The clergyman is moving and the occupants were in their new quarters. During the night the boys raised a window and entered. They made themselves perfectly at home and crawled into a bed with their clothes A third boy named Frazer was arrested late yesterday as one of the same gang.

The cases against the three were continued. The lads are also accessed of stealing two chickens from a Mrs. Press-ler on the East Side Wednesday night, selling the fowls to a Chinaman. Claude Franklin, 17 years of age, was found wandering about at East Morrison street and Grand avenue at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning. As he could not give a satisfactory account of himself Patrolman Hoseley locked him up. Judge Hogue released him this morning after a lecture.

Believing that they needed advice and care, Officer Hawley of the Boys' and Girls' Aid society Thursday night arrested Bertha Larnett, aged 20 and Alice Livingston, 17, in a lodging house at Front and Jefferson streets. F. M. Thompson and Fellx Leonette were allowed to go and their sentence suspended after a reprimand by Judge Hogue. Lilly Wilson, aged 15, was sent to the Boys' and Girls' Ald society home, while the case against Sadie Black was continued until Monday. Frank Bowen, a messenger boy, was before the court charged with stealing a valuable brooch which was given to one of two sisters in East Portland. His case was continued.

Bertha Larnett, who said she was 20 years old and Alice Livingston, who said she was 17, faced Judge Hogue on charges of vagrancy this morning. Both entered pleas of guilty and Officer Hawley of the Boys' and Girls' Aid society told the court in private that they had been found in a lodging house on Jefferson street. They will be placed in the House of the Good Shepherd. told the court that they were tired of their present life.

065. The board has decided to allow the David P. Thompson heirs' memorial to be placed in the City park on a site selected near the bear pit. The Lewis and Clark memorial has not been definitely de-cided upon, but the soldier's monument will be placed in the north plaza block, bounded by Fourth, Third, Salmon and Main streets. The offer of 35 acres for a public park n the Fulton tract has not definitely been accepted, but the committee is still working on a report.

The report includes a suggestion that t may not be too early to memorialize the legislature of Oregon for such an amendment to the charter as may empower the city, through the park board. and under certain conditions, to purchase lands, with right of condemnation when necessary, for the development of the park system.

Favors Larger Park. conclusion the report states:

We hope the water board may be prepared at an early day to authorise some preliminary work, such as the lay-ing out of roads and paths, and the planting of trees, on the 68-acre tract adjoining the City park, with the purpose of opening same to the public, when it shall be proper to do so. "The park board stands ready at any time to appropriate funds for any preiminary work which the interests of the water company's trust will permit to be done upon the land in furtherance of its ultimate occupation as a park; and we would urge that the present is a time for some action in that direction, "Because of the exposition in 1905 we also think that some substantial work should be done in the more remote parks of the system, namely Governor's park, Terwilliger park, and Columbia "The board has decided to grant no more concessions of park blocks or property to carnivals or fairs. Under a resocontrol and supervision of this board."

DIX CAN CROSS COLUMBIA BAR

Just why the war department healtates to allow the government transport Dix to come to Portland is hard for the local navigators to understand. The department officials seem to think that the depth of the channel from Portland to the mouth of the Columbia will not admit of the passage of a vessel of For several nights Chief Hunt has the Dix's displacement, whereas the lo-had Sergeant Slover detailed to see that of a sufficient depth to easily accommodate a vessel drawing considerably more than the transport, laden with forage supplies. .

The local men cite the cases of the Algoa, a sister ship of the Dix, the Ascot, and the Kobe, all ships drawing an equal depth, if not greater, than the vessel in question, which were moved places: Pine salogen, Atlantic cafe, the about the local harbor with the greatest Maze, the Winter Garden and Tracey & of ease, and experienced no trouble at all, in the trip to and from the mouth of the Columbia.

The Dix, laden with cargo, will draw but 23 feet, the Indrapura, the big Oriental liner, was brought up from As-toria and returned without the slightest hitch, while drawing in excess of the Dix' maximum draught.

The merchants of Portland asked the government for a transport, and it responded by assigning the largest one in the service, and the local men intend to show that it can be accommodated. The best authorities among the Columbia river pilots, are unanimous in their opinion that no trouble need be exper-ienced in bringing the transport to Portland and loading her here.

The Right and the Wrong Way to Sit a Horse. D D D

It is safe to say that the "cross-saddle" seat for women is firmly estab-lished. It has become so familiar a custom that quite a degree of perfection in the cut of the habit has been reached. Not only the health advantage of this new manner of sitting a horse speaks in favor of the man's seat, but the grace and poise of the figure is so much more evident than when a woman is insecurely balanced on the side of a horse, as so many women sit. It is generally conceded that the woman who sits astride has not the smart appearance of the woman who rides on the side, but she is much more a part of her horse, and therefore has more natural grace. The woman who rides on the side has the advantage of being more trimly dressed than the woman who wears a "divided" habit. From the crown of her stiff "pot" hat to the soles of her smart riding boots she is the perfection
