ROBS MAN WHO

HOMELESS SAILOR SECURES BED WHILE PENNILESS IN A SALOOM, MAKES PLACE HIS HOME AND WHILE OWNER IS ASLEEP PLUM-DERS THE BAR.

John Woods, an English sailor, 23 years of age, robbed the saloon of Charles Phyper at Russell and Delay streets early this morning. He was caught in the act by the proprietor, who held him up with a revolver and Woods now in the city jail with a charge of largeny hanging over him.

Woods landed in Portland from a ship three weeks ago. He hung around Phyper's place, known as "The Hub," Woods had no place to sleep. After learning that the young fellow was making a bed in the box cars in the railroad yards the saloan-keeper consented to let him sleep in a room back of the sa-

A few days ago Woods secured a job with a sewer gang, but he continued to pass his nights in the saloon building. Phyper happened to rise unusually arly this morning and started for his of business before the appointed To his surprise he found Woods behind the bar helping himself to everything in sight. Phyper entered the saloon noiselessly and stepping behind Woods ordered him to throw up his hands. The burglar, after looking down the muzzle of the weapon, did as com-manded. Detectives Hartman and Simmons took Woods in charge.

A search of the bar room showed that Woods had been taking his time to rifle the place. The cash register was The cash register was open papers were taken. A drawer back of the bar had been pried open, but there was nothing of value in it. Every place iere money might be hidden was ran-her pursuers. Mrs. Holt, the matron, declares that the girl came there volun-tarily, and shall-have a home as long as hes it. She will receive instruc tion in the English language. Mrs. Holt declares that she has been trying to secure possession of the girl for some time, but had never been able to do so. The girl, she declares, had also tried to escape to the home, a number of times before but could not find the way out. Badly Treated by Master.

Mrs. Holt declares that both Chow Sheem and Bow Kam were maltreated by their master. The girl is just growing new hair on her head, where it was pulled out by Moy Bow. She possessed scarcely any clothing at all, but what she did have was secured from her room by the aid of a search warrant currently reported among the Chinese that the younger girl escaped to the home at the advice of her older companion, but Mrs, Holt refused to allow Chow Sheem to be questioned on this point. If there is any suspicion attached say whether he saw Grant Marqu to the affair, and there should be an inquest, why of course we will tell all we know, she said.

Moy Bow had arranged to sell the younger of the women, it is claimed, to a life of slavery in San Francisco, and thus take up his mortgage. A buyer had been secured and negotiations were pending. Before the sale was consummated the girl escaped, and following close on this loss, his other slave mysteriously "Mr. Ross appeared to be quite busy at the sale," responded the witness. On cross-examination, Marquam said to Attorney Wallace McCamant that Ross told the deputy sheriff that the sale should go on, as he (Marquam) could not raise the money. "What deputy was it?"

Many claim the younger woman learned of the fate that awaited her and prompt means to frustrate the Coroner Finley said today: "There are many such cases as this that never reach our office. A doctor's certificate to the effect that the death was a natural one will be secured and that is the end of the case. I shall make a thorough investigation."

Attorney Charles F. Lord has been employed by Moy Bon, and will attempt to secure possession of the girl. Her father resides in Scattle, and will arrive in a few days.

By the Chinese it is claimed that the girl is less than 18 years of age, and possesses no certificate of residence.

P. A. MARQUAM ON THE WITNESS STAND

J. THORBURN ROSS, HE SAYS, WAS "QUITE BUSY AT THE SALE" OF THE MARQUAM PROPERTY -VALUE OF THE THEATRE AS AN INVESTMENT.

That J. Thorburn Ross was 'quite busy" at the foreclosure sale of the Marquam property was the opinion expressed by P. A. Marquam when he took the witness stand in his own behalf this

Mr. Marquam, who was called to the stand yesterday afternoon, said that he understood that Snow & McCamant were attorneys for the Title Guarantee & Trust company in 1895. He could not say whether he saw Grant Marquam "Did you see Mr. Ross drawing up any papers?" asked Attorney E. B. Watson. "Mr. Ross appeared to be quite busy

IBWIN MARON AND R. C. PATTER SON ARRIVE-WILL SPEND A WEEK LEARNING WHETHER THE MONEY NEEDED TO BRING NEXT CONGRESS RERE CAN BE RAISED.

At an informal gathering of a few members of the executive committee of the American mining congress this morning in the Portland hotel, Irwin Mahon, the secretary, said that they had come here to see about making ar-rangements for having the annual convention of their body held in Portland next year. This, he said, would mean a great deal to the city as there would be a large assembly numbering from 10,mining men in thecountry meeting here sides being an immense help to the projected Lewis and Clark exposition. Mr. Mahon also says that they have secured the lowest rates on the railroads from all parts of the country. It would also be greatly to the advantage of Portland merchants, he said, to secure the convention for this city. This afternoon Mr. Mahon, the secretary, R. C. Patterson, second vice-president and Col. John T. Grayson, third vice-president, will call on the leading merchants of the city to interest them in bringing the congress to Portland. Two of the leading citizens of Portland are on the executive committee, Col. John T. Grayson, third vice-president, and Thomas K. Muir, treasurer.

Irwin Mahon and R. C. Patterson arrived from the East this morning. They will remain in the city at least a week. It is likely that several other members of the executive committee will come to Portland, but it is not certain. The committee will put in its time learning whether the funds necessary to bring next year's convention can be

THE EASTERN FAD COMES TO PORTLAND

A Private Besidence Studio of Photographic Art for those of the Exclusive Set Willing to Buy the Best.

Westward the Star of Empire takes And glides into a residence in town,

Where photographic art does have full There Portland beauty with delight to

There has been installed at 446 Wash ington street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth, the latest eastern fad—a private residence studio of photo-art The institution is owned by Mr. E. Elmore Grove, a recent arrival from the East, and is intended for the more exclusive set, in that all work will be first-class, there being nothing of the 'cheap John" variety produced. But by the "exclusive set" it is not intended to say that only aristocrats are invited to this swell gallery of the Pacific coast. It is open to all desirous of procuring the very latest in photographic art-and the "latest" is so exquisitely beautiful that language is beggared when it comes to describing

The posing in some of the photographs has won so much admiration that it is actually true that they "must be seen to be appreciated," and the workmanship immediately pronounces the maker a past master in his art. In all America there is none superior. Perfection has been so well attained that one admires with delight without the power to express his unmeasured ecstacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Grove visited Portland time ago and were immediately so favorably impressed with the city that they decided to locate here. The private residence studio had not been previously attempted here. It had become most popular institution of the aristocratic sections of the big Eastern cities, and Mr. Grove opined that Portland afforded an opening for such a place that would be taking from the start. And his conclusions have amply verified to be correct. He has been doing a lively business from the beginning, and the indications are thet the gentleman will have to hustle to keep up with the demands upon him. He has a style of photographs on exhibition that sells at $15 per If any reader of The Journal gets his or her optics once fastened upon one of these there will be no more peace in that home till a sitting has been arranged and a negative procured.

Mr. Elmore leased the large residence occupied by his studio and has transformed it into a fairy palace. Its interior decorations, finishings and fur-nishings are all that could be fashioned by skill and money. There is nothing better in the West,
