The art, influence or skill, or what-ever it may be, of the magnetic healer is being wonderfully employed these times. Mrs. L. H. Hart, of 205 Alisky building, has under her care at this time a well-known citizen, who has been blind for several years, and he is re-covering his sight to such all extent that he can now discern objects quite readily. From present indications there are good reasons to hope that within a few months he will be enabled to care for himself as well as ever. Mrs. Hart is one of Portland's purest Christian women, and she makes no pretentions whatever of working miracles; but she does cure the sick, and that with marvelous success. Some of these restorstions to health are positively amazing. And she employs no drugs nor does she make use of surgery.

After an examination in the police court yesterday S. O. Nelson, a cook employed at a local sanitarium, was discharged. He was charged with robbing Earl Jarrett, a lad of 14, Sunday evening. The boy stated that Nelson hired him to carry his grips from the Union depot, and while in the railroad yards the Jap, he said, robbed him of 50 cents and his watch and chain. The boy was positive in his identification. but as the corroborating evidence was insufficient, Judge Hogue dismissed the

He left Portland about 16 months ago, having been transferred to the Seattle office of the Thiel agency.

Several days ago the chief learned that machines paying money instead of checks, in defiance of the gambling law, were in many of the saloons about the city, and he decided this must stop.
