It will be strange if anyone will read the hearty testimonial of Miss Delia Withey, one of our well known public school teachers, concerning her treatment by Dr. N. J. Fulton, in another column, and not be interested. Miss Withey was sick unto death; was condemned to a hospital to be operated upon by a hospital surgeon, in a last effort to save her life; was induced by friends to give Dr. Fulton's drugless treatment a trial, if not more than of two days' dutrial, if not more than of two days' duration; (this after she had been under numerous old style physicians' care for two years); and her heart is full of joy as she relates that six treatments com-pletely cured her. It is marvelous that these seeming miracles can be accomplished. But they are, and in Portland, almost daily. The drugless doctor is here to stay. And an amazing part of it all is that these practitioners usually get patients who come to them in despair as a last resort—and they cure them. If the sick ones had tried the drugless doctor first, they would have been spared great agony of heart—and ex-pense. Her cure cost Miss Withey just $10.

While in Portland yesterday E. S Larsen, until five years ago a resident Larsen, until five years ago a resident of Portland, but how engaged in business at Republic, Wash, learned the news of his son's death by exposure. Byron Larsen, 28 years of age, was hunting on Loon mountain in Ferry county, Wash. He and his companion, Henry Pate, became separated. Pate was away from camp two days and returning found Larsen sone. Larsen's turning found Larsen gone. Larsen's body was found two days later lying at the foot of a small declivity. Byron Larsen was born in Portland and graduated from the high school. The family formerly lived at East Eighth street and Holiaday avenue. Mr. Larsen was on his way home from San Francisco when

We'll Deliver the Plano When You are Ready-And You Can Pay for it at Your Leisure.

We are as desirous as you can be to have you secure the finest and most artistic instrument. We are jealous of the good opinion of every purchaser who secures a piano here. There are differences in all pianos even of the same make and model. One will have a certain shade of tone that will appeal to one person most strongly, another piano might not please him as well, and yet be more satisfying to some one else. We want every one to get exactly the piano that will please him best. That is why we wish you to come today, before the last days of Christmas hurry make it trying to decide the question quickly.

We'll Make Delivery Later on. And the cash necessary for the pur-chase is very small, now. We know all about the heavy holiday demands: and the piano terms will make the payments

Mesrs, G. W. Morrow, A. F. Campbell and W. H. Hurlburt have incorporated the Oregon Water Power Townsite company, capital $16,000, the object being to plat townsites, sell lots, construct houses and hotels, operate waterworks, etc. While the capitalization of the company is not very great, it is still one of the solid concerns of the city. Messrs. Mor-row & Campbell are men of large means and commanding influence. Mr. Campbell recently came to Portland from the Middlewest, while Mr. Morrow has been a resident of the city for several months -long enough to have built a nice home for himself. Mr. Huriburt is president of the Oregon Water Power & Railway company, and is well and pleasantly known to most of Portland. Estacada is the company's first townsite.
