

PYTHIANS ON PARADE AT GRAND LODGE OPENING

for each 50 members above 100, no lodge to have more than five.

Grand Chancellor Maloney proposes to do away with the sick benefits, which in his annual report, he alleges produce dissension and troubles in multitude.

Knights of Khorassan.

As the Shriners are to Masonry, the Knights of Khorassan are to the Pythians. They are to assemble tomorrow night for a "stunt," having held two previous "stunts" in Astoria and La Grands. An elegantly printed announcement in mysterious devices, intelligible only to those who know what is a "stunt," has been prepared, which is signed by Allah and Annand G. C. Moser, royal vizier, and I have to do with them money John M. Mann, secretary. It bears pictures of divers and sundry glass receptacles that have been subjected to ice treatment and that, when they have served their function, are presumed to be empty. Which is interesting to the uninitiated as meaning that the voyagers across the desert will emerge from Khorassan minus thirst.

Tonight, the Grand Ball.

Perhaps the most brilliant function of the occasion will be the annual grand lodge. Uniformed, Rank and Rathbone Sisters' reception and dance tonight, under the management of the Sir Knights of the rank. Gen. Altkin and his staff officers have been preparing for the function, in conjunction with the local executive committee. Col. John H. Olsen, chairman; F. C. Dunham, treasurer; Capt. C. Nelson, Lieut. J. A. Ryan, Lieut. G. H. Vore; Portland Company No. 1, Uniformed Rank, will constitute the reception committee.

The Parade.

Good weather favored the annual parade of the knighted Pythians this afternoon, when, after 2 o'clock, they swung into line. There was a liberal admixture in the throng of onlookers, of the girl who goes into raptures over brass buttons, and the old soldier who were witnessed by a large number of people.

The judges were Major F. S. Baker, Major J. L. May and Lieut. Lee M. Clark.

WHAT ROBERTS' SUSPENSION MEANS HE MAY STILL PATROL HIS BEAT AS A PRIVATE WATCHMAN, LACKING, HOWEVER, THE POWER TO MAKE ARRESTS — KUNT DENIES HIS STAR.

Special Policeman John Roberts has not yet turned in his star, although orders to this effect have been issued by Chief of Police Hunt.

Last week the police commission found Roberts guilty of disobeying the chief and ordered him punished by a suspension of three months. However, he was patrolling his beat as usual last night, as if nothing had happened.

Asked regarding the matter this morning, Chief of Police Hunt stated that he had given Capt. Moore orders to transmit to Roberts a command to turn in his star. The special did not obey the order last night, but it was stated about the station that the order would be enforced.

What Suspension Means. Asked to whom was delegated the power to enforce the three months' suspension of Special Policeman John Roberts, as recommended by the police commission of the executive board, Mayor Williams said today that the matter was up to Chief of Police Hunt.

"The chief was present when the report was read, and I suppose he has already enforced the action of the committee," explained the mayor. "All that he has to do is to order the police star from the officer. Roberts can still remain employed as a special officer in the merchants' patrol system."

Chief of Police Hunt was, metaphorically speaking, "on the carpet" again this morning. During the last few days members of the city council, individually, and sometimes in parties of two or three, have interviewed the head of the department in connection with the charges of maladministration of his office.

It appears, and a number of the members of the legislative body of the city admit, that they are dissatisfied with the silence of Mayor Williams on questions of vital concern to the public.

"Why doesn't he face the music; make some reply to the charges made against his administration? If Chief Hunt is at fault he should be removed and the mayor is the only one who has the power to remove him."

A Councilman Emphatic. "If the mayor himself is to blame he should resign or be impeached. It was thus that a prominent member of the council expressed himself today.

The councilman referred to is one of several who have been making an unofficial investigation of conditions under the present regime.

One of these had an interview with Chief of Police Hunt this morning last night, the councilman emerged from the chief's private office he looked perplexed.

When asked as to the purpose of his visit and the result of the interview the councilman hesitated and then said: "He replied, 'I am the chief and if there is anything wrong I am to blame or at least I must stand responsible for it,' and he shrugged his shoulders and smiled.
