With tear-stained cheeks an anxious mother went to the police station yesterday morning to ask if any news had been received from her missing son. She said he had not been home during the night and consequently she was very anxious. After the mother had dwelt upon her son's virtues the police reached the conclusion that the missing boy was none other than Dan Rust, aged 17, who was arrested yesterday for the larceny of a bicycle belonging to A. J. Brandt. When taken into custody by Patrolman Quinton the lad said he got it from his cousin, but queerly enough he could not tell his cousin's name. The mother said her son was so badly frightened that he simply forgot. Friends interceded for young Rust and as no complaint was made against him he secured his liberty.

The intruder entered by a back window and he thoroughly searched three or four rooms. Bureaus were emptied in his hurried search for valuables, but he obtained only between $12 and $15 in cash. Mrs. Barber was awakened by a noise in the room adjoining her sleeping apartments and when she arose to investigate she saw the burglar escaping through a window.

STRAINING TO GET BANCROFT'S PLACE

some of the machine leaders supposed to be in Mitchell's confidence.

Most of the gossip at the present time centers upon State Senator J. E. Hunt as the man who is most likely to step into Bancroft's shoes when the ax falls. Hunt was seriously considered for the place a year ago, when Bancroft received the appointment. Mitchell is under very considerable obligations to Hunt and is believed to prefer him to any one else.

What Hunt Says.

One of the stories current is that shortly after the exposure of Bancroft's delinquencies, when candidates for the place began to urge their claims, some correspondence passed between Mitchell and Hunt, relative to the possible appointment of the latter. Hunt then forwarded a number of endorsements from business men and politicians of this city until finally, so the story goes, he received a telegram from Mitchell saying that no further endorsements were necessary. This was interpreted as meaning that Hunt would have the place and some politicians now profess to regard the matter as definitely settled.

Hunt himself declines to discuss the matter. When asked whether he would be a candidate in case of Bancroft's removal he replied: "I prefer not to discuss that question at all."

When told of the correspondence reported to have passed between himself and Mitchell and the rumor that he had been promised the place, Mr. Hunt said: "I have had no such promise and any one who says so speaks entirely without authority, unless he has received authority from Senator Mitchell."

Jack Matthews' Action.

That Senator Mitchell might have authorized such a statement did not seem to be regarded by Mr. Hunt as impossible.

There are other Mitchell Republicans who would like to be postmaster of Portland, but their prospects at the present time are, to say the least, very uncertain. Most of them seem to look upon Hunt as having the inside track.

If the selection of the appointee were to be left to the business men of the city, ex-Postmaster Croasman would probably be their choice, for the commercial and banking interests of the city were practically ananimous in endorsing him for reappointment a year ago. But Croasman incurred the bitter enmity of Jack Matthews by his refusal to allow that machine boss to dictate the conduct of postoffice affairs, and Matthews has too strong a grip upon the local Mitchell organization to be ignored. In spite of his flimsy pretense of being "out of politics" Matthews is taking a very active part in the present campaign and Mitchell has been reluctantly compelled to allow him considerable sway.

BOOMING RIGHTS OVER AT VANCOUVER

(Journal Special Service.)

Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 13.—The superior court has more business coming before it and when the next jury is called it will have something to consider outside of one or two criminal cases.

Booming rights and the amount logging and booming companies are allowed to charge is again in question. This matter is raised by the La Camas Booming company bringing suit against F. W. Leadbetter for $372.50. This amount is not made up entirely of rates for catching and booming logs, but is also for attorney's fees in filing a lien on logs as well as bringing this suit. Of course the attorney cannot go without his fees.

The company claims it has the right to and power under the Washington laws to catch, hold, assort, and boom logs and other timber products for all persons requesting it to do so, and that it did so at Mr. Leadbetter's request making a charge not to exceed 75 cents per 1,000 feet on the logs.

The La Camas Booming company has already filed a lien on the logs it has boomed, and now asks that this lien may be foreclosed.

The next case is one of an account brought by the Portland Iron Works against L. L. Paulson for $100, following which is the case of garnishment directed against John Baccus and A. M. Blaker as partners, in which S. G. Linniger is plaintiff and Herman Potter and wife are defendants. The amount is for $372.50.

Another matter before the court is the case of John Judge against the Washington Railway & Navigation company for personal injuries. The court has a demurrer to consider against a complaint that has never been filed. The peculiarity of this case does not only stop at a demurrer, but there is a request of the attorney for the company for an order of the court to make the complaint more definite.

Mr. White Gets More.

The superior court is now trying condemnation cases. These cases are for county roads. Yesterday the case was that of Xavier White and wife for a county road through their property near Barberton. The county commissioners offered White $5, but the jury found that he was entitled to $145.

Today the county will begin to condemn the right of way through Carl Graman's property, which is an extension of the same road.

A Sumptuous Banquet.

F. W. Brown and several other Vancouver men last night joined the R. L. D. P. A. After the initiations they all had a fine banquet. In Vancouver this order is becoming quite prominent, and while it is not a political organization, the members stand by each other, regardless of their avowed parties.

A Quiet Wedding.

A. B. Elwell and Mrs. E. F. Tooley were married last night at the bride's residence, Rev. Thompson officiating. It was a very quiet affair, only relatives and a very few intimate friends being invited. The house was very nicely decorated, and after the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served.

SALEM

WAS GREATLY IN LOVE AND DIGRESSED

(Journal Special Service.)

Salem, Jan. 13.—Roy Orey, a young man residing in this city, was yesterday arrested in Woodburn and brought here, where he was arraigned on the charge of enticing away a girl under 16 years. The lad—for he is only 19 years old—was held in $250 bail to appear for trial in the justice court.

This is the result of a courtship of a couple of young, extremely young people. The girl, Miss Murray, lives with her parents at Praetum, seven miles east of this city, where young Orey frequently visited. He was the accepted company of the young girl and all went well until December 7 last, when, as he often did, the young man drove up to the farm house of the Murray family and took the girl for a drive to this city to attend an entertainment. When the girl left home she gave a younger sister instructions about leaving the door unlocked, as she would return late. However, she did not return and from that date until yesterday she was not seen by her parents. When the young couple reached Salem on that night they boarded a late train for Roseburg, where the young people tried to obtain work. Failing in this they went to Oregon City, and there the girl secured work in a boarding house and her companion worked at odd jobs. Sunday night the young couple came to Woodburn looking for positions, and there the lad was arrested and the girl was taken in charge by her brother, who conveyed her to her home at Praetum.

The young people have always been regarded as nice and efforts will be made, it is said, to arrange a marriage between them, thus saving the lad from prosecution and settling the matter.

Court Notes.

The supreme court yesterday afternoon, after hearing the application of Pleasant Armstrong for a stay of proceedings, took the matter under advisement and gave the attorneys until Saturday to submit their authorities.

Judge Burnett in the circuit court yesterday afternoon disposed of the Mill City liquor cases, sentencing L. D. Massey to pay a fine of $250 and Lee Jeffries $200. The men pleaded guilty to selling liquor without a license.

The hop case of B. Schwartz & Sons, dealers, against Lee Gow and others, was concluded and the Chinaman secured a verdict against the dealers. There were 86 bales of hops involved in the case.

BOY FINED FOR FAST DRIVING

The memory of a $10 fine will help to keep Charles Clarke, driver of a delivery wagon for a local paper box factory, from repeating the offense for which he was arrested.

Clarke was charged with reckless driving and although he tried to make Judge Hogue believe that he had not exceeded the speed limit of six miles an hour, the court believed Patrolman Quinton's statement and fined the youthful driver $10.

The officer testified that Clarke almost ran over a man and woman who were standing on Washington street yesterday, the shafts grazing the woman's dress. It might have meant death to her had she not seen the horse. The officer said the boy had repeatedly done the same thing, and he thought it time to call a halt.
