The remains of Sister Mary Bendis, of the Community of the Sisters of the Holy Names, who died at Holy Names academy, Spokane, Wash., of acute peritonitis, Sunday morning, arrived in Portland this morning. Following this a solemn funeral mass was sung, which was attended by a large gathering of sorrowing friends. Tomorrow morning the funeral will take place at St. Paul, Marion county, where the internment will be made in the Community Mortuary vault. Sister Bendis was in her 24th year and was the daughter of Peter Van Hoemissen of Portland.

Halley Gatzert, the popular passenger steamer, makes the trip from Portland to The Dalles on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, leaving The Dalles on alternate days, except Sunday, arriving at all ports from one to two hours earlier than any other boat on the river. She makes the following landings: Van-Couver, Washougal, Cascade Locks, Stevenson, Carson, Collins, White Salmon, Hood River, Lyle, Fare 25 cents to all landings. Finest of meals 25 cents. Leaves Alder-street dock at 7 a. m. and The Dalles at 7 a. m.

William R. Ferris, who recently died at his home in University Park, was born at Unadilla, N. Y., in 1840. He was a veteran of the civil war and was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg. At one time he studied for the ministry and also took a course in law. He came to Portland from Wichita, Kan., about two years ago. He leaves a widow, two sons—William R. and John C.—and two daughters—Stella and Jennie.

With a celebration of the holy communion at 6:30 yesterday morning the mission which Fathers Parrish and Venables of San Francisco have been conducting at St. Mark's church came to a close yesterday. There has been a large attendance throughout the mission and the church leaders are highly satisfied with the result. The visiting priests returned to their home in San Francisco yesterday.

Hunger and lack of money made Bert Ross, 18 years of age, a thief, according to his own statement to Justice Reid yesterday. Ross was arrested Saturday night by Detective Korrigan and Snow for stealing a bicycle from G. Bennett, Troutdale. Ross was sent to the county jail for 15 days in lieu of a fine of $30. He hails from Nelson, B. C. He secured only $3 on the wheel.

Out of a total of $499.05 received by the Volunteers of America for Thanksgiving donations, $387 was expended, according to Capt. John Anderson, in charge of the corps. Of the amount received $106 was from the public schools, while $39 worth of provisions was donated by merchants of the city. A balance of $112.06 will be used in relieving poor families during the winter.

The Dalles City leaves Alder street at 6:30 a. m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; leaves The Dalles Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 7 a. m. Makes all way landings. Fare 25 cents. Ship by freight by the regular line. The Regulator line is the only company that has comfortable and dry warehouses for the reception of freight and passengers.

Whenever you are in a hurry for anything in the drug and medicine line, just ring up Main 400 and Albert Berni, the druggist, Second and Washington, will take pleasure in sending it to you. Whenever you want anything and don't get it in other drug stores, then try Berni's. He generally has it in stock or can get it for you.

Claiming to be seeking his aunt, who lives in Albina, Harry Doran came to Portland and went to the Everett house. He is 16 years of age and his home is in Seattle. On account of his youth a policeman noticed him and took him to the station. Officer Hawley is trying to locate the boy's relatives here.

J. S. Foss, recently appointed department inspector, G. A. R., is making preparations for the annual inspection of posts during December. Election of officers of posts in Portland and the state will take place this week. In Portland post nominations have already been made.

Perhaps books are more largely used as gifts for young folks during the holiday season than any other article. Ewing's Book Store, Fourth and Yamhill streets, has the fullest line of books for boys and girls.

At the special legislative session an effort will probably be made to pass an appropriation to buy a crown for Estacada. Estacada deserves all the jewels the state can bestow upon her.

AT THE THEATRES

There was much doing at the Marquam Grand theatre last evening. Passersby in the neighborhood of Morrison street stopped and gaped with wonder at a force of 100 men busily engaged in hauling scenery in through the front entrance of the playhouse. The street cars were blocked, and the same condition of affairs existed in the alleyway that leads off Alder street to the stage door of the Marquam. The excitement all due to the arrival of the "Ben Hur" company and resembled very much the tent arrangements of a circus.

Coming from San Francisco on two special trains, the first made up of ten Pullman sleepers and the second of 12 baggage cars, the company was landed at Oakland mole at 3:30 p. m., and it was there the excitement commenced. Of the 215 persons forming the organization not more than 30 had even been in San Francisco before. Several of them are imported chorus and dance girls from London, and their inquiries about "lodging" "houses," "taverns" and "otels" was productive of much mirth for the train and boat hands and the hotel runners that met the organization at the dock.

After they were finally disposed of, the stage staff, numbering in the neighborhood of a hundred, met the scene cars, and the work of unloading then commenced. Forty wagons were supplied by the transfer company for the first lot of stuff. All told, it required 89 wagon loads to transport the scenery props and mechanical effects encased in the 12 cars.

It was long after midnight before everything was placed in the theatre and Charles Towle, who is here from New York to personally superintend the first performance, departed for his hotel with the assurance that tonight's presentation of "Ben Hur" will equal the first night of New York or London. Especial attention is called by the management to the fact that the performance will begin at 8 o'clock evenings and the matinees at 2. No overture is played and the performance begins with the prelude, the Star of Bethlehem. No one will be seated during this scene. Mr. Helig has secured from Klaw & Erlanger the privilege of giving an extra performance. This will be given Friday afternoon. Seats will go on sale this morning.

"JIM THE PENMAN."
The Baker Theatre company is playing that famous old drama, "Jim the Penman," this week by special request of many of the patrons, and the performance is receiving much praise from all sides.

VIOLIN CONCERT.
The violin concert recital given by Miss Lillian Myers promises to equal any musical affair ever given in this city, next Monday.

"A LITTLE OUTCAST."
Commencing at Cordray's theatre Thursday evening "A Little Outcast" comes for a short engagement of four performances. The play was here last season and it was well liked. Visions of the Orient, with its mysteries and magic, are vividly pictured in the second act of "A Little Outcast," where for the first time in any production a correct view of a typical Chinese restaurant is given.

"YON YONSON."
"Yon Yonson" will be at Cordray's theatre tonight and tomorrow night for the last time. Yon is better than ever. The play is nearly all laughter, but blended nicely with enough pathos to make it enjoyable.

"NOT GUILTY."
At the Empire "Not Guilty," a sensational melodrama of much merit, is doing its share of business the present week. The play is brimming over with startling climaxes and thrilling situations.

CAPT. KELLOGG DIES AT AGE OF 91

PIONEER STATE BUILDER PASSES AWAY—ERECTED THE FIRST FLOURMILL, FIRST SAWMILL AND FIRST SCHOONER IN OREGON—ALWAYS A BUSY MAN.

Capt. Joseph Kellogg died at the residence of Capt. Orrin Kellogg, his son, at No. 410 Second street, yesterday at 7:50 a. m., aged 91 years, 6 months and 15 days. He was born in Canada June 24, 1812, while his parents were on a visit there. Their home was in Vermont, but while temporarily away the war of 1812 began, and they were forced to remain until peace was restored. After the war the family moved back to the United States and settled near Lockport, N. Y., but soon moved to Ohio and took up their home near the Maumee river, Ohio. Captain Kellogg was married to Miss Estella Bushnell September 23, 1844. Three children were born to this union. One of them died in infancy, and Charles H. died in this city in 1889, leaving Capt. Orrin Kellogg the only surviving son. Mrs. Kellogg died January 15, 1902. There were 12 children in his father's family, only three in Oregon and now living, Elsie and Jason of this city, and Edward of Grants Pass.

Reached Oregon in 1848. In 1847 the family started to Oregon. Included in his father's family at that time were two married sisters and their husbands, Daniel and Sylvester Hathaway, and four sons and two grandsons, Orrin and Charles H. They wintered at St. Joseph in 1847-8, and in May, 1848, they started across the plains, reaching the Willamette valley September 8, 1848, and located at Milwaukie. The various heads of the family took up donation claims around Milwaukie and went to work to make a home for themselves.

Captain Kellogg was a natural mechanic and his abilities in this direction found ample use in those days. He erected the first sawmill in Oregon and constructed the first bridge across the Clackamas river and planned and erected the first merchant flouring mill—the Standard—which gained fame for the superior quality of its flour. He in company with Lot Whitcomb and William Torrence laid out the town site of Milwaukie.

Built the First Schooner. Captain Kellogg built a schooner—the first that was ever built on the Coast—and added her with lumber for the rigging to markets, and sent both the schooner and lumber at a very high price when it reached that place. The firm made money enough to purchase the bark Louisiana, which they fitted up with engines and boilers and made a steamer out of it. In 1850 they began to construct the steamer Lot Whitcomb, the first large steam craft ever built on the Coast. The Lot Whitcomb made several trips between Milwaukie and Astoria, but was finally sold to parties in San Francisco. He finally retired from this firm and formed a partnership with Bradbury & Eddy in the flouring mill. On retiring from this firm in 1863 he built the steamer Senator and ran her on the Columbia and Willamette rivers.

Supervised Boatbuilding. The Senator was transferred to the People's Transportation company in 1864 and Captain Kellogg became the active manager of that company, designing and superintending the building of the company's boats. Under his supervision the first boat of Oregon City was constructed, which was one of the greatest needs for the transfer of freight from the upper to the lower river, and how well he did the work is testified by time, which has made no inroads on the solid works.

The People's Transportation company sold out to Ben Holladay in 1870, against his protest, and after this sale he became connected with the Willamette Transportation company. He built the Governor Grever, Willamette Chief and the Beaver for this company. When this company fell into the hands of the O. R. & N. Co. Captain Kellogg and his sons went on the Columbia river and until within the past few years he has been the president of the Kellogg Transportation company, which is named in honor of its founder. He was the pioneer pilot of both the Willamette and Columbia rivers.

Captain Kellogg was a high Mason. He brought the charter to Oregon under which was organized Multnomah lodge No. 1 at Oregon City.

The funeral will take place from the Scottish Rite cathedral Wednesday at 2 p. m.

FOR ALTERING MONEY ORDERS.
William Mills, George Willis and H. Carpenter appeared before United States Commissioner McKee this morning charging with altering postal money orders. The examination was continued until Friday to allow the prisoners to secure an attorney.

The men were arrested at Oregon City Sunday and were brought to Portland yesterday afternoon by Postoffice Inspector Riches and Deputy Marshal A. A. Roberts.

The prisoners are charged with "raising" two postal orders from 15 cents to $15 each and of attempting to cash them. The orders were purchased in this city on San Francisco, but were changed to Oregon City.

GOT HIS CLOTHES.
Adolph Holmes, the sailor who says he was shanghaied and robbed of $50 on board the French bark Montclair, has received his clothes, which had been carried away by the vessel. They were procured by Sheriff Linville at Astoria and sent to Portland. Callahan, the other sailor, who is said to have seen the alleged robbery committed, has not yet put in an appearance. His clothes are also awaiting him at the police station.
