FAREWEL LECTURE

Dr. J. L. York, the noted liberal orator, delivered the last lecture of a course on usual eloquent and forceful style, to a loon. Think this, say this often. The church usual eloquent and forceful style, to a loon. Think this, say this; think this ing at A. O. H. W. W. 1991. ing at A. O. U. W. Hall. An excellent program of literary exercises and music preceding the lecture was greatly appreciated by the audience and added much to the interest of the occasion. A splendid orchestra was furnished by Miss Matie Van Houten. A fine recita-tion was delivered by Miss Zena York of San Francisco and a recitation and a song by Miss Ethel and Miss Eva Clow were well received by the audience, A well-rendered duet by Miss Blanche Quine and Miss Van Houten completed the program.

At the close of the lecture Dr. York expressed his thanks to the liberals of Portland for their kindness and assistance during his stay in this city. A pleasant social hour was usen enjoyed by all, while refreshments were served Despite the fact that a large number of Portlanders have gone for their vacantions to the Sesside and mountains the question of finding suitable vacant meal in the new-found happy hunting lectures about the middle of September. by the ladies of the audience. Taxpayers' League to Fortify Recently Passed Shade Tree

Question of Sewers and Effect on Them of Roots of Passage of an ordinance investing the City Engineer with authority over shade trees has not eliminated that issue from public discussion. While the city officials are credited with good faith and most people are disposed to accept their views at full valuation, some ardent advocates of shade tree preservation be- from other states to settle in Oregon. lieve that either that ordinance should so as to make it the duty of all policemen on their beats to demand the written permit to be issued by the City Engineer from all persons who are seen cutting down or trimming shade trees. Mr. Mulkey believes that this will fortify the ordinance, and make it operative. Otherwise, says he, people will be constantly proceeding without legal authority without the knowledge of the city officials.

Such deep interest has been felt in the natter of shade tree preservation, that expressions of opinion have been constant since the Council passed the ordinance. Many still believe that the park board should have been invested with the authority that has been given to the City Engineer; and that, so far as concerns the necessity for frequent meetings of the board, the Mayor could delegate his authority as chairman ex-officio, or arrange so that he would not be compelled to attend all sessions.

The agitation, however, has aroused interest so deep that whatever may be done in altering the present status or officials concerned will realize the strength of the sentiment for shade tree

Question of Sewers.

One of the enthusiastic exponents of shade tree preservation is Holbrook Withington, who, in speaking of the theory of the authorities with reference to sewers, and the injury done to them by the roots of poplars and cottonwoods, offers the following expression of opin

HORACE M'KINLEY SOON TO RETURN

Expected Back in Portland by the Later Part of the Present Week.

A letter received by Dan Tarpley, who s associated with Horace G. McKinley in the timber business, states that Mr. McKinley expected to leave La Crosse. Wis., on July 31 or August 1, and will therefore be in Portland not later than the middle of this week. He will be accompanied by Abner Withee, son of a little more training probably, but the the well-known Wisconsin timberman dogs do not, neither does Professor Senator Withee, and Hascal and Ted Hunt. Withee, nephews of the Senator. Senator Withee is owner of large tracts of Oregon timber land, and Hascal Withee, to the audience when this team first ap his nephew, has not less than half a pears on the stage for it is not believed million dollars' worth of timber lands that they can make good, but after five in this state. Mr. McKinley has been in La Crosse since leaving Portland, that city being his home. Mr. Tarp-ley has also received word from Miss Marie Ware, who is in Denver, and has been there since she went from here. Miss Ware expects to come to Portland during the coming month or two, before the time set for the case in which she is a defendant in the Federal Court.

THEATRICAL OFFERINGS

By far the largest act at Shield's Park last night was that of Mr. and Mrs. Francellia. They came last on Grove, and that will be sent out in large been seen in the way of muscular art than the feats performed by this reis an alleged 250-pound dumbbell that enters into the scheme of entertainment, and probably not a dozen persons in the audience believe that the ponderous thing weighs anything like the number of pounds credited to it. That is they do not believe it at first, but when Mrs Francellia, who surely tips the scales at more than 200 is lifted and balanced by her strong lord and master, as though she is an infant, then exerybody begins to believe that the dumbbell has just claims of its own. It is a great act and Sandow never did better. $2,557,336

Running down the program appears Mr. Simms, the humorist and cartoonist. He is very clever, and while he might fix up his voice, it is certain that his comic sketches and the work that goes with the making of them could not be improved very largely. A cute little soubrette and afterwards contortionist is a nice entertainer. This little lady, under the name of Marjorie Mandeville, makes up so well

The Campbell Brotners are better than ever and so far as club swinging goes they are the limit in excellence. The illustrated songs and moving pic tures are very acceptable and add value to a very enjoyable show.

At the Empire. Tonight the Empire Theatre once again changes its program and a new batch of mirthful sketches, interesting "sight" acts and other features awaits Portland theatre-goers. Among the new faces which appear tonight will be Frederick the Great, a conjuror of much renown, who can beckon anything he wants from the atmosphere. The Gilsey Sisters also will make their initial bow and with song and dance will make the audience glad. Martin and Ridgeway, the wire-walker and the clown, are a new and very clever act, while Lutz Bros., retain their position as head-lin ers for the coming week. Not for many moons has any vaudeville act so aroused the interest of local amusement-seekers as has the marvelous performance of the armless wonder.
