HE WILL SHOW

BACK TO THE PLACE WHERE HE IS ACCUSED OF A SERIOUS CRIME -MIS EXPERIENCE SINCE ME TRANSGRESSED IS A SAD ONE.

(Journal Special Service.) Oregon City. Jan. 22.-After being tracked 3,600 miles across the continent by officers of the law, Elijah Pyles is on his way back to the state of Missouri to "be shown" why and how it is that 'the way of the transgressor is hard." Six months ago young Pyles, who has just obtained his majority, committed an assault upon a young lady near Eminence in Shannon county of that state. Realizing the enormity of his crime, he lost no time in "hiking out" for pastures new. After days of traveland devious wanderings he found himself in the state of Oregon, and in order to securely hide himself from the eyes of men and prying officials, he secured employment as a wood chopper in a wood camp near the Clackamas station on the Southern Pacific railroad in this county. There he worked diligently and bravely for months, but all of this time the sleuths of law were "baying his trall." At last they lo-cated their game through the efficiency of the local police officers of this city, and young Pyles was arrested by Sheriff. Ed L. Shaw of this city. He was held State Dunbar yesterday distributed the in the county jail until the sheriff of United States 5 per cent land sales Shannon county could be sent for and secure the necessary requisition papers. state, according to the acreage. Potatoes on the Rise.

The farmers and ranchers of Clackas mas county are in position to reap a harvest of golden dollars from the rapid and unexpected rise in the potato market. During the fall and early winter very few "spuds" were marketed on account of the extremely low prices then prevailing. Many were even extremely slow in digging and putting away their During the past month the market value of potatoes has been gradually climbing upward until they are now worth more than double what they were in the early fall and winter and very nearly all of the crop in this county is in the hands of the producers. The farmers of Clacksmas county have had a very profitable year and this sudden and unexpected good fortune will but add to their pletheric bank accounts.

ASHLAND REPORTS BIG MINING DEAL

Ashland, Or., Jan. 22.—A mining deal of considerable importance to Siskiyou county, Cal., has been consummated by Messrs. Grayson and Ralston, million-Messrs. Grayson and Ralston, million-nire mining operators of San Francisco, making the final payment on the Mono mine. This property, which was form-erly known as the Punch creek mine, is, situated five miles west of Yreka, on Punch creek, a tributary of the South fork of Humbug creek. The deal was negotiated by Alexander Rosborough, who became acquainted with the properwho became acquainted with the proposition through his uncle, A. E. Raynes, a part owner in the property.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Grayson had sunk $65,000 in the Know Nothing mine at the forks of the Salmon river, he decided to give Siskiyou county mines another trial. The $50,000 he has put into the Mono has made a quarter of a million proposition of it, and has given an impetus to every mine and prospect in the district by proving that heretofore mines had been con-demned before being developed beyond the water level, at which point free milling ore had turned base.

Nearly all of the bed clothing and a considerable amount of jewelry had been carried away. The officers have not the slightest idea of when the theft was committed, as probably portions of the stuff were carried away at different times. A complete new line of linen had to be purchased before housekeeping could be resumed. Profit in Water.

That the net profit derived from the city water works during 1903 was $7,-061.62 is shown by the annual report the expenditure in maintaining the system was $8,161.97. The profits for 1902 were $6,067 and for 1901 $5,902,

From The Dalles Chronicle.
The opinions of the visitors to the national conventions recently held in Portland are very much in favor of that city and the hospitality of its peo-ple. This will be a good advertisement for the metropolis, but do the visitors realise that outside of the one city there are other districts in the state with a more desirable climate and very many resources undeveloped?

VANCOUVER

HIS CHECKS WERE VERY WORTHLESS

TLE PAPER TURNS A FEW TRICKS IN VANCOUVER TEAT ARE NOT TO THE LIKING OF CIT-IREMS-POLICE VERY BUSY.

(Journal Special Service.) Vancouver, Wash., Jan. 22.-James R. Wilson, nephew of ex-Senator Wilson of this state and subscription agent for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, was a very much wanted man by the sheriff and poolice of Vancouver yesterday. Wilson was in Vancouver several days in the interest of the P.-I., and while here he worked some of the Vancouver business men to the interest of Wilson's self. The misdeeds on Wilson's part was the issuing of worthless checks ranging from $2 to $10.

The first of these checks that was accounted for was issued to John W. Dodds in the sum of $2. Dodds, in relating the matter states that Wilson came in one evening about 9 or 10 o'clock and asked Dodd if he would acommodate him by cashing a check for $2; that he was short on change and it being too late to get in the bank the cashing of the check would be a great accommodation and one which would certainly be remembered. The subsequent termination of the event proved the last part of the assertion to be entirely correct. Dodds claims "it will be emembered."

The peculiarity of this check, which Dodds did not notice at the time, was that it was drawn on the "Second Na-tional bank of Vancouver." There is no Second National bank in Vaucouver. Dodds did not notice the peculiarity of the check until the next day when he went to the bank to make his usual daily deposit at which time the check was refused as worthless. Dodds has some self-congratulation that the check was not for a larger amount.

The other houses on which Wilson passed bogus checks was worked after the same fashion, but for larger amounts differently designated banks-the banks that really existed in Vancouver. Wilson got wind of the fact that the matter had been reported to the sheriff and police, and left Vancouver without giving notice to his friends here where ne was going. Sheriff Biesecker phoned to Portland to the police to keep a sharp lookout for Wilson, but he eluded the officers in Portland also.

In the meantime James Waggener of this place received word from the Post-Intelligencer company to collect all the worthless checks and statements of any accounts that Wilson may have contracted while in Vancouver and send them to the head office in Scattle, where prompt payment would be made

For this reason the parties interested have ceased their vigorous exertisns to apprehend Wilson, very much to the dis-gust of Sheriff Blesecker, who claims that the offense is none the less on account of the settlement and that such shameless weakness on the part of business men to prosecute such a person only encourages others to do likewise.

It sems as though the P. I. does not intend to keep Wilson as a representative. It was reported last night that the company had also written that they would not only settle Wilson's ac-counts, but that it was intended to re-call Wilson and send him East to his folks. And for the time being the opening chapter of Wilson's misdoings in Vancouver is ended.

Police Very Busy. Officers Tiede and Wagener of the night force were quite busy last night rounding up suspicious characters. It was reported to these officers just prior to their going on duty that there were quite a number of suspicious characters lounging around the saloons. - These officers commenced an immediate investigation and found the report to be true. Then commenced much work in corral-ing the hobos. At midnight about a dozen were allowed to retain their liberty without being arrested on condition they left Vancouver not to return. This did not end the number, however, and Thiede and Wagener kept themselves warm during the rest of the night trying to locate the remainder of the crowd that had scattered and sought shelter in people's barns. Attempt to Rob Postoffice.

While Officers Thiede and Wagner were hunting hobos last night a repor came to them that there was a couple of men attempting to rob the postoffice Miss Sadie Oliver, while on her way ome from the dance at Eichenlaub's hall, passed the postoffice, and saw a stranger emerging from the rear door and start up the street. This arcused her suspicions that something was not right, and she hastened to 'phone the police, and also one of the assistant posemasters, stopping to shut the door, which was left open by the man as he came out. The discovery frightened the would-be burglars away, and by the time the police arrived on the scene there was no trace to be found of them. The description given to the police of the man seen coming out of the rear entrance of the postoffice is that he is a tall, slender person, wearing a brown of the water commission, which was suit, with a stiff hat, and gray hair, completed last evening. The receipts The direction taken by the man when he during the year were $15,223.60, while was discovered was a hurried step toward the ferry.

It is believed by the police that there was more than one man implicated, and which shows a rapid increase. that the second man made his escape
The report shows the plant to be while Miss Oliver was absent to 'phone to the officers moot question, and the answer must vary according to the character of the country. Early marriages naturally are followed by large families of children, but young parents with many children are very likely to be poor and unable to give the children much care. The young ones are forced to leave school and go to work at an early age and thus and go to work at an early age and thus their minds and bodies are prevented from attaining the highest development of which they are capable. True, a moderate measure of wholesome neglect is good for the child. True, also, that many great men rose like Lincoln and Garfield from the humblest and poorest of early environment. But when talking of general averages it is a gafe poorest of early environment. But when talking of general averages it is a safe proposition that extreme poverty is a detriment to children.
