COLUMBIA MILLS ARE

Big Plant at Vancouver Beleases Day and Night Shifts, Though Orders Are Piling Up-Many Men Out of Work.

(Journal Special Service.) Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 10 .- The Columbia mills will soon be closed and already the night shift has been laid until further orders. The night shift worked Monday and Tuesday this week and since that time the mills have been running with only the day It is also announced that the rest of the workers will soon be laid off, probably at the close of the week, and to this end a gradual reduction in the force has been made all week.

Attorney W. W. McCredie, receiver for the company, explained the action of stopping work at the rush season, by saying that some necessary repairs had to be made and that in order to most quickly accomplish this needed work the entire plant would have to be shut down.

The mill has been behind with its orders and at present the dry dock and new school house are both delayed be-cause of lack of material. This unexpected closing of the Columbia mill will further delay work on these and other enterprises in the city, besides forcing a number of men to remain idle. Just how long the mill will remain closed is not definitely known, but it is believed that when the necessary repairs are completed the day and night crews will be re-employed and the output of the mill kept at the highest possible figure to supply the delayed orders ...

Rains Cause Pruit Loss.

Farmers and fruit growers in town today state that the rains of the week, accompanied as they were by heavy winds, have done considerable damage to the Clarke county apple and pear crop. Many tons of fruit have been blown from the trees and though the apples can generally be saved, the pears do seep so well and considerable loss be sustained. The cool summer is held responsible chiefly for this loss nce the apple and pear crop is usually mature enough to pick at this season.

Labor Wants a Chance. Vancouver workingmen complain, for the first time in months, that there is no employment. Several of the men relet out of the Columbia mills have been seeking employment and they that work is hard to secure. The dry dock is letting men go and is employing no more, the operations at the st, where a number of big buildings are being erected, do not offer a field, for the contractors have all the men they need for the time, and with the approach of the rainy season outside work is being discontinued. Then, too, the fruit season is practically over, farm work is generally at an end and the canneries and packing houses are said to be full-handed

Big Ships Can Come. The river has started on its fall rise and is now about 14 inches higher than it was a week or 10 days ago. With the deepening of the channel to 20 feet and the raising waters of the Columbia, it is thought by river men that no trouble will be experienced by shipmasters in bringing to this port any vessels able to enter the Astoria harbor.

New Tract Platted.

A plat of Columbia View has been offered by L. M. Hidden and accepted the county commissioners. This newly platted tract is a quarter of a mile from the city limits and is divided into acre lots.

Medical Services Not Paid. Dr. E. F. Hixon has filed a suit in the superior court against Richard and they have given a promissory note for this debt, which is two years past due. The parties are now residents of Port-lodge K. O. T. M. land, but they own property in this county which the doctor desires a judgment against. Walls Walls Loses Thirtieth. Ft. Walls Walla will lose considerably by a general order just made pub-lic. In this order Gen. Funston directs that the Thirtieth battery of light ar-tillery, stationed at Walla Walla, shall be relieved from duty in this depart-ment on October 30 and shall proceed to Ft. Snelling. Minn., where it will be stationed in the future. At headquarters it is said that Walla Walla will no longer be made a battery post, but will be given over exclusively to the cavalry. It is also stated that no additional cavalry troops will be sent there, as the post has been overcrowded and with the departure of the battery will resume its normal place in the list of department posts. What is said to make it certain that Walla Walla will have no artillery in the future, is the fact that recently the artillery stations were published by the war department and Walla Walla was omitted from the list. Debtor Defaults.

The firm of McMaster & Co., merchants of La Camas, have filed in the superior court a suit against T. E. Sweeny for $187.64. This amount, they allege, is due for goods sold the defendant. The court has entered a decree of default against Sweeny since he has not answered the notice of the case served on him.
