

CORBETT PITCHES WINNING BALL

PORTLAND BATSMEN COULD DO NOTHING WITH BROTHER JOE'S DELIVERY, AND AS THE RESULT KNOWS LOSS ANOTHER GAME—STORY OF THE CONTEST.

(Journal Special Service.) Los Angeles, Nov. 19.—Like Butler had a bad inning yesterday, in which the Leo Loos found him for four swats that were safe, and, coupled with Nadeau's error, allowed the leaders to register four tallies.

Outside of that one inning Butler pitched a swell game, keeping the hits well scattered, in which the visitors at his mercy most of the time, the hits secured being widely scattered. Errors and passes allowed all the visitors' runs.

Van Buren walked in the first, took second on a passed ball, and scored on Freeman's single to right. In the third Blake was safe on Raymond's error. Anderson went out, Nadeau hit for two bases, scoring Blake, and Pitt scored a moment later on Francis' hit to center.

The score follows:

FOOTBALL NOTE. (Journal Special Service.) Eugene, Or., Nov. 19.—Arrangements are about completed for a game of football between the Eugene high school and the Holmes Business college teams to be played here on Thanksgiving day.

BRIT AT 2 TO 1. (Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, Nov. 19.—The betting tomorrow night on the Britt-Canole fight is 2 to 1 on Britt.

MULTNOMAH MEN ARE PREPARING FOR CONTEST. The biggest football game of the season will be played on Thanksgiving afternoon on Multnomah field, when the Multnomah club's strong eleven and the powerful team which represents the University of Oregon.

guard, Moran moving out at right tackle to succeed Matt Pratt, who has returned to Southern Oregon. Valentine may also get in the game, either at a guard position or in the back field. Dolph will not play in the Thanksgiving game.

Each place on the team will be filled only by competition. Of course there are fixtures on the team which could not be improved upon, and they will remain intact. The backfield will be changed, somewhat, the exact change not being determined at this time.

Then he went into Ruhlins. Finding himself too slow to work his famous shift he began to mix it with the Akron Giant. No less than six swings on the point of the jaw did Fitz take with wonderful heroism.

Ruhlins at this juncture repeated the mistake of most of Fitz's ring antagonists and became careless. Right here something happened. Ruhlins came too close. The Cornishman's mauling fist crashed into Gus' bread basket. This one blow had more effect than all the blows Ruhlins landed. The Akronite doubled up.

"Oh, it hurt you, did it?" queried the leering Fitz, and from that time on he was himself. Fitzsimmons, not satisfied with conquering Ruhlins, then threw down the gauntlet to Sharkey. He had an old grudge against the Dundalk sailor. With only two weeks' intermission from the time of his fight with Ruhlins, Fitz entered the ring with the sailor, Sharkey went the way of the other.

Fitzsimmons gave the sailor a mauling that put him out of the running as a pugilist. After that walloping Sharkey had to enter the wrestling game.

Then came Fitzsimmons' recent scrap with Jeffries. After that courageous battle the lovers of pugilism thought it about time for the Spartan of ringdom to retire.

Fitz Again Enters the Ring. With two crushing defeats now registered against him, Fitz is again ready to start in to make ring history. With 20 years' age advantage, Gardner looks the natural choice, but the chances are he will receive a clout good for a short voyage to dreamland.

This fight will determine the light heavyweight championship of the world. It will settle the question as to what age a perfectly trained natural athlete can be counted on as a contender in the same of life.

O'BRIEN DRAWS WITH SULLIVAN. (Journal Special Service.) Philadelphia, Nov. 19.—Twin Sullivan of Boston gave Philadelphia Jack O'Brien one of the hardest battles of his career last evening. As both men were on their feet at the end of the sixth round the contest was called a draw.

COLUMBIA TO MEET MT. ANGEL. The Columbia university eleven is scheduled to meet the Mt. Angel college team next Saturday afternoon at Mt. Angel. The university team has met defeat only once this season, that at the hands of the Portland academy. Saturday's contest promises to be hotly contested.

COQUEMUS HIGH SCHOOL. The Bishop Scott Academy eleven downed the Portland High school team Tuesday afternoon on Multnomah field by the score of 16 to 0. High school was clearly outclassed at every stage.

GOOD COACHES. The same may be said of the Corvallisites. Coach "Tommy" McFadden is working like a Trojan with his men, and he is being assisted by his brother, Ralph McFadden, the Pacific university coach, and Fred A. Edwards, the man who worked wonders with Albany last year. Edwards is an old Oregon player, having played on the famous '99 eleven—the strongest football aggregation ever turned out by a Pacific Northwest college.

DIAMOND GLISTENINGS. The National league laid by $35,000 last season. Ed Abbaticchio and his bride will reside with his parents in Latrobe, Pa. By the way, he is expected to arrange matters amicably with Pitzer Frank Coridon.

ALBANY TO MEET WILLAMETTE TEAM. (Journal Special Service.) Salem, Nov. 19.—Next Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the Albany college football team and the Willamette university eleven will meet on the Willamette field in a contest for supremacy. This promises to be one of the best games of the season, as it will probably be the last inter-collegiate game to be played on the Salem field this season.

BOB FITZSIMMONS REMARKABLE MAN

ONCE MORE THE BLACKSMITH PUGILIST WILL BURN FAVORITE OVER GARDNER, WHO HAS YOUTH, STRENGTH AND SPEED IN HIS FAVOR.

One of the most surprising features of the preliminary news from the scene of the Fitzsimmons-Gardner fight is that the Dingo farther rules favorite in the betting over his sturdy Celtic opponent and is likely to enter the ring carrying the odds, says a well known sporting man here.

This is merely proof of the sports' belief in the former champion's ability to accomplish the almost impossible. By all rules of form, Gardner should be the favorite. He is young enough to be Fitz's son. He has never been beaten and has decisively walloped the best men in the lightweight division, including the sturdy "Kid" Carter and the shifty Jack Root.

Gardner is conceded to be fast and clever, and is the reputed proprietor of an unscrupulous job. Fitzsimmons, besides the natural handicap his age imposes, has his chances further impaired by his two defeats at the hands of the bearlike Jeffries.

Gardner is 24, Fitzsimmons, as nearly as mortal can tell, is 44. It is an old man against a young giant, and yet the Methusalem is going to the post with the public's money and much of its sympathy with him.

Since he came to this country the freakish Robert has found accomplishing the impossible to his liking. It is now his favorite role.

Fitz's Abnormal Physique. His very physique is abnormal. It is little short of miraculous that with his height and abnormal breadth of shoulder and depth of chest he was for a decade able to fight in the middleweight division.

When Ruby Robert shambled into the ring to fight Jack Dempsey, the famous Nonparali pugilist, the spectators pined him.

"It is a shame, was the most frequent comment. Yet the Cornishman forced the then middleweight champion of the world to take one of the most pitiless drubbings in ring annals.

That night Dempsey entered the ring with a broken nose and a swollen eye.

CORNELL PLAYERS LIVELY EXPERIENCE

(Journal Special Service.) Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The Cornell varsity football eleven after their ride on a trolley to South Lansing, seven miles up Cayuga lake for a practice, recently were confronted with an unexpected adversary in the shape of a Holstein bull, which was quietly pasturing in an adjoining lot when Quarterback Brewster gave the first signal.

The red haired Jersey which the Ithacans were soon attracted the attention of the bull and enraged him and he charged, bellying over the fence and bore down on the Cornell football aspirants. The Ithacans scattered in every direction and sought a neighboring barn as a refuge. Coach Warner megaphoned to an adjoining farm and the owner finally led the angry intruder off the field.

DUBLING MUST STOP. (Journal Special Service.) Dresden, Nov. 19.—The governor of Saxony has issued stringent measures to stop dueling. In the criminal court today 150 students were sentenced to three months' imprisonment each for participation in affairs of honor.

IDaho DEFEATS MONTANA. (Journal Special Service.) Moscow, Idaho, Nov. 19.—Idaho university defeated the Montana "varsity" yesterday in the annual gridiron contest by the score of 38 to 0. The "varsity" were outclassed at every stage.

MILITIA VS. HIGH SCHOOL. A game of basket ball will take place this evening at the armory between company "G," O. N. G., and high school teams. Both teams have been practicing and expect to make a good contest.

STATE VARSITY TO MEET THE AGRICS

NATURALLY THE CONTEST ON KINCALD FIELD PROMISES TO BE ONE OF THE MOST EXCITING STRUGGLES EVER WAGED BY THE OPPOSING ELEEVENS.

(Journal Special Service.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Nov. 19.—What promises to be the closest and most interesting game of football on the intercollegiate schedule will be played on Kincald field next Saturday when the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural college will play their annual game. Since the return of the Oregon team from Seattle, Coach Smith has called for only light work, as he wishes his men to be in fighting trim for their game with the "Agrics." Aside from a few minor bruises, and it is expected that they will play their hardest in the game on Saturday.

During the early part of the season the Agricultural college eleven played listless ball, and its games with Washington, Multnomah and Albany resulted in defeats. The team had a bad "slump" for several weeks, but when the Washington Agricultural college eleven came down from Pullman, the Corvallis lads regained their fighting stride and won by a score of 6 to 0. Five days previous to the Oregon "varsity" and the Pullmanites played a scoreless game on Kincald field.

Such a comparison of scores gives O. A. C. a shade the better of the outlook, but when it is remembered that Oregon defeated Albany 22 to 0, and Albany downed O. A. C. by 6 to 0, the Oregon stock goes up a notch. However, the comparison of scores is not very fair method of getting a line on the possible outcome of a game, and realizing this, the Oregon "varsity" boys have buckled down to their work with a do-or-die determination that speaks volumes.

Good Coaches. The same may be said of the Corvallisites. Coach "Tommy" McFadden is working like a Trojan with his men, and he is being assisted by his brother, Ralph McFadden, the Pacific university coach, and Fred A. Edwards, the man who worked wonders with Albany last year. Edwards is an old Oregon player, having played on the famous '99 eleven—the strongest football aggregation ever turned out by a Pacific Northwest college.

Under the direction of the McFadden brothers and Edwards, the "farmers" will put up a stubborn defense and will play to win. Local sports believe that the "varsity" will come out a winner, and if the Corvallis people have any coin of the realm to wager on O. A. C. they will certainly be accommodated.

The coming game will settle the state championship for the season of 1902. William Lair Thompson of Albany, and E. C. Judd of Salem will act as officials.

Scores of Other Years. Previous games between U. of O. and O. A. C. have resulted as follows: 1894—U. of O., 0; O. A. C., 16. 1895—U. of O., 44; O. A. C., 9. 1896—U. of O., 8; O. A. C., 4. 1897—U. of O., 8; O. A. C., 26. 1898—U. of O., 38; O. A. C., 0. 1899—U. of O., 38; O. A. C., 0. 1902—U. of O., 0; O. A. C., 0.

Totals. 135 48

DIAMOND GLISTENINGS. The National league laid by $35,000 last season. Ed Abbaticchio and his bride will reside with his parents in Latrobe, Pa. By the way, he is expected to arrange matters amicably with Pitzer Frank Coridon.

President Pulliam, erstwhile golf advocate, has now become a football enthusiast. Fred Raymer declares he will not join the Boston team except as second baseman.

Outfielder Gessler of the Brooklyn is playing ballcock on the Baltimore National college eleven. Sam Leeve has arrived at his home, at Goshen, O., after spending some weeks at Mt. Clemens, Mich.

President Dreyfus was ill for several weeks after the post season series, but is now quite recovered.

Tommy Leach is one of the highest salaried men in the Pittsburgh team. His salary is not far from $6,000.

Pitcher Jim Hackett will not entirely lose the sight of the eye poisoned by a hot ball which he was able to play ball again.

Charlie De Armond will go into business with his brother at Hamilton, O., this winter. In the spring he goes south with the Red Sox.

Joe McGinnily has won out. It is stated that President Brush has met his terms through the intervention of Manager McGraw.

Mike Donlin may accept a position in the "varsity" working in the poolroom at the winter. He will remain in Cincinnati until next spring.

President Hart signed John Kling at a nice advance before that player left for the season, showing that the good work he did was fully recognized.

A subscription is being taken up in Pittsburg to purchase a horse for Roscoe Miller. All he needs is a little good luck to make him a great pitcher.

Pitcher Pitinger was given a sharp turn-down from the Boston last week in an effort to get divorce money to pay for a house in Green Castle, Pa. He may be released.

John Newell, one of the "Pittsburg Rooters," has presented Barney Dreyfus with a gold chain. "I have enough money to buy a new suit," he said, "but I'll wear this chain as a reminder of my old team."

Pat Donovan has had a relapse, and his physicians have ordered him to "rest" for a week. He has worried a great deal over the complications in his club, and now that these cares are off his mind he is expected to rapidly regain his health.

Pitcher Corbett having positively refused to rejoin the Brooklyn team it is probable that Pittsburg will get him by giving Brooklyn a good pitcher for the winter. New York also wants Corbett, but Hanlon will not consent to further strengthen his metropolitan rivals.

SECOND TEAMS PLAY. Columbia's second team defeated the Portland academy second eleven yesterday by the score of 11 to 9.

FRISCO MECCA FOR PRIZE FIGHTERS

FUGS OF EVERY CLASS AND COLOR ARE ENJOYING THE HOSPITALITY OF THE BAY CITY, WHERE BOXING IS FLOURISHING—COMING EVENTS.

(Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, Nov. 19.—Nearly all the boxers of the country seem to have their eyes on San Francisco. The passing of new ordinances that restrict prizefights and the frequent attempts of clubs to control too much of the gate-money in some towns where ring contests have been enjoyed has tended to turn the tide of pugilists toward cities where there is little to do but apply for a permit and arrange the weights to secure a fight. Los Angeles and Portland have cut out the game, and this limits the coast circuit considerably. Therefore this city is now being regarded as the Mecca of the men with the swift punch.

Jimmy Britt, the California favorite, who is listed to box Martin Canole, the Massachusetts wonder, before the Colma Athletic club tomorrow night, was early in the week at 2-to-1 favorite. Britt's recent easy victory over Charlie Steger advanced his stock and has made him popular among the local sporting fraternity. The Britt-Canole fight will be a 25-round contest, a new departure, the extra five rounds will be allowed at Colma, just across the county line.

Canole's Record. Canole has decisions over Jack O'Keefe, Tom Boyle, Pete Sullivan, Tommy King, Pete Mullen—all knockouts—and he also boxed a 10-round go with Martin Flaherty. He has never met with a reverse, and his Fall River contingent, which is here two dozen strong, have money to put that their man is a winner. It is needless to say that this money has found and is finding takers, and it is certain that a deal more coin will change hands over this contest than did over the Britt-Sieger fight.

There seems to be more interest taken in the Britt-Canole event than in the coming go between Bob Fitzsimmons and George Gardner at the Yosemite Athletic club on the 25th inst. Jim Gardner, win or lose, intends journeying to Memphis to look after his racing ponies. He appears to be confident of victory.

Tommy Reilly, the California middleweight, now in this city, is after a meeting with Nick Burley, and in spite of the fact that a Vancouver, B. C., club offered them a date, Burley remains silent.

"Cyclone" Kelly, of San Francisco, before the Southern Athletic club of Philadelphia, made Jimmy Handler of Newark quit in the third round of a six-round contest.

The last heard of "Young Griffe" of Australia was that he was an inmate of the Bridewell jail of Chicago. An effort is to be made to match him with some prominent lightweight on his release. Griffe's great fault is drink, and it was liquor that got him into trouble with the authorities.

Faking Fights. Omaha has taken stand against what the sports there have declared to be "faked matches." Philadelphia's Tommy Ryan and Billy Rhodes of Omaha are said to have faked a six-round go, and for this they were arrested and charged with vagrancy. It was alleged that they had agreed to fix the fight.

Frank Allen. Frank Allen an ex-boxing instructor of the California Athletic club, is now a prosperous resident of Dawson City, N. W. T. Frank struck it rich in the mines.

Joe Cherry. Joe Cherry, of Saginaw, Mich., who recently defeated Tommy Felts, may come to California at a near date and meet Frankie Nell in a 20-round contest, before the Colma club. Nell, however, prefers to meet Johnny Reagan in a return match, they having boxed a draw.

A Family Feud. From the New York Times. A teacher in one of the grammar schools of this city received the following note from the mother of a 12-year-old boy: "Dear Miss B.—I kindly excuse James from school for the rest of the week. His uncle from California is paying us a short visit and wants James to show him around. He is quite old and likely to die at any time, and we expect him to leave James all his money. Hoping you will excuse my son, I remain, yours sincerely, "The note was received on Wednesday. Friday morning found the aforesaid James in his accustomed place, looking rather dull and displeased.

"I thought you intended making a week of it," said the teacher, good-naturedly. "Has your uncle gone home?" "Now," answered James, gloomily, "He's over in Brooklyn. My aunt from Brooklyn showed him the letter ma wrote you, while ma was huddled round for an envelope. It made him so mad that he went right home with her. She thinks my cousin Tommy'll git the money, but he won't 'cause I told Uncle Ben how Tommy always made fun of him behind his back. I don't care," he added, sourly. "I wouldn't be such a mean old sneaks as Aunt Jane an' Tommy for all the old money."

Never Your Own. From the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "Do you really believe there is such a thing in this world as 'perfect happiness'?" "Of course, but some other fellow always has it."
