

PARENTS DEMAND LIBERTY FOR GIRLS

GLOCK AND PIERCE FAMILIES MAKE LIFE MISERABLE FOR SUPERINTENDENT GARDNER OF BOYS' AND GIRLS' HOME—EACH
BLAMES THE OTHER.

There is not the best of feeling these days between the Glock and Pierce families, who have contributed five girls to the population of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society home this week.

The five girls of these two families were convicted of stealing a quantity of jewelry from Cassell's jewelry store at 50 Third street, and all of the youngsters were sent to the home. The oldest is but 14 and the youngest only 8.

During the trial it developed that the affair has caused a bitter feeling between the parents. Both sides maintain that the children of the other led their youngsters from the straight and narrow path, and since the commitment the parents have been making life miserable for Superintendent Gardner of the home in an attempt to have the girls set at liberty. But Mr. Gardner believes that a term in the home, with its industry and discipline, will be a splendid thing for the girls, and they will not be at liberty for a time.

At the home the children mingle with each other, and this is what the parents object to. Although all were adjudged equally guilty of the theft, the parents fear that their children will be contaminated by the society of the other.

"Of course, if they were all at large they could not mingle with each other," said Mr. Gardner, rather sarcastically, when one of the persistent parents requested that her children be permitted to go home.

The case is one of the most unusual coming to the attention of the police in months, and the officers of the home believe that confinement for a time will work wonders in reforming the girls.

MARINE NOTES.

Astoria, Jan. 22.—Sailed at 8:45 a. m., steamer Elmore, for Tillamook.

Astoria, Jan. 21.—Arrived down at 3 p. m., British ship Anacoles and schooner Volunteer.

Astoria, Jan. 22.—Condition of the bar at 8 a. m., smooth; wind southwest; weather cloudy.

Yokohama, Jan. 19.—Arrived, steamer Stanley Dollar, from Portland, via Tacoma.

NOME CITY COMING.

It is expected that the steamer Nome City will return to Portland about February 3. She will again re-enter the coast trade, carrying grain between here and San Francisco. The vessel is now on a drydock at the Bay City, being given a general overhauling. In the spring it is very probable that she will go back on the Seattle-Nome run.

VERY YOUNG AND MARRIES MORMON

INTERESTING STORY WHERE GIRL OF SIXTEEN BECOMES INFATU-
ATED WITH A MAN WHO AL-READY HAS A WIFE—FATHER OF GIRL PURSUES.

(Journal Special Service.)
Dallas, Or., Jan. 22.—George Phillips of Independence was in this city yesterday for the purpose of taking steps to secure the arrest of one John C. Stoll, on a charge of polygamy. He claims that Stoll prevailed on his daughter to marry him, when he (Stoll) already had a wife living.

Stoll, who is a baker by trade, worked in this city during a part of last summer, and then went to Independence, where he has been conducting a restaurant. During the two months he lived in this city, Stoll and his supposed wife lived at a hotel here, and no one thought of them other than as husband and wife. She accompanied him to Independence and helped him in the restaurant business there. Some weeks ago she left on a visit to their former home at Pocatello, Idaho. A short time after she had left Independence, Stoll commenced making love to the Phillips girl, who is only 16 years of age, and who was a waitress in his restaurant. His love was seemingly returned, and a few days ago they took a trip to Vancouver, Wash., and were there married. The Phillips girl returned to her home at Independence, while Stoll remained in Portland, intending to send for her in a few days. Wednesday the girl started to join her newly-wedded husband in Portland, but her father compelled her to remain at home. The father thought that Stoll was married to this other woman, and believing that his daughter's newly-wedded husband was guilty of the crime of polygamy, he compelled his erring daughter to remain under the parental roof and notified the authorities of the state of affairs.

From information obtained in other sources, and from people who were intimate with Stoll, it appears that he is a Mormon, and as such follows that belief. He was married to his former wife, so he declared to others, under the rites of the Mormon church, which, of course, under our laws are not binding. It is said that his Mormon wife, who is now in Idaho, is familiar with the circumstances, and will not prosecute her Mormon husband. Under our laws, Stoll cannot be punished for the crime of polygamy, having never been legally married to his Mormon wife, and the only charge that can now be brought against him would be that of lewd and lascivious cohabitation. Stoll is believed to be in Portland at present, and it is not yet known what steps will be taken against him. The people of Independence are justly incensed over the affair, and should he return to that burg no doubt he would be treated to a midnight ride. "A la Holy Holler."

CONFESSES AS HE HOLDS THE CROSS

ing, but when alone would murmur "My Minnie, my Minnie."

So strong became the feeling against the murderer in Baker City that he believed wise to take him to Portland and place him in a secure jail, away from hundreds who wanted to lynch him. He was, within a few days transferred to the county jail at Portland, where he remained until called for trial in Baker City last March.

It was in Portland that Armstrong made confession to the crime. At the trial testimony to this effect was adduced, although there was never any doubt of his being the murderer.

The trial was long and earnestly fought by the state and by Attorney George J. Bently of Baker City and Judge M. M. Godman of Dayton, Wash., in which latter place Armstrong had friends and relatives. The verdict of death was found and the death sentence passed. Then came the long battle in the supreme court over the error, principally, which defendant's counsel said been committed by the trial judge in sentencing the condemned man to be hanged in Baker county instead of the penitentiary, which institution was designated by the last legislature as the place where capital punishment must thereafter be held. The upper courts sustained the lower court on every count, with the result this morning.

COSTS HEINTZ $5 TO EJECT WAITRESS

It will cost money to eject the hired girl from your home, especially if you use much force in so doing.

This is the law as laid down by Justice Reed this morning when he fined Paul Heintz $5 for assault and battery on Martha Meyer, last week.

The complainant is but 18 years of age, and she testified that Heintz had handled her roughly in ejecting her from his restaurant at Seventh and Principal Sub-station Postoffice, ground floor.
