fact that the town badly feels the need of more residences, as well as business houses, as there is not a vacant house of any kind in the city and inquiries are made every day for such. Only a few days ago a prominent Eugene merchant made inquiry for store building for the purpose of putting in a stock of goods here, but he could not find a vacant place.

Business property on Main street is not high in price by any means, and it would be the best paying investment here for anyone to buy and erect business houses for rent, as they are very much in demand.

The Oregon & Southeastern Railroad made such a success of its excursion to the end of the road last Sunday that the management has decided to make regular excursions every Sunday for awhile and provide some amusement for those who avail themselves of the outing.

The business property recently purchased by Mrs. Fields on Main street is being entirely remodeled for an up-to-date storehouse. A second story is being added and a plate glass front on the lower level is being installed. The lower room will be used by Mrs. Fields for her book store.

IMPROVE RIVER FOR LOGS

The Umpqua Is to Be Made Navigable to Rafts by Large Timber Company.

ROSEBURG, July 29.—Relative to an application made several weeks ago by the Oregon Boom & Timber Company for a franchise to use the North Umpqua River for booming timber, an agreement has been reached with the County Court by the applicant's agent, Fred J. Blakely, whereby the company will make extensive improvements on the stream from the present western boundary of the Cascade Forest Reserve to Winchester, five miles north of Roseburg. As soon as the company files the required bond for the performance of the agreement, which is only a matter of a few days, the franchise goes into effect.

The stream after being improved is to be open to all parties for floating timber upon payment of specified tolls for the use of said improvements.

This transaction is one of far-reaching importance to the industrial future of Douglas County, for it signifies the first step toward the utilization of her vast bodies of idle timber. The Oregon Boom & Timber Company is composed of Eastern capitalists whose operations in this county are intended to be gradually extended to all localities where the profitable maintenance of sawmills. Their first mill will be erected at Winchester during the next year and is to have a daily capacity of 100,000 feet.

New Powder Magazine.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 31.—A board of three officers has been selected by the post commander to choose a new site for the garrison powder house. The members of the board are: Maj. Dyer, commanding officer field artillery, Capt. Walton, quartermaster Nineteenth Infantry, and Capt. Craile, Twentieth Infantry. The present powder magazine is an old structure and not sufficient for the needs of the growing post, and its location, near the river, is Japanese Got Drunk.

SALEM, July 29.—S. Nakata, a Japanese employed at the flax farm of Eugene Bosse near here, who was sent to the city by his companions to cash a check for $50.78 belonging jointly to the crew of workmen, became intoxicated and spent a portion of the money, when he was arrested and placed in jail. As the officers yesterday discovered that he owned an undivided interest in the money
