SANDERS' SLAYER IS SAID TO BE KNOWN

(Journal Special Service.)
Salem, Dec. 31.—The killing of Sanders, the hop dealer, at Butteville, about a month ago, was yesterday recalled when a member of the dead man's family appeared in Salem and stated that her object was to secure the offering of a reward by the county for the apprehension of the murderer of Mr. Sanders. She said she had evidence that pointed to a resident of that place as the murderer of the dead man.

At the time of the murder it was stated by several people among them Sheriff Colbath of this city, that Sanders had committed suicide, but this view was not shared by the coroner, who held the inquest, nor by the members of the dead man's family. Now come members of the family and state that the old handman, henchman, found firmly clasped in the dead man's hand when found, did not belong to him, and he had never been known to own one like it.

But the most sensational story is that of the daughter, who states that a man residing in Butteville while under the influence of liquor a short time ago, came to the widow's house, and in his maddened state protested against the fancied accusation that he had shot Sanders, asserting tearfully that he had not done so. No one had accused the man of the crime and he had not been thought of in connection with it. His actions, however, have caused suspicion to rest upon him, and the family has consulted some detectives, and as soon as a reward can be offered, work on the case will begin. It is stated that the Butteville man who has recently been suspected, is now carefully watched by his friends, and when he imbibes too much, is locked up.

The family suspects that Sanders was murdered for his money, a considerable amount of which he had on his person on the night of his death, and they wish to have the case thoroughly investigated, and to this end desire the offering of a substantial reward by the county court.

District to Shift Debt.
The annual meeting of the Salem school district was held last night, and a 7-mill tax was voted for school purposes and a 1-mill for the purpose of paying the district's indebtedness. This levy will run the schools next year and will clear the district of debt, for the first time in 12 years. The levy will provide $23,000.

Game Law Not Passed.
The committee checking and correcting the house journal has discovered that the bill prohibiting the killing of Chinese pheasants until 1906 did not legally pass, owing to the insufficiency of votes in the house, and although the bill went through all the channels of legislation and is now filed in the secretary of state's office, it is not a law. It was found that the reading clerk, in casting up the roll call on the final vote had made a mistake, and that the bill did not have 21 votes in its favor, consequently did not pass.

Although it went through all subsequent stages of legislation, it is worthless and will doubtless not be printed in the session laws.

CREED DISCUSSION BECOMES HEATED

(Journal Special Service.)
Albany, Or., Dec. 31.—The Methodist church was crowded to its capacity last night to hear the series of lectures by Dr. I. D. Driver of Eugene on "Baptism." The subject last evening was "Baptism and Its Mode." Dr. Driver has a national reputation as a preacher and theologian.

He devoted the greater portion of his lecture to the word "baptism," its meanings in the classical and New Testament Greek. At times humor and sarcasm made pointed his arguments and conclusions. A number of the ministers of other churches were present, and it is expected that the controversy will receive a new impetus. It has already assumed considerable proportions, and the last lecture has added fuel to the flames. Dr. Driver announced that on Friday night he would answer all questions submitted to him in writing on this subject. Just when the discussion will

The farmers residing between Albany and Brownsville have formed a telephone company and are constructing a line into Brownsville with a local exchange. In opposition to the Pacific States company, it is intended to build toward Albany during the spring. The rates will be low and the farmers believe they can save a considerable sum yearly by being in closer touch with the markets.

ALLEGES RICH FIND IN MOLALLA HILLS

Oregon City, Or., Dec. 31.—Howard Ogile of Molalla claims to have made the first discovery of gold on Ogile creek more than 40 years ago. At that time some of the local boys, who were not finding placer deposits that he thought would pay him gave up his claims. Many years ago Mr. Ogile, in company with one or two others, were in the mountains and a dense fog settled down upon them. They soon became bewildered and the fog and lost their bearings, and while wandering around found a ledge of very rich ore. When later in the day the fog lifted they found themselves only a few miles east of Molalla. They made repeated efforts to find the ledge, but it has never been discovered. This gives rise to the opinion that there are gold mines in the Molalla country as rich or richer than anything yet discovered on Ogile creek.

Begin to Burn Coal.
An innovation in the shape of a coal yard will shortly be established in Oregon City. At the present time not a ton of coal is burned for fuel in Oregon City in the course of a year, but in years to come coal is bound to be the fuel as wood is rapidly disappearing.

Two Burns, One Fire.
The fire department was called out yesterday afternoon by a small blaze in E. Richard's residence on North Main street. After going to the scene the fire company failed to locate the blaze and ran the hose cart back to headquarters. A few minutes later the alarm again sounded and this time the blaze had reached sufficient proportions to be visible and was extinguished with a few buckets of water.

JAMES E. FIELD DIES SUDDENLY

IN THE SERVICE OF THE PORTLAND FIRE DEPARTMENT FOR 21 YEARS
—UP AND ABOUT YESTERDAY—
STUCK DOWN BY NEURALGIA OF THE HEAD.

The quarters of Engine 4 and Truck company 2, on Fourth street, between Montgomery and Mill, are draped in black and the members are in mourning because of the death of Driver James E. Field, who for 21 years has been a member of the Portland fire department.

JAMES E. FIELD.

The death of the veteran fireman was entirely unexpected and proved a great shock to his many friends. While he had been off duty sick since a week ago Tuesday he had almost completely recovered and reported to his superiors that he would be back on duty at the engine house tonight.

The veteran was about his quarters yesterday morning chatting in his usual cheery manner. In the afternoon he was downtown, but upon returning to his home at 369 Third street, he appeared to be quite ill. Mrs. Field noticed that there was something wrong and summoned Engineer Kellogg from the engine house. When he arrived at the Field residence he found Field in his last gasp. The attending physician attributes death to neuralgia of the heart.

Several months ago Driver Field was critically ill and was off duty for some time, but eventually recovered and returned to work. Again he was ill last month but it was not believed to be serious. During the past few days he appeared to be steadily gaining and expected to be at his usual post by tonight.

The body was taken to Finley's undertaking establishment. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon and will be attended by members of the fire department and by Portland lodge No. 27, O. U. W., of which he was a member. Field was 47 years of age and is survived by his widow and 10-year-old son.

BILL FAILED TO GET THE REQUIRED NAMES

Albany, Or., Dec. 31.—Hon. L. T. Harris of Eugene, speaker of the house of representatives, appointed to revise the bill when it was before the house for final passage. The clerk announced that 21 votes had been recorded in favor of the bill, but when the revising committee checked over the vote there were only 20 ayes, the bill thus failing to get the required number and it consequently failed. The error was made in the names of Jones of Lincoln and Jones of Multnomah. The committee certified this fact in the journal.

This leaves the matter in a very bad shape, as the bill has already been filed by the governor and will become a law in 90 days. As the supreme court will be bound to take judicial notice of the journals of the session, it will render the law inoperative, as a conviction under it would be reversed by the higher tribunal. Sportsmen in Linn county will be jubilant over the fact as they would have put up a determined opposition to the measure if they had been apprised of its introduction.

INDRAPURA TAKES SECOND PLACE

CARRIES NEXT TO THE LARGEST FLOUR CARGO THAT EVER LEFT THE COLUMBIA RIVER, AND SO FAR AS INDIAN LINES ARE CONCERNED BEATS THE LIST.

Early this morning the Portland-Asiatic liner Indrapura sailed for the Orient weighted down with the second largest flour cargo that ever left the Columbia river. It consisted of 61,265 barrels of flour, valued at $246,086. In addition to this she carried a sufficient quantity of miscellaneous freight to swell the value of the cargo to $271,185. Four of the largest flour shipments ever made from Portland are as follows:

Steamers	Barrels
Algon	55,176
Indrapura	61,265
Indravelli	57,337
Indrasamha	57,590

It will be seen that the Indrapura heads the list so far as the Portland-Asiatic liners are concerned. Until today her sister ship, the Indravelli, enjoyed that distinction. Although having the greater net registered tonnage of the three, the Indrasamha is behind both of them in the matter of taking out big flour cargoes. The reason the latter occupies third place is because she has invariably taken a large amount of other freight in addition to flour.

After being loaded and just before sailing this morning the Indrapura presented an entirely different appearance to what she did immediately upon her arrival from the land of the rising sun. At that time she was not heavily laden, and stood high up out of the water. When her cargo was removed she elevated herself a few feet more, and crossing over to the flour mills she looked like a mighty giant in stature. Short sacks of foodstuff began to roll into her hatches with such rapidity that she gradually began to sink under the great burden. She continued to go down into the river until the tops of her sides did not appear to be more than 10 or 12 inches above the surface of the water.

From a giant she became a dwarf in appearance. When she left down the stream she was drawing 23 feet and 6 inches of water. The channel to the sea has an average depth of 24 feet, and to insure safe passage the water will require skillful piloting.

Other Freight.
Aside from the flour the steamer carried the following goods: Eleven boxes of dried fish, 200 bales of cotton, 250 cases of cigarettes, 201 boxes of apples, 18 cases of smoking tobacco, 1 case of paper, 1 box of prunes, 4 boxes of books and 151 bags of bone.

There were also 19 stowaway passengers, the majority of whom were being deported, having been refused admission by the immigration officials. Of this number the ship's manifest reveals the fact that four are Japanese stowaways. They were not generally known that there were more than two stowaways—a man and a woman.

E. J. Horne, until recently first officer on the Indravelli, is commander of the vessel. He succeeded Captain Hollingsworth, who has been given a six-month leave of absence, which will be spent in England.

BRINGS GENERAL CARGO.

The Italian ship Cressington left up the river from Astoria at 8 o'clock this morning, and is expected to reach port some time tomorrow. She will have the Pennoyer regime. He entered the Columbia dock No. 1, where a cargo of will be discharged. It comprises about 1,500 tons and consists of coke, pig-iron, cement and general merchandise. About half of her cargo was discharged at Port Los Angeles.

NEW TELEPHONE.

River men will be delighted to learn that a telephone is at last being installed in the office of the steamboat inspectors at the custom-house. The number will be Main 238. Heretofore every little piece of business had to be transacted with that office necessitating a long walk.

MAKES RECORD RUN.

The steamer Columbia reached her dock in this city at 12:20 today after a very quick passage up the river. She left Astoria at 6 o'clock, making the run in 6 1/2 hours. This lowers the record by 15 minutes, the Elder previously holding first place.

MAKES NOTES.

The barkentine Katy Fleckerling has been added to the en route list. She is coming from San Pedro.
Forecast Official E. A. Beals will return tomorrow from a month's vacation which he spent at Hot Lake, Or.
The British ship Anacolis has moved over to the four mills, where she began taking cargo this morning.
The German ship Christel is expected to complete her grain cargo for the city tomorrow afternoon. Kerr, Gilford & Co. are the shippers.

NEW JAPANESE EXHIBITS FOR 1905

The Japanese commissioner, Hajime Ota, and his party, Jubri Ando, C. Yozak, M. Hattori and Y. Mohri, the interpreter, left Portland last night for St. Louis, Commissionaire Ota said, "The sites for the Lewis and Clark fair is one of the most beautiful spots that I have ever seen, and I am sure the fair will be a success. Japan will have even a better exhibit here than she will have at St. Louis, for the exhibit here will be brought over direct and new goods will be added. The merchants who send over exhibits will not have the same thing twice, so there will be many new articles.
There are many reasons why we want to show the best of friends with your country, for you give us a big trade, and we also make a large trade for you. Therefore we will do our best in our exhibits for your fair and keep up the long-standing friendship between the United States and Japan.

TRYING TO PROVE FOSTER INCAPABLE

Arguments in the case of John R. Foster, accused of mental incapacity, were begun before County Judge Webster this morning, and will probably be completed later this afternoon. W. W. Cotton, attorney for the eastern heirs of Foster, and W. A. Cleland, attorney for B. G. Whitehouse, guardian of Foster, were present. The court that Foster knew what he was doing when he asked for the appointment of Mr.

Elma Smith, the 17-year-old girl who was found in a north end combination house, left yesterday for her home near Marshalltown, Ia. The police took her from the saloon and charged her with vagrancy, but as her parents sent word to have her returned home, Judge Hogus consented to let her go back. R. H. Birkis, a relative, who was with the girl, was arrested, but the case against him was dismissed.
