SIDE CUTS AT MAYOR WILLIAMS

REV. E. P. HILL DELIVERS A SERMON ON THE YOUTH OF JERUSALEM'S TIME, WHO WAS LED TO HIS RUIN BY AN OLD MAN—LOCAL APPLICATION BY INFERENCE.

Talks of the Evil Influence of Men of Position and Honor When They Begin to Apologize for Corruption.—Rev. A. S. Coates Occupies for an Evening His Old Pulpit, That of the First Baptist Church.

"There is no man who has it within his power to do such injury to the cause of good morals in a community as the man with a life of honor back of him."
"This is the reason for peculiar anxiety when a minister is accused of misappropriating funds or any officer of the church is charged with tricky business methods, or a man who has occupied positions of honor and responsibility begins to apologize for corruption in civic affairs."—Excerpts from Rev. E. P. Hill's sermon.

From the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church yesterday Rev. E. P. Hill preached his sermon on the story of the unknown young prophet who rebuked King Jeroboam for his apostasy and was led to his ruin by the deception of an old man.

Indirectly some of Rev. Mr. Hill's remarks may be construed to refer to the battle between Mayor Williams and the ministerial association over gambling. In part Mr. Hill said:
"This brave young man, whose name we do not know, who dared rebuke the king to his face, furnished us interesting material for the study of the strength and weakness of man's conscience. This unknown prophet was well on towards the heights of character, because he had a sensitive conscience.

"Man has a conscience which gives him the power to discern right and wrong, and the more sensitive a man's conscience the farther removed he is from the brute creation. We never think of calling the act of a dumb beast immoral. We would not say that a hawk does wrong when it darts upon a helpless chick and carries it away. We would not attach any moral significance to the tragedy if a cougar were to leap upon a child and destroy its life. The beasts of the field and forest, the fowls of the barnyard and air have no conscience, and that is the reason they are only beasts. But as men ascend towards the sunlit peaks of character their consciences are given a larger place in their lives.

"There is no man who has it within his power to do such an injury to the cause of good morals in a community as the man with a life of honor back of him. Other men may commit the blackest crimes and the result to the community be comparatively harmless. But when a man who has the confidence and admiration of the people deviates from the way of righteousness ever so little, the effect on the morals of a community is far-reaching and calamitous. Good men become discouraged; wicked men plunge into sin more recklessly than before. The young are led to doubt goodness altogether and to take that demoralizing position that the best of men are hypocrites at heart. That is the reason for peculiar anxiety when a minister of the gospel is accused of misappropriating funds, or any officer of the church is charged with tricky business methods, or a man who has occupied positions of honor and responsibility begins to apologize for corruption in civic affairs. That white-haired prophet standing before the unknown young man from Judah holds in his keeping the young man's future, and when he took upon his lips a lie he was as guilty of the youth's ruin as if he himself had struck the fatal blow."

Rev. A. S. Coates Here.
After an absence of over 22 years Rev. A. S. Coates, pastor of the First Baptist church of Buffalo, N. Y., on Sunday evening occupied his old pulpit in the First church of Portland. Dr. Coates will act as pastor of the local church for two months and the members of the congregation will endeavor to have him remain permanently here. Many of Dr. Coates' old parishioners were in attendance at the services last night and the church was crowded.

Dr. Coates was in charge of the First Baptist church of Portland from 1877 to 1881. Since then he has occupied a chair at the Rochester Theological Seminary, and has been in charge of the First church at Buffalo.

ASKED TO WATCH FOR ARLINGTON ROBBERS

The local police have received circulars asking them to be on the watch for the two highwaymen who made a rich haul at Arlington, Or., last Wednesday night. A reward of $250 and half of all money recovered will be paid for their arrest and conviction.

About midnight the highwaymen, masked and armed to the teeth, entered Coe's saloon and lined up the people there against the wall. They robbed each man and helped themselves to what money they found in the cash drawer and in each of the games. The total is about $500. They were last heard of going south on horseback about six miles north of Condon. Each carried an old-style 41 caliber Colt's blue steel six shooter.

In his circular Constable T. D. Sweeten describes the men as follows:

Height about 6 feet, weight about 160 pounds, dark hair and eyes. Dressed in dark coat, blue overalls and dark slouch hat. Wears a shoe 10 inches long, 3 1/2 inches wide, heel 2 1/2 inches long, 3/4 inches wide. Long bony hands.
Height about 5 feet 6 inches, weight about 140 pounds, blue eyes and brown hair. Dressed in brown striped shirt and blue overalls, light slouch hat. Wore an almost new russet leather belt and holster. Wears a shoe 10 inches long, 3 inches wide, heel 2 1/2 inches long and 2 inches wide.

NO MASK FOR HER

Madame Saxe Has Made a Discovery Whereby that Annoyance Is no Longer Necessary in Removing Facial Blemishes.

Not making use of a mask upon the face in removing disfigurements is a departure from old lines of practice, yet Madame Saxe, principal of the Saxe Institute of Dermatology, 417 Abington building, announces that by a discovery of her own it is found that a mask is not necessary. This lady has had large experience in removing from the face such disfigurements as smallpox pits, eruptions of the skin, birthmarks, wrinkles, many times occasioned by sickness, sometimes by neglect and again by old age; drooping eyebrows, powder burns, and many other unnatural marks to human comeliness, and all her work has proven abundantly successful. She is a conscientious woman, and when she takes a case in hand it is because she intends to do full justice to her patient. None of her work has ever been complained of as having been slighted, and her great experience and skill has enabled her to perform certain work that seemed almost miraculous. It is so wonderful a thing to take a face that has been scarred and marred by sickness, age or accident and convert that countenance into a thing of youthful beauty, but this has often been done by Madame Saxe. She knows her business.

IRISHMEN DO HONOR TO EMMET'S ASHES

The centenary of the execution of Robert Emmet was observed by the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the hall of the Catholic centers of America yesterday and was largely attended. Dr. Andrew C. Smith presided and among those present were Governor George E. Chamberlain, Rev. P. J. Carroll of Columbia University, Thomas C. Devlin, John Kelly, P. H. D'Arcy of Salem, and William Munley. The committee in charge consisted of Capt. John O'Hair, P. J. Smith, Edward Killefeather, Prof. O'Hara and J. W. McGinn.

The address of the day was delivered by P. H. D'Arcy, ex-mayor of Salem, who reviewed the history of Ireland from the time of the Danish invasion up to the present day. Wallace McCamant spoke in glowing terms of the patriotism of the Irish in America, particularly to their record in the revolutionary and civil wars, also read Emmet's speech from the dock.
"Kathleen Mavourneen" was sung by Miss Elizabeth Harvest and Miss Anna Ditchburn recited "Shamus O'Brien."

BUYING EXHIBITS FOR ST. LOUIS FAIR

Fifteen hundred dollars has been expended by the State Lewis and Clark Exposition commission in purchasing exhibits made at the Salem fair to be used as part of the Oregon display at St. Louis next year. The purchases were made by a committee of the commission consisting of G. Y. Harry, Richard Scott and Secretary Edward C. Giltner. The committeemen spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week at Salem. They made a most careful examination of the exhibits made at the state fair. As the result of the visit, every exhibit of grain made, all the preserved fruits, vegetables and fish, were purchased for the St. Louis Exposition. The fruits and vegetables purchased are in 800 glass jars.

ELECTION IN SERBIA.

(Journal Special Service.)
Vienna, Sept. 21.—Dispatches from Belgrade say that more than usual interest is manifested in the election of a new Skuptschina being held in Serbia today. With the government in control of the electoral machinery the election of a majority favorable to the present regime is almost certain, though the element of doubt in the result is being strongly to excite widespread interest. With the opposition in control of the national legislative body, steps undoubtedly would be recommended immediately for an official probe of the circumstances attending the massacre of the late King Alexander and his consort, with a view to ascertaining the connection, if any such existed, between King Peter and the conspiring regicides.

It is folly to suffer from that horrible plague of the high-tailing phlegm, Doan's Ointment cures, quickly and permanently. At any drug store, 50 cents.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

(By Beatrice Fairfax.)

Dear Miss Fairfax: I would like very much to have your candid opinion on the following:

I am well acquainted with a young man who has asked me to be his wife. I really think a great deal of him and would not hesitate but for one thing. Before I met him he served three years in prison. He claims he was innocent, but when he asked me to be his wife he told me his story and that, I think, proves his honesty. Since I have known him we have been together quite often, and I have never known of him doing a mean trick or, in fact, anything that a gentleman would not do. My folks favor him at present, but I know when they hear of the past they will want me to give him up. Now, honestly, don't you think even if he were guilty that as he has reformed in every way we could be happy? He has sacrificed several of his so-called pleasures since he has been going with me, and I really cannot help believing that he means well. He wants his answer soon. So kindly let me know as soon as possible. In haste. E. L.

If you are quite sure that you love him and that his past will never come between you in the future, and that he has sincerely repented, I think you are doing quite right in marrying him. His having confessed to you shows that he wants to do the right thing. Be very sure of yourself and your love before you marry. When a man really repents of his past there is no reason why it should stand in the way of his happiness.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a young man, 22 years of age, and am working my way up on sea, on which I hold at the present time a responsible position. I am engaged to a young lady for the past two months. I love her very much, and I know she loves me.

I return to this city once a month, but have learned that during my absence this young lady goes out with other gentlemen. Will she, in your opinion, make a good and true wife?
If you do not wish her to go out with other men she should accede to your wishes, but do not be too severe. Remember that you are away a great part of the time, and that it may be lonely for her. If you are sure she loves you, either trust her or tell her that it makes you unhappy to have her go about with other men, and I am sure she will do as you wish.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am deeply in love with a beautiful young lady and have spoken to her a few times. I gave her a love poem. She thanked me for it and said she would keep it as long as she would live. After that when I saw her she did not speak.

Kindly inform me through the Evening Journal how I can obtain her affection. PERPLEXED LOVER.
