MONSTER ROCKS WILL BE MOVED

SNAGBOAT METHONA HAS GONE DOWN THE RIVER ON A DYNAMITE EXPEDITION AND WILL SOON BEGIN DEMONSTRATING OBSTRUCTIONS TO NAVIGATION.

Two Large Boulders Are Lying on Slaughter's Bar and United States Engineers Hope to Move Them by Means of Dynamite—Professional Diver Is Taken Along to Locate Them—Boulders Are in 20 Feet of Water.

Local United States engineers sent the snagboat Methona down to Slaughter's bar, below Rainier, yesterday to clear the channel at that place.

In that vicinity are two large rocks which are particularly a constant source of annoyance to navigation. A large supply of dynamite was taken along on the snagboat and an attempt will be made to blow them out of their imbedded positions. The fragments will then be gathered up and conveyed to the river bank.

A professional diver accompanied the outfit. His work will be to wade around on the river bed and locate the rocks. As they are lying in about 20 feet of water they will be no small job. In the language of one of the engineers, "it will be like looking for a needle in a haystack."

After the obstructions are located the diver will return to the surface and get a supply of dynamite sticks. They will be placed in proper position and he will then attach to them an electric wire. When this is done he will return to the surface and seek refuge in the boat.

After backing off a safe distance a spark will be generated by a battery carried for the purpose and transmitted down the wire. A moment more an explosion will occur, and if everything works out as planned the most difficult part of the work will be completed. No one knows the dimensions of the stones, and it may require several explosions to reduce them to the proper size for easy handling.

The big dredge Columbia has been moved to Healy's bar, where a piece of work has been laid out for her to do. It is expected that she will be engaged there for fully a week.

TO UNIONIZE LABOR IN THE BIG SOUTH

(Journal Special Service.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—The second annual convention of the United Textile Workers of America, which opened in Philadelphia yesterday, will devote a great deal of its time to the discussion of unionizing cotton-mill labor in the South.

The present convention is the first since all branches of textile labor in the United States were amalgamated in the association. It has been only during the past year that the American Federation of Labor gave the association jurisdiction over the silk weavers. A number of independent cotton and woolen workers' unions have also been expected to come before the convention. The situation is made the more interesting by the popular belief that some of the leaders among the unionized workers of the North feel that they have the warm secret support of Northern manufacturers in their efforts to organize the Southern workers, as the accomplishment of this design would lessen the fast-growing advantage the Southern mills have in their competition against the Northerners.

The problem, however, is most difficult, and all the more so because the Southern workers have little union enthusiasm. They show a willingness to organize when approached by an aggressive organizer, and stick to the union so long as the organizer remains among them, but drift away when he leaves. The leaders of the movement say, however, that the present convention will tackle the Southern problem with a determination to solve it and to unionize the whole field. The ultimate object is to bring the Southern cotton mill worker up to the hours and wages of the Northern worker.

In order to instill interest among the Southern workers in the association and its objects it is probable that the officers to be chosen at the convention will include several workers from the South. The present officers are practically all from the New England field. The president and leading spirit of the association is James Tansey of Fall River, and the secretary, Albert Hibbert, of the same place.

DRESS CLUB MAKES BUSY REHEARSING

A TARTANING FORETASTE OF WHAT MAY BE EXPECTED ON THE NIGHT WHEN THE NEWS-PAPER MEN MAKE UP AND SERIOUSLY UNDERTAKE TO BE FUNNY.

The clubrooms in the Marquam building are nightly the scene of rehearsals for the minstrel show to be given by the Portland Press club, and everybody, from Musical Director Soules—not to mention End Man Earp, are so enthused that they are sure always night and that they could forever rehearse. An opening chorus has already been learned by heart, and any one of the boys could tell you it is written in two flats. It is not entitled "Never Push an Angel Worm When It Is Going Up a Hill," but the name will be on the souvenir program which will be given out to every ticket holder.

The clubrooms have placed the professional minstrel several blocks in the rear of the procession in the line of jokes. Every gag is guaranteed to be new and refreshing, and far in advance of the rest of the crop of minstrel witticisms. A heavy line is levied on the unfortunate who so far forgets the dignity of his position as to spring anything that has been heard before. Nothing will go unless it is known to be free from microbes.

John Lathrop, of the flowery tongue, will preside at the head of the feast. The only reason he has ever been forced to fill the shoes of the lamented William H. West is because of his overpowering modesty. But John can talk like a newly married man up against the first grocery bill, and he will be prepared for all emergencies.

On the end of the olio of beauty and wit will be found A. L. Morris, W. G. McRae, Gilbert Costello and Frederic von Earp (the latter by request). Earp just knows that everybody will laugh. He will make up as "Sunny Jim," and will give a good laugh to anyone who will guess what his first joke will be.

All the famous dialect artists are requested to be present and watch Rea Irvin and A. Lincoln Hart present a Dutch song and dance. Both the boys are certain to receive enough vegetables to start a truck gardener in business. This is not intended as a suggestion.

Of course, everything on the program will be featured, but J. L. Wallin and Carl S. Kelly are secretly of the opinion that their musical turn will back all the rest of the acts off into forgetfulness. David Morrison also has aspirations to create a tremendous furor for he has an imitation of the gymnastic band leader, Creator, that would make that famous artist ashamed to look at himself in the glass for the next year. If you never seen Creator during one of his exercise stunts, just go and watch Morrison and notice the difference.

Pressing invitations have been sent to Mayor Williams, Chief of Police Egan and the Ministerial association members to hear John Stevenson settle the gambling question. He has already put his name with the "At Liberty" hit in the Dramatic Mirror.

Gilbert Costello, as J. W. K., says will render the pathetic little ballad entitled "Concho Love Song." The club will not have seventy-seven cars of special scenery, nor does it come with a "New York run" of 300 nights, but it will afford an hour of good, wholesome amusement. If you do not feel like laughing, laugh anyhow. The boys will feel offended at any bouquet less expensive than tiger lilies. The free list is completely suspended and the management will not feel offended if you buy more than 10 tickets.

DR. GRETH AND HIS WONDERFUL AIRSHIP

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, Oct. 21.—Dr. August Greth, who made the successful trial of his airship Sunday, is much encouraged by the result of the first trip and it is expected when he gets a more powerful motor installed he will be able to make 30 miles per hour and have absolute control of the machine.

The doctor is a native of France and is 46 years of age. He is a graduate of the University of California and a regular practicing physician. The airship is a splendid shaped balloon 32 feet long, 25 feet in diameter, supporting steel framework which, with a wooden floor, weighs 100 pounds. He intends to take his ship to St. Louis and compete for the $100,000 prize.

ANOTHER POINT FOR THE COUNTY

Judge Cleland yesterday denied a motion to strike out parts of the complaint in the suit of Multnomah county against Anna Jones, executrix of the will of the late county clerk, H. H. Holmes, in accounts. The points that the court ruled should remain in the complaint are allegations specifying that certain fees were misappropriated and unaccounted for.

TWO LITTLE FIRE SCARES.

The fire department was called to the residence of William M. Ladd at West Park and Main streets shortly after 8 o'clock last night but the services of the men were not needed. A blazing chimney attracted the attention of a passer-by and he turned in an alarm. The blaze was easily put out and there was no damage.

ATTORNEY GETS JUDGMENT.

A. Walter Wolf was awarded judgment for $50 against Mrs. Sophia Hall by Justice Seton of the East Side justice court yesterday. Wolf is an attorney and claimed that a short time ago he transacted some legal business for the defendant for which he was to obtain $100. The claim was afterwards cut down to $75 and when this sum was refused by Mrs. Hall, who said that she owed the attorney nothing.

SAYS HE WILL FLY OVER PORTLAND

(Journal Special Service.)

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21.—Beate almost insane by her husband, and with one leg broken, Mrs. J. Hoyt was left at the corner of Cedar street and Western avenue, shortly before midnight, last night. To Policeman Lillie she told her almost unbelievable story of the brutal and cold part of her husband, J. Hoyt. This morning she was brought from her home at 2710 Elliott avenue, to the office of Dr. Sillman, in the Arcade building, in the ambulance, where the bone in her leg was set. She was then returned to her home.

When found on the street last night the woman was in a terrible state. Her pain from the beating and kicking she had received from her husband was overshadowed by the fear that he would return and finish the work of murder that he had so nearly accomplished. Patrolman Lillie went with her to her home, where he stayed a large part of the night waiting for the return of the brutal husband, and to stay the fears of the frantic woman.

According to her story, told the officer, she had been working in a restaurant on First avenue, and her husband had called for her to go home after her work for the night was finished. While on their way home he accused her of infidelity, and in a jealous rage beat and kicked her. When she fell to the sidewalk unconscious, he turned and ran away. The police have been unable to find the man, and if they do they are afraid that the woman will not prosecute him for the assault. Patrolman Lillie, who has charge of the case, says the affair is the most brutal he has ever known since the Bartlett murder case, in which he arrested Bartlett.

EIGHTY-THREE AND STILL ACTING

Boston, Oct. 21.—Never in better health and as eager for work as the youngest beginner, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, 83 years old today, went through her role in "Mie and Met" at the matinee performance at the Park theatre this afternoon. It was a day of greeting and congratulation, and when the favorite actress stepped upon the stage the audience gave her a sincere and hearty reception, such as few artists can boast of.

"MYSTERIOUS BILLY" PUNCHED INTO COURT

"Mysterious Billy" Smith, the hero of many prize ring battles, was in the police court today. He appeared as an assailed and assailant. John Dally got into a fight in a Burnside street saloon last night and protested when two of his friends were arrested. Smith was near by and helped the policemen pick out the right men, when Dally, who is a small, wiry man, turned on the prize fighter and dealt him a dozen blows in rapid succession, knocking "Mysterious Billy" to the floor. Smith did not strike back and Dally was promptly arrested. He was fined $15. Smith appeared in court as defendant in a case instituted by William Corcoran, who alleges that "Billy" assaulted him. Corcoran is a sailor. The case was set for tomorrow.
