OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF PORTLAND

O ye loved ones, that already sleep in the noiseless bed of rest whom in life I could only weep for and never help, and ye, who wide-scattered still toll lonely in the monster-bearing desert...

of them it surely can give only the barest hint of what the future must show, for what is here produced are the very staples of life which the world at large must have. If the people of the state could only understand the amazement of strangers who come here and their enthusiasm over conditions which we are apt to accept as a matter of course...

THE GOVERNOR'S ATTITUDE

GOVERNOR CHAMBERLAIN has very wisely taken the position that before he will definitely consider the calling of a special session of the legislature he wants a distinct understanding that it will be limited in its operations solely and exclusively to the only object for which it could at this time legitimately be called.

SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS

THE OFFHAND DICTUM of a Portland school director that the children do not go to school to play but to study, is not calculated to evoke wild enthusiasm among parents who have children in the school, nor to unduly excite whatever intellectual estimate they may have had of the gentleman who made it.

Enough has already been heard to make it plain that the people of the state want an extra session; enough facts have been published to make perfectly evident the dreadful financial condition in which many of the communities of the state will find themselves unless they secure relief which only a special session can grant.

ANOTHER REASON FOR AN EXTRA SESSION

A WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN of Corvallis in a private note to The Journal says there is one point which strengthens the demand for a special session of the legislature that so far has been entirely overlooked. Practically every county in the state has made its assessment and has had its rolls made up for the collection of the 1903 taxes.

PROSPEROUS PORTLAND AND OREGON

IN MANY RESPECTS our own people have a poorer appreciation, if not conception, of the resources and possibilities of this great state and city than strangers who are making a temporary sojourn here. Our natural tendency is to undervalue rather than to overvalue our resources and such statements being always discounted by those who listen to them, in the very nature of things we too often get much less than we are entitled to.

MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER

Her Husband's Remarkable Tribute to Her Worth. In his history of Gen. William Booth of the Salvation Army, Commander Booth-Tucker devoted a brief chapter to his wife. Of her he said: "At the outset of her career, Miss Emma Booth proved to be the most energetic and devoted of wives."

WHERE THEY COME FROM

Table with columns for location and population statistics. Includes entries for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, etc.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

The square military shoulder for women is no more, and in its place is seen the sloping shoulder. Tight, boned waists, snugly belted in by a broad girde, are set off by the sloping shoulder.

DOWIE IS THE IMAGE OF THE FATHER HE DENIES

From the Atlanta Journal. "There is no doubt in my mind nor in the minds of any one else who was associated with John A. Dowie and John Murray Dowie while the two were together in Chicago and Zion City, that they were father and son."

FAMOUS SERMON FROM THE BIBLE

Christ beginneth His sermon in the mount; declaring who are blessed, who are the salt of the earth, the light of the world, the city on a hill, the candle that he came to fulfill the law. What it is to be salt, to commit adultery, to swear: exhorted to suffer wrong, to love our enemies, and to labor after righteousness.

MRS. BOOTH-TUCKER

latic geniality and her evident earnestness and sincerity in her work. Physically, she was tall and slender and of delicate appearance.

THE PRESIDENT AT 45

Washington Cor. Chicago Record-Herald. In his forty-fifth birthday, President Roosevelt finds himself in perfect health. He has learned how to get through an enormous amount of work with the greatest ease.

HOW PATTI IS CARED FOR

Mme. Patti arrived in New York accompanied by one maid, one American companion, one private secretary, one business manager, and three servants. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that her latest husband, Baron Cederstrom, was one of the party brought over by the ship.

GOULD AS A SPORTSMAN

From the Brooklyn Eagle. Mr. Gould has from boyhood been a great lover of athletic games and hunting. One of his recreations is taken in these pastimes. He is a hard cross-country rider, and is very fond of fox hunting.

IF YOU WOULD MANAGE HIM

When you marry him, love him. After you marry him, study him. If he is honest, honor him. If he is generous, appreciate him. When he is sad, cheer him. When he is cross, amuse him. When he is talkative, listen to him. When he is quarrelsome, ignore him. If he is slothful, spur him on. If he is noble, praise him. If he is confidential, encourage him. If he is secretive, trust him. If he is jealous, curb him. If he cares naught for pleasure, coax him.

Curate's Revenge

From the Westminster Gazette. Two curates in a church at Maryport (Cumberland) have just resigned. The senior curate preached last Sunday night his farewell sermon, and he chose a text which astonished the congregation. His text was from the book of Job: "Abide ye with the ass; and I and the lad will go yonder and worship." The Cumberland papers quaintly add: "Much comment has been excited by the text."

Just a Little Prejudiced

From the Forest Grove Times. Dave Keen don't seem to be an admirer of Grover Cleveland. He says: "If Cleveland is nominated I want to die before election, for fear he might be elected."

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

(By Beatrice Fairfax.) My Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a young married woman and have to choose between my husband and mother, as he is going to live in a foreign country. I love him dearly, but I do not like to leave my dear mother, whom I could never see again if I were to go.
