YALE VANQUISHES HARVARD ELEVEN

ELI'S MIGHTY FOOTBALL WARRIORS SWEEP THE MEN OF HARVARD BEFORE THEM, AND WIN A GLORIOUS VICTORY—GREAT CROWD PRESENT.

YALE, 16; HARVARD, 0.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21.—Forty thousand spectators gathered at Soldiers' Field this afternoon to witness the annual contest between Yale and Harvard. The day was ideal for football and every railroad ran special excursion trains. Twenty-five special trains crowded with blue and crimson partisans arrived in Boston early this morning, and started at once for the scene of the battle. The betting was spirited, Yale men offering as much as 5 to 1 on their team, and the Harvard supporters greedily accepting the odds offered. The seating capacity was not sufficient to accommodate the crowd, over 10,000 persons being unable to gain admission to the field. Seats sold as high as $100 a piece, but as everybody was anxious to see the game, many could not purchase admission at any price.

The Teams Appear.

Yale was the first on the gridiron and was given a tremendous reception by the Yale contingent, joined by the Crimson rooters. A few minutes later Captain Marshall and his men romped into the grid, and the Harvard students greeted them with the solid and dignified Harvard yell: "Rah-rah-rah! Rah-rah-rah! Rah-rah-rah! Harvard!

Game Begins.

Yale won the toss and received Harvard's kickoff. A stubborn contest ensued. Mitchell was to the front in every play.

After a stubborn contest, each yard being fought for bitterly, Yale carried the ball over for a touchdown. Marshall of Harvard tried a field goal, but the ball went wide over the side lines. At the end of the first half the score stood: Yale 5, Harvard 0. The final score was: Yale 16, Harvard 0.

FARE IS 25 CENTS MAY GO TO 15

Beginning Monday the fare on the steamer Charles R. Spencer to The Dalles will be reduced from 50 to 25 cents, the same as is now charged on the Bailey Gatzert of the Regulator line.

Speculation is now being indulged in on the water front as to what the next setp of the Regulator line will be. Some are of the opinion that it will slash the 25-cent rate down to 15 cents.

Representatives of the Spencer line state that beginning Monday it will be cheaper traveling on their boat than on those of their competitor, for the reason that meals are served at a lower price. On the Gatzert, they declare, 50 cents is charged for meals, while the ruling price on the Spencer is 35 cents.

The steamer Annie Comings, owned by F. W. Leadbetter, will be placed in commission on the upper river Monday. She will run between here and Warrendale, carrying both freight and passengers.

SAMUEL GOMPERS ELECTED PRESIDENT

(Journal Special Service.)

Boston, Nov. 21.—The Federation of Labor this morning re-elected Samuel Gompers president by a vote of 12,524. Kroft received 1,134 votes. Great excitement was expressed during the counting of the ballots. Ernest Kroft was the Socialist candidate and led this force in yesterday's proceedings.

The Socialist candidate, Kroft, failed to vote the strength of his party. Shortly after the voting commenced John Mitchell arose and said this delegation is unanimously for Samuel Gompers and from that time the voting went almost entirely in Gompers' favor. The others elected are as follows: First vice-president, Duncan; second vice-president, Mitchell; third vice-president, O'Connell; fourth vice-president, Morris. Walter MacArthur of San Francisco and Thomas Kidd of Chicago were nominated as fifth vice-president, but MacArthur withdrew in favor of Kidd. The governor of Utah and mayor of Salt Lake sent letters inviting the next convention to meet in Salt Lake. Milwaukee was also mentioned.

SAYS RUSSIA WAS PREPARED FOR WAR

(Journal Special Service.)

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 21.—Peter Molk, the engineer who took the Russian warship out from the Baltic sea to Port Arthur, arrived this morning on his way home. While at Port Arthur, on account of the lack of accommodations the Russian headquarters were on warships, and he had an excellent chance to study conditions. He anticipated war and says Russia has as strong a fleet in those waters as Japan has and that fortifications are constantly building and forces increasing, showing Russia's readiness to act on short notice. He tells of every warship being given short orders at one time during his stay on board to prepare for action. It transpired afterwards that the Japanese ministers were then discussing the questions with the expectation that war might be decided upon. Russia was prepared to strike a quick and decisive blow had such a decision resulted.

W. W. BANKS PLEASED BY HIS NOMINATION

William W. Banks, attorney at 420 Chamber of Commerce building, whose indorsement to the position of assistant United States district attorney was made yesterday at Washington by the Oregon delegation, as announced in The Journal, has received word of the action of the representatives. Mr. Banks, if appointed, will relieve Edwin Mays and will take up his new duties about January 1.

"I do not desire to say anything concerning my recommendation for the position of assistant district attorney," said Mr. Banks, "further than that I am highly pleased with the honor conferred upon me and that a young man has been given recognition. There have been a number of persons anxious for the position."

Mr. Banks is 27 years of age, and has resided in Portland since he was a boy. He was admitted to practice in the state courts in June, 1896. He came of age July 25 of the following year.

It is learned that one of the recommendations filed at Washington in Mr. Banks' behalf came from Mayor George H. Williams. While the United States district attorney is appointed by the president, the deputy district attorney is appointed by the attorney-general. It is therefore an interesting bit of history that while Judge Williams was attorney-general he appointed Knox, who is now attorney-general, to the office of deputy district attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania. Knox was then a young lawyer and was little known. It is natural to suppose that the recommendation given Mr. Banks by Mayor Williams carried considerable weight with Attorney-General Knox.

MISS LILLIAN MYERS TO GIVE A CONCERT

Miss Lillian Myers, a well known Oregonian, and one of the most promising violinists of the day, has returned to Portland after six years of hard, steady work in Germany, Belgium and France, where she was a pupil of the best masters and her friends and music lovers generally will be given an opportunity to hear her Monday evening, December 7, at the Marquam Grand, when she will give a concert recital, assisted by Edgar E. Coursen, accompanist.

MORRISON BRIDGE BIDS TO CLOSE

TENDERS NOT TO BE RECEIVED AFTER WEDNESDAY AT 2 P. M.—EXECUTIVE BOARD CONCLUDES THERE IS NO GOOD REASON FOR EXTENSION OF TIME.

There will be no delay in receiving contracts for the proposed new Morrison-street bridge. Tenders will be received up to Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, as originally planned, and the work will be awarded by the executive board in accordance with the plans and specifications of City Engineer Elliott and under the exact conditions prescribed by the board when the first call was made.

Yesterday afternoon the resolution of the city council asking for an extension of time was received, but it was ordered placed on file. Personal representatives from a number of companies were also present and the mayor and city auditor spoke of numerous requests for postponement, but all action on that line was squelched instantly when Chairman Boise of the special committee announced that no delay would be considered.

Cheaper Steel Improbable.

"We carefully investigated the question," he explained, "and came to the conclusion that there were no valid reasons for postponing the awarding of contracts. The talk about cheaper steel is not apparently well founded and it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that the proposition of delay be rejected."

The proposition of installing an electric lighting plant on the new fireboat was approved by the members, but it was thought best to refer the matter to a committee. Fire Chief Campbell stated that the plant was a necessity.

Repairs were ordered at the city barn. The present wooden foundations are rotting and crumbling away and cement foundations will possibly be substituted.

Taxpayers' League Request.

The Taxpayers' League advised the board to hire an engineering expert in connection with the construction of the new Morrison street bridge. This also was referred.

The patrolmen of the city filed a petition asking for a raise in salary from $75 to $90 per month. The petition will be investigated.

Allen & Lewis and other firms ask for better fire protection in the vicinity of the Northern Pacific terminal grounds.

CHROMETZ WALKING AROUND THE EARTH

HUNGARIAN ON A LONG JAUNT GATHERING DATA FOR A BOOK OF ADVENTURE—ROMANTIC ENGAGEMENT IN MARYLAND—SELLING PHOTOGRAPHS FOR SUPPORT.

A globe trotter who bears evidence of being the real thing is in Portland. The city has in times past been visited by others who have a mania for walking and are not satisfied until they stroll around the earth. Andrew Chrometz of Turocz-Szt.-Marton, Hungary, is now in town. He started from the old country on September 1, 1901, and expects to again reach the starting point in Hungary in 1906. When he left home he had but 18 cents and has during the trip supported himself by selling photographs. His route up to this time has been through Poland, Austria, Germany, Holland, England, Ireland, the United States and Canada. He left Seattle November 15, and walked to Tacoma, where he went to Kalama and came to Portland by boat. He goes from here to San Francisco, then will take ship to Yokohama, and travel through Japan, China, Persia, India and Africa, returning by way of Australia.

He is keeping a diary of his daily experiences and will write a book of travels when he reaches his home. He says that at Edwards Falls, Md., he met a Miss Jorboe, and after a couple of days' acquaintance they became engaged to be married—after the walk is over.

Chrometz is a little man of great energy, whom the sun and wind have bronzed to the color of an Indian. He carries a pack of about 25 pounds. He says his back is at present very sore, and that if it gets much worse he will have to take a long rest.

CASE OF MARTIN GOES TO JURY

The case of Albert Martin, Siletz Indian, accused of murdering U. S. Grant, on the evening of October 20, last, will go to the jury some time this afternoon. United States District Attorney John H. Hall, who is conducting the prosecution, is attempting to prove that Martin committed the crime by statements of witnesses that he and Grant were enemies; that Martin made threats against the latter's life and that the drinking bout between Grant, Martin and Abe Logan at Woodman's ford, where the tragedy was enacted, was a conspiracy to get Grant intoxicated and do away with him.

Witnesses for Defense Conclude.

The examination of witnesses for the defense ended this morning with the cross-examination of the defendant. A point brought out was that when Martin recovered his senses the next morning after having lain intoxicated all night, the first thing he asked, addressing Logan, was:

"Is Grant dead? Abey, why did you kill him?" Logan replied:

"The horse killed him. Grant' foot caught in the stirrup. He is lying dead in the river now."

United States Circuit Judge Bellinger will call the trial docket of cases before the present jury next Monday. All cases to be heard during this term will be set on that day.

FURNITURE MEN EAT AND TALK

RECEPTION AT THE COMMERCIAL CLUB TO TULL & GIBBS, WHO HAVE RECENTLY ENTERED THE FIELD—TOASTS FULL OF GOOD SENSE AND HUMOR.

Freight rates on furniture were discussed by furniture dealers and railroad men at the annual banquet of the Furniture Exchange held in the commercial club last night.

Henry Jenning spoke of the low prices of furniture and the effect of cheap freight rates from the East. F. S. Doernbecher responded to a toast on "The Advantages of a Coast Factory," and William Gadsby discoursed on "The Products of a Coast City."

On behalf of the railroad men, R. B. Miller, freight agent of the O. R. & N., responded to a toast on "His Occupation Gone," in which he declared that his occupation was not gone, even if the Portland furniture dealers purchased all their goods from the local furniture factories. William Harder, general freight agent of the Great Northern, talked on railroading and steamboat facilities, and was followed by W. E. Coman, passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, who discoursed on railroad and freight rates.

Reception to Tull & Gibbs.

The banquet was in the nature of a reception to Tull & Gibbs, who recently entered the local field. Tables were spread for 30, and decorations of carnations, roses and smilax, were profuse. Orchestral music was provided.

A formal address of welcome to Tull & Gibbs was made by W. H. Beharrell, president of the Furniture Exchange, and F. D. Gibbs responded. Both toasts were in a humorous strain.

"How a Traveling Man Spends His Time and Money," was the toast assigned to Ira F. Powers, and in a very short space of time the guests were thoroughly enlightened on the subject.

H. M. Cake, president of the Commercial Club, responded to a toast on the "Loyalty to Portland," and his remarks were loudly applauded. Thomas H. Edwards gave a toast on "Sons of the Furniture Men," and was followed by E. C. Oliver in a short address.

BRINGS A SUIT AGAINST DUNBAR

ECHO OF THE GREAT SMUGGLING SCANDAL OF TEN YEARS AGO—R. S. SMITH TRYING TO COLLECT $2,700 OF A BOND HE HAD TO PAY.

A suit was filed this morning in the state circuit court which recalls a sensation of 10 years ago, when the greatest smuggling ring ever known on this coast was broken up. The disclosures made in 1893 by the United States grand jury in this city form one of the most extraordinary chapters in the history of the Northwest, and the scandal involved some of the most prominent business men of Portland. A number of government officials were convicted of complicity in the ring. James Lotan, then collector of customs, was fined $8,000; John Wilson, United States consul at Victoria, was indicted but never tried, as he remained beyond the jurisdiction of this government, and practically every customs officer in Portland was implicated.

Case of William Dunbar.

Among those indicted are William Dunbar, who was at the time engaged in the wholesale commission business at Front and Pine streets. He was tried and convicted, and the suit filed today is the outgrowth of those criminal proceedings 10 years ago.

Dunbar was charged with smuggling Chinese and opium, and the poor of his guilt was conclusive. His trial occurred in December, 1893, and resulted in a sentence of two years' imprisonment in the Multnomah county jail and a fine of $1,000. Dunbar appealed to the United States supreme court, and pending the decision of the appeal was released on a $6,000 bond, his sureties being his two brothers, James S. and T. N. Dunbar, and R. S. Smith. The supreme court decided adversely to Dunbar and affirmed his sentence. But when the government officials attempted to carry the sentence into effect Dunbar could not be found. He had fled the country. Proceedings were instituted to recover from his bondsmen, but Dunbar's brothers proved financially irresponsible, and Smith, the other surety, was forced to pay $2,700. T. N. Dunbar was arrested on the charge of perjury in swearing that he was worth the sum for which he qualified on his brother's bond, but the prosecution resulted in nothing.

After his escape, William Dunbar went to China and engaged in business at Hong Kong. He is said to have been very successful and to have made a large fortune by importing wheat from this country. His bondsman, Smith, has been unable to secure repayment of the money which he lost by becoming his surety. It is said that Dunbar even repudiated a note for $200 given for money lent him by a friend to enable him to make his escape to China.

In the suit brought today, Smith, through his attorney, Charles J. Schnabel, seeks judgment against William Dunbar and prays a writ of attachment, stating that he is informed that the defendant has property within the jurisdiction of the court.

CONSPIRACY CASES NOT SET.

In the United States circuit court this morning District Attorney John H. Hall moved that the case of Marie Ware, Horace G. McKinley, S. A. D. Puter and Guy Huff, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government, be set for trial December14. Mr. Hall stated he desired to try the conspiracy case before hearing the charge of forgery for which the defendants were also indicted. The prosecuting attorney said he did not wish to bring up the case for trial before the 14th, as the special counsel employed by the government to help prosecute the case had been called to Washington.

Attorneys O'Day and Mays for the defense objected to the trial of the conspiracy case first. The court advised the attorneys to confer regarding which indictment should be tried first.

E. P. H. vs. "Silent Piano"

Interesting Details Brought Out At Last Week's Trial.

Ellers Piano House, Plaintiff.
The "Silent Piano" Owners, Defendants.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Q. Do you love music.
A. Yes.
Q. Do you realize that it is an absolute necessity to the average human being at the present time?
A. I do.
Q. Have you, on previous occasions, stated that you felt the lack of it, owing to the fact that you never learned to play, and do not now know a note of music?
A. I have.
Q. Would you, or would you not, be glad to be able to play the most difficult musical compositions and interpret them just as you wish?
A. I would.
Q. Have you ever had "notions of your own" about how a certain composition should be played and longed to illustrate it, but could not, owing to your lack of digital dexterity?
A. I have.
Q. State whether or not there is a piano in your home?
A. There is.
Q. Is it ever played upon?
A. Only occasionally, when there are visitors that play.
Q. Would you like to have music for little informal dances and other entertainments for your friends?
A. Yes.
Q. Would you like to keep strictly up-to-date in musical literature?
A. I would.
Q. Have you made any attempt to remedy any of these conditions?
A. No.

Counsel for Plaintiff: Witnesses state they love music; that they realize it is an absolute necessity in life; that they possess a piano and would like to be able to educate themselves and entertain their friends pleasantly and acceptably, yet have utterly failed to do so.

After further cross-examination verdict was rendered as follows:

VERDICT.

"While the court finds no evidence of direct criminal negligence, it is quite apparent defendants have failed to keep themselves informed regarding the merits of the Pianola. Sentence is accordingly suspended in order to give them opportunity to learn how their every musical want is supplied by the Pianola, which costs only $250.00. Caution—There are other devices for piano-playing, but only one perfect one — the Pianola."

U. S. ENGINEERS STOP AT PORTLAND

Lieut.-Col. Thomas H. Handbury and Capt. W. W. Harts of the corps of United States engineers, arrived in the city this morning from San Francisco. In company with Maj. W. C. Langfitt they are spending the day up the Columbia river viewing the Cascade Locks and other interesting sights.

With Maj. Langfitt the California engineers were recently appointed as a board by Chief Engineer G. L. Gillespie of Washington, D. C., to inspect and make a report of the improvements being made in the inner harbor of Gray's Harbor. This is the nature of the work that brought them north. The members of the board will leave for Seattle tomorrow night.

SAN FRANCISCO GETS A BAD DRENCHING

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—The heaviest rain storm in years visited San Francisco during the past three days, bringing a vast amount of good to farming interests, but in the city the floods did considerable damage to that section of the city south of Market street where the sewers were overcrowded. The sewers burst flooding lumber yards, cellars and filling some of the low-lying streets with as much as six feet of water.

The San Jose local train narrowly escaped disaster on account of the washing out of a culvert, but it was discovered in time to stop.

OPERA PROGRAM IS A SUCCESS

PORTLAND SINGERS WELL RECEIVED IN CLASSICAL SELECTIONS—MRS. REED, MISS WATT, M. O. LOWNSDALE, N. C. ZAN AND HERR TITKARY THE SOLOISTS.

A program of grand opera filled every seat at the Empire theatre last night. It was a thoroughly appreciative audience and nearly every one prominently identified with music in Portland was there. Mrs. Reed and Millard O. Lownsdale were best known of the singers, but before the performance was over it was hard to choose a favorite. Herr Vilmos Titkary, tenor, followed the method of numerous European opera singers. Miss Agnes Watt was brilliant in her work. N. C. Zan, too, was well received.

The program opened with the trio from Verdi's "Attila," "Te sol quest anima," sung by Miss Watt, N. C. Zan and Vilmos Titkary. Then came Mrs. Walter Reed with Carmen's "Habanera." She was enthusiastically received. Flowers were heaped upon her until Manager Baker had to assist in carrying away the bouquets, and Mrs. Reed, with her arms full of roses, responded to the encore with "Just A-Wearyin' For You."

Millard O. Lownsdale made his first appearance in the next number, a quartet from "Rigoletto." N. C. Zan's solo was the toreador song from "Carmen," which he sang with much force and expression, though his voice seemed a trifle husky in the lighter notes of his encore, Tosti's "Vorrei Morire." The duet, "Home to Our Mountains," from "Il Trovatore," sung by Mrs. Reed and Herr Titkary, delighted the audience. The reception of the evening almost was accorded Miss Agnes Watt, who followed in the vocal gymnastics of the "Jewel Song" from Gounod's "Faust." For a second piece she sang Rossini's "La Danza." She has a beautifully clear, well-trained soprano. Mrs. Reed and Mr. Lownsdale sang two duets, "In Questo Suolo" and "L'Addio," from Donizetti's "La Favorita."

Herr Titkary appeared to best advantage in an aria from Verdi's "Otello," and, called back, sang "La Donne Mobile," from "Rigoletto." Schumann's "The Two Grenadiers" gave Mr. Lownsdale his opportunity. The applause was tremendous. His ringing baritone filled the theatre, and there was none of the straining effort that disfigures singing. He was compelled to sing twice more before the audience would let him go. "Blessed Dreams" and "Pretty Moth" were his encores. The closing number, the familiar sextet from "Lucia di Lammermoor," brought out every soloist, and besides Louis P. Bruce, who had not appeared before.

Edgar E. Coursen was accompanist for all the singers, and performed that very important part of the work so well that nobody noticed him at all, which negative compliment is about the best an accompanist can receive.

Specialists in Men's Diseases

DR. W. NORTON DAVIS

We have attained success — a degree of success not even approached by other specialists in the treatment of men's diseases. There is no secret about it. For years we have been telling the people in public print just why our business grows. We feel it our duty to do so. We want every man in every walk of life to know about the wonderful potent features that have made our practice grow. One is, we cure diseases quicker and more thoroughly than other physicians can. We cure diseases that other honest doctors do not pretend to cure. Through 21 years of practice and study we have gained a broader experience, and been able to perfect newer and more perfect methods, while others continue along the old lines. Our treatment is scientific and thorough—and we are usually able to cure even the most complicated cases in much less time than is commonly required.

"Weakness"

We not only cure "weakness" promptly, but we employ the only treatment that can possibly cure this disorder permanently. It is mainly a system of local treatment, entirely original with ourselves, and is employed by no other physicians.

This may seem a broad assertion, but it is just as substantial as it is broad.

So-called "weakness" is but a symptom of some derangement in the prostate gland, and a radical cure is merely a matter of restoring this organ to its natural condition, and this we accomplish thoroughly and with absolute certainty.

We Are Always Willing to Wait for Our Fee Until a Cure Is Effected.

Contracted Disorders

Improper treatment of contracted disease can easily bring loss of power. An examination reveals this very cause in a large proportion of the cases of weakness. Lingering inflammation centering in the prostate gland is sure to result in disordered function, and the condition will never be corrected until the inflamed and swollen gland is restored to its normal state. We thoroughly cure every contracted disease we treat. The remedies we employ are known to ourselves alone, and no other physician has as yet produced equally prompt and thorough cures.

Stricture

Our treatment for stricture removes the necessity for surgical operations even in severe cases of long standing. We do no cutting or dilating. No other physician employs our methods of overcoming this disorder, so the service we offer you is original and distinctive. Do not give up hope because others have failed. We will cure you and the cure will be a prompt and a painless one. Our treatment dissolves the stricture and permanently removes every obstruction from the urinary passages, subdues all inflammation, relieves all irritation or congestion that may exist in the kidneys or bladder, reduces enlargement in the prostate gland, and restores health and tone to all the organs affected by the disease.

PILES

Quick Cures. Certain Cures.

We cure the worst cases of piles permanently without the use of ointments, without pain, cutting or detention from business, in from two to three treatments. Our treatment is entirely new and peculiar to ourselves. Remember, no matter who has failed before in your case, we will cure you with mild methods, and without danger, or else make no charge whatever for our services.

Should you live at a distance, we can treat you successfully at home.

WE ARE ALWAYS WILLING TO WAIT FOR OUR FEE UNTIL A CURE IS EFFECTED.

Consultation and advice free, either at office or by mail. Our illustrated book, describing the male anatomy, is both interesting and instructive. We will send it free in plain wrapper, sealed, upon request. Treatment at home is possible in most cases.
