

SACRAMENTO WINS FROM PORTLAND

McFARLAN WAS BATTED ALONG AT A LIVELY RATE, AND THE "BEETLES" HAD NO DIFFICULTY IN SCAMPERING AROUND THE CIRCUIT.

Van Buren, Hollingsworth and Wadean Distinguished Themselves With the Stick for Portland, While Casey, Sheehan, Graham and Thomas Got Three Hits Each to Help Along the Fishermen's Score.

(Journal Special Service.) Sacramento, Aug. 26.—Mike Fisher's shorts took a sweet revenge yesterday on the Portland aggregation for the beating received up north. They pounded Pitcher McFarlan for 16 safe swats for a total of 25 bases, which netted them 10 runs.

The locals commenced scoring almost from the start. Two-baggers by Sheehan, Graham and Thomas and a base on balls netted Sacramento three runs in its second inning.

Sacramento scored three more in the next on three-baggers by Sheehan and Graham and singles by Hogan and Thomas and a base on balls to Eagan. Portland got two in the fourth on Nadeau's single, Anderson's walk, Francis' single, filled the bags and Hollingsworth brought the first two home with a drive to the left field fence.

PORTLAND. Blake, f., 5, 0, 0, 3, 0, 0. Van Buren, c. f., 4, 0, 3, 3, 0, 0. Nadeau, r. f., 5, 1, 2, 3, 0, 0.

HITS AND RUNS BY INNINGS. Sacramento, 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. Hits 10, Runs 13, Errors 1.

SUMMARY. Three-base hits—Sheehan, Graham. Two-base hits—Sheehan 2, Graham, Thomas, Hogan, Nadeau. Single—Francis, Eagan. Error—McFarlan.

McFarlan has been batted very hard in the last two series. Van Buren and Nadeau continue battling in the same old way.

Credulous pretenders often get the wrong goods. For instance, Cutler was suspended by Fisher. Since that was published Cutler has pitched several games. He was not suspended.

McFarlan is the recipient of a regular bombardment at intervals yesterday. Sacramento scored 16 hits for a total of 25 bases.

Charlie Elsey will make a valuable addition to the Browns as he is a fine player and a good hitter.

Why was Hurlbert released and Blake retained? Hurlbert is a better man than the ex-Eastern leaguer. Hurlbert's batting average is .333 while Blake's is about .183.

Pete Lohman has secured Pitcher Johnson and Catcher Homer Hildebrand of the late Los Angeles Nationals. These two men will greatly strengthen the Oakland team and also "Brock" Devereaux will get in the game this week.

Martin Glendon is reported to have signed with Milwaukee. Aggie is tabbed in the P. C. I. league.

Jesus Stovall is said to have accepted an offer from Cleveland and is to join that club next week. Stovall had signed with them last season, but preferred the coast.

St. Vrain and Byers, the crack Tacoma battery, are now with Parke Wilson's Seattle Coast League team.

Jim Morley is negotiating with Sears and Hall of the defunct P. N. L. team. Morley wants one of them to play second.

KID FREDERICKS DEFEATS HEYWARD

The Montana Lad Knocked Out the Bostonian in the Fifteenth Round at Lewiston Last Night.

Helena, Mont., Aug. 26.—In one of the fastest and clearest fights ever witnessed in Montana, Kid Fredericks of Havre knocked out Jim Heyward of Boston in the fifteenth round of what was scheduled to be a 20-round contest, at Lewiston last night.

The fight was fast from start to finish. Fredericks had the best of it all the way through. Heyward proved himself game and was always in the fight. The Montana lad landed several terrific punches during the early rounds, but Heyward came right back at him, and not until the thirteenth did it look as though a knockout was likely to occur.

In the fourteenth Fredericks had his man going, knocking Heyward down four times in the three minutes of fast fighting, and at the tap of the gong the Bostonian was decidedly groggy. Both men responded to the gong in the fifteenth round readily, although Heyward appeared slightly distressed, while Fredericks appeared fresh. Both men mixed it pretty lively for about one minute of this session, when the Montana boy sent a terrific right to the solar plexus and Heyward went to the floor, rolling over in agony, and was counted out.

A comfortable crowd witnessed the contest and were thoroughly satisfied with the exhibition.

THEIR STRENGTH GAVE WAY

The accompanying cartoon, among others, was published in The Journal during the time that President Lucas, with his inside and outside secretaries, Dugdale and McCloskey, were making the most desperate efforts to maintain teams in cities where the coast league was firmly entrenched.

The scheme first against his will, but after sinking a few thousand, he decided to see it through, and did so, paying $50,000 for his baseball experience.

YANGER COMING TO MEET HANLON

Clever Chicago Boxer Writes That He Will Start West at Once For His Fight With "Cute" Eddie on September 29.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Benny Yanger wired his manager, John Hertz, Monday, that he would be able to keep his engagement with Eddie Hanlon next month and would leave Chicago right away.

Confederate President Still Maintains That There is Life in the Dead Association, and Roundly Scores Tacoma for Its Action in Dropping Out of the Running.

(Journal Special Service.) Tacoma, Aug. 26.—W. H. Lucas, president of the Pacific National League, left today to attend the meeting of league directors which convenes in Spokane tomorrow.

"I made the trip to California by boat," said Mr. Lucas. "When I reached there I heard that Helena and Tacoma had dropped out of the league. When I got back to the Sound I found that Los Angeles and San Francisco had followed suit."

These critics probably do not realize that Yanger has fought every man in the country from 115 to 130 pounds with Terry McGovern the only exception.

That he has fought in almost every large city in the union, and that in all of this time—five years—he has never sustained a defeat.

Smith, the Detroit second baseman, is going to quit and run the Rochester team. Long is now playing second and McAllister short.

JOCKEY WILLIAMS RULED OFF TRACK

Judge Egbert Acts Promptly and Disbars the Clever Rider From All Tracks Affiliated With the New California Jockey Club.

(Journal Special Service.) Seattle, Aug. 26.—Jockeys and owners—some of whom it was rumored, were preparing to clean up the books during the last days of the meeting which closes on Saturday—received a wholesome example at The Meadows Monday of the risks which they will incur in the event they essay to pull off any event in which all horses are not out to win.

Starter Duke complained to the judges that when the barrier went up Williams deliberately pulled Laureate's causing her to wheel and be left at the post. The mare was a favorite in the betting, and she did not get under headway until the field was fully 15 lengths away.

It was simultaneously announced by the association management that despite a rumored effort in some quarters to pull off several "sno-fus" in the concluding days of the meeting it would take active steps to protect the public's interests even to the extent of declaring all bets off whenever the slightest indication of dishonest riding was detected.

FIGHTERS TO JOIN THESPIAN RANKS

JAMES J. CORBETT STATES THAT BOTH HE AND JEFFRIES MAY STAR TOGETHER IN A PLAY SPECIALLY AND SUITABLY WRITTEN FOR THEMSELVES.

(Chicago, Aug. 26.—Big Jim Corbett, the man who made such a magnificent showing against Champion Jeffries in San Francisco recently, arrived in the city last week from the West with his wife and registered at the Auditorium, says an exchange.

"Pompador Jim" Will Enter the Ring Again for the Opportunity Presents Itself—Ex-Champion Loud in His Praises for Jeffries, and Declares that No Living Man Can Knock Out the Bullfighter of California.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Big Jim Corbett, the man who made such a magnificent showing against Champion Jeffries in San Francisco recently, arrived in the city last week from the West with his wife and registered at the Auditorium, says an exchange.

"I am going to send my wife to New York from here and I go to St. Louis. From there, after I finish up my engagement, I go to New York. I shall be here until Wednesday. It is sure, I guess, that Jeffries and I will travel together. I should not wonder if we had a play written for us. He will come East in September, I believe."

"I will enter the ring again if the proper opportunity offers," said Corbett, when seen at the Annex, "and then tell me if it would not be a shame to permit myself to retrograde and become comparatively weak on the theory that I will never take on another match."

"Whatever I do, whether I again see the inside of a squared circle or not, I intend to keep myself, by ample and daily exercise, in the physical condition I have reached by so much hard work. I was a better man than ever when I fought Jeffries the last time, but he, too, was better by far than when I first met him."

"I doubt if ever is found, while Jeffries is in his present grand physical condition, a boxer who can do him. The more I think about him and his style—and I had abundance of time to train to do that pondering for, but the thought of him. He is a great fighter and worthy of every praise for skill and strength, but he was too strong for me in spite of my own training to meet that very condition. It was that awful punch in the second round that done me. I knew then I was done for, but the thought rushed through my mind that I met do my best that my friends, and especially those few that thought I had a chance to win, must not think I was a quitter; that I must put up the gamest fight I was capable of and a fight to the last second of endurance."

"After the battle was over my greatest satisfaction was that my friends still were my friends, and that critics agreed I did my best. Next to that kindly display of feeling the great pleasure I have is in the knowledge that I have recovered my health. That was worth the time and trouble of training."

On the same train during all the four days' travel from San Francisco came Robert Fitzsimmons, who helped to train Jeffries, but there was no sociability on the way between "Jim" and "Bob." They don't speak as they meet, and they carefully avoided each other on the train, exchanging not a word.
