tke Leg of a Burglar Who Tried to Break into the Home of F. M. Blair.

A partial description of two of the train robbers of whom the sheriff's posses of two counties are now in pursuit has been obtained, and is as follows:
Age 24; 5 feet 8 inches in height:

weight 175 pounds; dark hair; light brown mustache; brown eyes, dark clothes, badly worn; black slouch hat; two weeks' growth of Age 30; taller and more slim than other man; wore a gray suit badly worn and with one sleeve out at elbow; dark complexion.

One robber dying in the Good Samaritan hospital, Ollie L. Barrett, railroad engineer, under treatment at St. Vinshoulder; three or four train robbers skulking in the timber lands in the vicinity of Troutdale with nearly a score of man-hunters on their trail.

This, in brief, tells the results of an attempt to hold up the Oregon Railway & Navigation company's fast mail and express train at 8:50 o'clock last evening near Troutdale, about 22 miles from this

According to the best authority there were only four men in the party, though some statements are to the effect that there were five or six.

The hold-up was full of dramatic incidents, Express Messenger Fred Korner of this city standing out as the hero of the occasion, it being a bullet from his shot gun that laid low the leader of the Tramp May Identify Mobbers.

A tramp beating his way on the blind baggage of the train last night may be the means of identifying the When the two masked highwaymen boarded the train at Troutdale they discovered a tramp on the blind baggage. The man was at once hats." searched and after satisfying them-selves that he was not armed the robbers ordered him into the coal box and told him not to show himself on pain of death. The fellow remained in hiding until the train reached Bridal Veil. He spent the night in an engine room and this morning started east on foot.

He was overtaken by the special train bearing the posse and is with the officers this afternoon. They hope that the tramp may be able to identify the The latest report received from Bridal Veil states that the officers are now vest of that town in the neighborhood of the 21-mile post.

Bandits, Were Seen Yesterday. That the bandits were in the vicinity of the scene of the holdup all day yesterday is proved by a number of people who observed them loitering along the track. Detective Hartman talked to one rancher who said that he as well as other persons residing in the neigh- the yard he was seized by the dog and borhood had observed three suspicious looking men hanging about Corbett yes-terday. The injured man was identified as one of them. From those who saw the men yesterday the officers secured description, which is printed above. These descriptions were sent officers in all near by cities

The engineer on train No. 2 of the O. R. & N., which went East yesterday called at police headquarters this morning and stated while passing the scene of last night's heldup he had seen three suspicious men along the track. He will go to the Good Samaritan hospital to see if he can identify Connor. Word was received from Washougal, Wash., this morning that three strangers arrived in the town yesterday in Looking into the muzzle of a loaded revolver, Claude W. Garletz held up his hands and was robbed of about $22.50 at 11:20 o'clock last night. The rob bery occurred at East Morrison and Union avenue, under an electric light. The highwaymen hastened their work because they were frightened by an approaching street car.

Mr. Garletz, who lives at 234 First street, had been visiting friends during the evening and was waiting for a car when he was accosted by the highwaymen. He was standing under the awning of a store. He noticed two men-come across the street, but his head, was turned. The taller man passed him, then returned. When his attention was drawn to the pair they were standing beside him.

said: Garlets did not stop to argue. While the larger man kept Garletz covered the shorter went through his pockets and took the money.

His Brother Also Held Up. After the robbery, Mr. Garlets ran across the street to a saloon and inquired where he might find an officer. He was directed to the next corper, and a block away he met two policemen, started in pursuit of the robbers, but FIERCE BATTLES RAGE were unable to catch them.

"Both men were of good size," said

Mr. Garletz this morning. "I should say the taller was six feet in height. He held the gun on me and the upper part of his face was covered with a black handkerchief, with eyeholes cut in it. The other was probably 5 feet 10 inches in height. He had neither mask nor revolver, and while he was search ing me I got a good look at him and believe I would be able to tell him if I ever see him again. His nose was crooked as if it had been broken at some time. Both of them were between 25 and 20 years of age, wore dark

Dog Scarce Burglar.

The plans of a burgiar to enter the esidence of F. M. Blair of the Baker heatre, 144 North Twelfth street, were frustrated early this morning by the watchfulness of the setter dog belonging to the family.

While it is not known to a certainty it is believed that the thief was badly bitten by the dog. The screams and cries of the intruder could be heard for blocks as he attempted to wrest himself from the grasp of the dog. Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, the dog's barking awoke a neighbor who saw a man in the yard in front of the Blair house. He supposed that the man was one of the Blair boys and that the dog had mistaken him for an intruder. However, soon after the thief entered as he ran the dog held on with might

ATTORNEY C. C. PALMER TELLS JUDGE PRAZER THAT HE MEVEL EXPECTED TO GET JUSTICE PROM HIM, AND THE COURT REMARKS ON HIS LACK OF HONOR.

Discussion Grew Out of a Tax Case Be fore the Circuit Court-Judge Admits That He is Prejudiced Against Cases of This Sort, But Will Read the Law to Discover Where His Duty Lies, and Will Decide Accordingly.

"I did not expect to get justice in this court, because I knew that the court was prejudiced against this class of cases," said C. C. Palmer, attorney in the case of J. C. Palmer against William Macmaster, to State Circuit Judge Freser, yesterday afternoon.

"I admit that I am prejudiced in this class of cases," responded the court, "but I consider you no better than a legal robber."

J. C. Palmer had bought a tax title to the property occupied by the Sigler Milling Company at Front and Madison streets, while acting as agent for Mac-Master and others. He did not notify MacMaster of the purchase, and when the property was redeemed he sued for $3,300 for a year's rental of the build-

A LEGAL ROBBER Victoria Gautier Arrested Superintendent Richard-By Inspector and Held in Portland.

Inquiry Prosecuted With a View to Prominent Department Head Says That Returning to Europe Women Brought Thence to Enter America's Slums.

Before leaving for Seattle this morning, J. P. Lavin, United States immigration inspector, arrested another French girl who, he has reasons for believing, was brought to Portland destined for the slums. The suspect's name is Victoria Gau-Good Shepherd while her case is thoroughly investigated. She was arrested at 42 Fourth street. According to Mr. Lavin the proprietress of the house in the girl's home is in Paris, but she has been in the United States since last November. Until a few months ago she lived in Seattle, and it is believed that her sister is responsible for bringing her to America. This sister has since

If these supposed facts can be proved prejudiced against such cases, but he it is very probable that Victoria Gautier considered Palmer no better than a will be deported. The immigration inspectors have in so, but it will be with Feluctance, as I structions to spare no expense in an efported into the slums, and they intend to continue the raids. They are obliged to proceed all alone, as they receive no assistances from the civil authorities. Lea, the name given by a French girl previously taken to the House of the Good Shepherd, is still held there, and every effort is being made to learn whether she should be deported.

The girl just arrested has $400 in a local savings bank, and it is believed that she will take legal steps to prove that she is entitled to a residence here. This is one reason that the inspectors nduct their work in secret. It is said that when some attorneys hear that a tling a plain case,

Little Danny Deiter Terribly Burned in Saving Brothers and Sister

WALKS THROUGH FIRE

Probably Lose His Feet-Safely Carries the Rest to a Place of Safety---Parents Away at the Time.

(Journal Special Service.) Baker City, Or., Sept. 24 .- Danny Dieter, 11 years of age, is called a true hero here today. His father's house burned last night while both his parents were absent and he and his two younger brothers and one sister were asleep in Danny, almost nude, carried the younger children safely out, at the expense of terribly burning his hands and feet, so that he will either die or be crippled for life. He will without doubt lose both feet.

About 10 o'clock last night an alarm of fire was turned in from South Baker. The Dieter residence was a mass of flames. The house belongs to Miss Jackson and is situated at the head of Dewey avenue in a small field across the rallroad tracks. The department responded promptly, but as there is no hydrant or water near by. Assistant Chief Bettner and his men could only stand by and see it burn to the ground. At the time of the fire Mr. and Mrs. Dieter were away from home. Young Danny was awakened by the heat, and realizing the situation, sprang out of bed in his light night clothes and commenced carrying the younger children out of the house. He succeeded in getting them out by walking through fire with each load. The 6-year-old boy had his hands badly burned in attempting to put the flames out which were burning his brother's night clothes. Neighbors soon gathered and did what they could, with the assistance of the firemen. Danny and the children were carried to neighboring houses and doctors quickly summoned. The little hero suffered intensely, his feet and hands bleeding from the ugly burns.
