legislature. The bride is a well known young lady of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Van De Water left on the evening train for Walla Walla, where they will make their future home.

James E. Cole and Miss Ossie Dans, both of this city, were married on Sunday, October 25, at 2:30 p. m., at the manses of Calvary Presbyterian church. Rev. William S. Gilbert officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Cole will live at 713 East 53rd street.

The large basement was so arranged to resemble a barn and the decorations were in harmony with the occasion. Red and yellow autumn leaves intertwined with garlands of ivy relieved the soberness of the walls, while large golden Jack-o'-lanterns dimly lighted the room, giving such weird appearance that when the ghost appeared it seemed his natural domain. Another interesting feature was the gypsy tent where many of the young people consulted the sibyl to find out what fate had in store for them. After refreshments of corn meal mush and butter, apples and popcorn, music and games were indulged in.

The Outing club will give its Halloween party this evening at the home of Miss Alice Plunket at 204 Eleventh street. The invitations, in the form of a black cat, have been out for some time and a very enjoyable time is anticipated by all favored by the club.

About 30 guests will be present. The color scheme of the decorations will be yellow and white. The lighting will be done by Jack-o'-lanterns and all the entertainments provided for the guests will be in the spirit of the occasion. The supper will be in keeping with the time and the occasion.

A very pleasant home party was given by Miss Inez Fuller at her home at 151 Oak street on Tuesday evening, October 27. Fling was the order of the evening. A dainty luncheon was served followed by dancing.

The second of the series was held at the home of Mrs. R. McKenzie on King street Friday evening, October 30. The rooms were very prettily decorated and refreshments in keeping with the Halloween season were served. There will be three of these socials next week. Invitations will be issued giving date and place.

H. C. Whittier, in charge of the advertisement department of Olds, Worthington & King, celebrated his birthday on Wednesday, October 28, by giving a party to a few of his friends at his home, 475 Washington street.

The decorations were simple but very pretty. Large branches of brilliantly colored foliage enlivened the room, while roses in profusion added beauty and fragrance to the scene.

Several hours were pleasantly enjoyed with music and conversation when an elegant Dutch lunch was served. An interesting feature of the party was the presentation of each guest with a handsomely bound copy of Whittier's poems. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sale, Mr. and Mrs. Meagher, Mr. and Mrs. John Outman, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carr, Mr. Scott from Seattle, and Misses Belle and Clara Dickey, Mr. L. Rabies and Mr. H. C. Whittier.

PARTIES.
Monday evening the degree team of Golden Rule Hive No. 17, L. O. T. M., gave a very pleasant party at the Alsiky hall. The hall was lavishly decorated by a wealth of Oregon grape and bright blossoms, while streamers of red, black and white silk, the colors of the order, were festooned from the ceiling. Progressive whist was the game played, and there were 25 tables. Two prizes were given for the highest scores, the gentlemen's being a beautiful stein, and the lady's was a pair of cut glass salt and pepper shakers with sterling silver tops.

Last night the Christian Endeavor society of the Third Presbyterian church enjoyed an old-fashioned Halloween party at the residence of G. A. Rockwell, 151 East Nineteenth street. As Halloween parties should be in a barn, pretation and his execution as a whole is clear and satisfactory. In the Royal high school at Berlin he was one of the most perfect students. There particular attention is paid to ensemble as well as to the work, and he especially fits Mr. Graham for the course of quartet recitals which he has planned.

The music-lovers of this city may expect a rare treat in the programs, for Mr. Graham at the present time is the only student of Joachim's pupils in the Northwest.

The other three members of the quartet are Edgar E. Coursen, Antone Zilm and Frederick Zilm.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES.
One of the pleasantest events of the season was the Halloween entertainment given by Clan Macleay No. 122 at Arlon hall last evening.

The program was simple but appropriate to the occasion. Broad spreading palms banked the stage on either side presenting the appearance of a garden. The flags of the United States and the British Isles added color to the scene. Dishes, served on silver and Old Glory with the Union Jack on either side, while to the right and about the middle of the balcony was suspended the "royal Standard." Opposite to this and on the left of the balcony was the flag of the clan.

LEAGUE'S ANNUAL DINNER.
The Men's League of the First Congregational church gave their annual dinner in the church parlors at Park and Madison streets on Wednesday evening, October 28. About 150 guests were present and thoroughly enjoyed the good things placed before them. The parlors were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and the long tables were banked high in the center with flowers.

The guest table was presided over by Mr. M. Walton, president of the league. At his right sat the guest of honor, Rev. Dr. Temple of Seattle, and at his left Rev. Dr. House. Other prominent members of the league occupied places at this table, and the supper was served by three young ladies, Misses Maud McMiller, Inez Fuller and Lotti-Thomas.

After the tables had been cleared President Walton called upon Judge George for a toast to the ladies present, which was heartily responded to by the judge. Then followed a short talk by Dr. House on the question of forming an international organization from the Men's league.

Dr. Temple then delivered the address of the evening, the subject being "Alaska," and he spoke of his impressions during a recent trip to that region. Dr. Temple is a fluent speaker and his address was both entertaining and instructive.

A radical change has been effected in public sentiment during the last 50 years in regard to woman's work in the world. It is no longer considered womanly to be unable to converse upon any subject but the latest novel, but to be practical in self-attainments and to get the benefits out of all surroundings is the supreme desire. In domestic science there seems to be many practical things to be learned.

At the Young Woman's Christian association girls and untrained housekeepers may be fitted for a useful life. To their regular courses of bookkeeping, stenography, music and language, a course in domestic science and industrial art have been added with Miss Minerva Laurence as teacher.

Here girls may have practical training in dressmaking or they may make and trim a hat. The children's class in sewing has a course covering one school year, with instructions in plain and hand sewing and elementary machine sewing.

There is a class in basket making, and besides producing all sorts of attractive baskets, the pupils are learning to make cane chain seats.

In domestic science there are several enthusiastic classes and they are taking up almost the same course. Mrs. Farman is using in the Boston school of cooking. The first series of lessons includes the preparation of simple dishes, together with a study of the food materials and the effect of each upon the human system.

The domestic science course involves a knowledge in simple cookery and is planned to give instructions in more complicated dishes.

The waitress course includes care of the dining room and pantry, care of silver and cutlery, serving of breakfast,
