John Disman had a miraculous escape from being killed Saturday night when he fell through a hole in the sidewalk at Third and Pine streets and struck a cement floor in the basement. 10 feet below. On that corner a new building is in course of erection, and in some manner Disman kicked a board out of the sidewalk and dropped headlong into the basement. Several pedestrians saw him disappear and summoned Driver Gruber from police headquarters. With the help of others Disman was pulled out. He was unconscious, but after receiving attention at the police station he recovered.

The case of Julius Adler against Anton Burkhart was settled out of court today after being set for hearing in the state circuit court. The plaintiff alleged that he had found a purchaser for property belonging to Burkhart, and that, contrary to agreement, the latter did not allow his option, but sold the place to another party, thus depriving Adler of his agent's fee of $150.

What at first was thought to be a 7 a. m. At Holton, a small station north of attempting to rob a passenger. When the conductor of the train protested it is said that the grafter drew a revolver and threatened to shoot him. Word was put out of the train at Holton. Word was immediately sent ahead to the Portland police and the arrests followed. The men were at once released.

Multnomah county granges will hold a fair next fall if the movement to organize a fair association is successful. It is considered possible that some of the granges of Clackamas and Washington counties may identify themselves with the movement. The fair may be held at Gresham or Rockwood. Conference committees are now considering the proposition.

AT THE THEATRES

"LOST RIVER." "Lost River," a typical Joseph Arthur play, won the hearts of two audiences at Cordray's theatre yesterday. Joseph Arthur wrote "The Still Alarm," where he introduced real horses, a real fire and several startling real things. In "Blue Jeans" he brought in the Rising Sun Roarers, the father of a long line of funny stage bands, and introduced a sawmill scene, in which the hero came within an inch of being really killed by real saws. His best performance. He was also accused of having committed the once familiar song, "The Picture That is Turned Toward the Wall," which was used in "Blue Jeans," but it is understood that he proved an alibi. There are two real horses in "Lost River," and some good songs. "Lost River" also introduces some real actors which cannot be said to be the help of others. The story is that of the melodrama the world over. Olive H. Briscoe, Elwood F. Bostwick, Frank Edwards, Harry McRae Webster and Pauline Duffield do their work well. The play will close its engagement next Wednesday night.

"A CELEBRATED CASE." "A Celebrated Case" is so old that it is new to most of the present generation of playgoers and by way of variety is most acceptable. The play is a melodrama of the sort popular when grand-father was younger than he is. There is the inevitable prologue which takes the place of the history of the hero's and his ancestors in the story books contemporary, with that style of play. The whole piece hinges on a murder committed in the prologue. The innocent hero serves in the galleys for another's crime, which in the course of the performance is fixed on the heavy villain, George Allison, as the galley slave, Frederick Esmelton; Esther Lyon as the convict's wife, and Gertrude Rivers carried off the honors of the piece. The play will continue all week. It is really a refreshing change.

"HAPPY HOOLIGAN." Tonight at the Marquam Grand theatre the merry musical cartoon comedy, "Happy Hooligan," will begin an engagement of two nights. The company presenting "Happy Hooligan" numbers 40 people, and the scenery, costumes, music and other features are all new and of the most expensive nature. Billy A. Ward is seen as "Happy Hooligan" and Eva Davenport as Rosie Moriarty. Among the others in the cast is Charles Saunders, who will be seen in his inimitable role of "Michael O'Shaughnessy."

MRS. GALLATIN'S ACTING. While ideals of acting are varied and the personal equation enters so largely into any individual judgment of a play-er's performance as to make it impossible for any unbiased spectator of Miss Albert Gallatin's performance of Mrs. Alving in Ibsen's masterpiece, "Ghosts," will unhesitatingly rank her with the greatest performers of both sexes that are playing on the American stage today. While her work has the stamp of a dominant intellectuality it does not rely upon mere intellectual manifestations. She is masterful in her employment of tonal and in her suggestion of repose, and all without mannerism or affectation.

AT THE ARCADE. Heath and Excella, sharpshooters; Baldwin and Durant, comedians; Parrot, the juggler; Verlain, the ventriloquist; the Loraine sister dancers, and the bioscope furnish an hour's entertainment at the Arcade theatre. They will be the attractions for the week, beginning tonight.

CHIEFLY PERSONAL

Deputy Marshal Jacob Proebstel departed Saturday night for San Francisco with Mrs. A. H. Haines, defaulting witness in a recent case. Harry Russell, a prominent shoe dealer of Petaluma, Cal., is visiting in Portland with a view of opening a store here.

G. W. Dickinson, formerly manager of the Union Pacific, is now acting as one-time assistant general superintendent of the Northern Pacific railway, was in Portland yesterday on his way east.

DEATH OF PASTOR'S WIFE. Mrs. Annie M. Wright, wife of Rev. W. E. Wright, pastor of the Sellwood Presbyterian church many years, died yesterday morning after an illness of one month at the residence, 656 Everett street. Her husband and sons were at her bedside, she being conscious until the last moment. For 35 years she had been a minister's wife. The funeral was held today and the interment was in Riverview cemetery.

FUNERAL OF N. S. PIERCE. N. S. Pierce, who died yesterday, will be buried at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The funeral services will be held at 445 Seventh street under direction of George Wright post, No. 1, G. A. R. E. Swan commander, A. Matteson adjutant.

E. L. Parsley pleaded guilty in the state circuit court this morning to robbing R. H. Wright of $30, a watch and chain and other trinkets and was sentenced to one and a half years in the penitentiary by Judge George. The robbery occurred December 7, the property being taken from Wright's room at the Burnside lodging house.

MASTERS AND PILOTS EXPECT POSITIONS

DO NOT INTEND TO SET IDLY AND WATCH JOBS ON FIRE AND FERRYBOATS GIVEN TO STRANGERS—BELIEVE THEY ARE ENTITLED TO THEM.

Members of the Masters and Pilots' association have an eye on harbor positions. When the new fireboat and the two proposed ferry-boats are in commission there will be at least six positions carrying fair salaries to be filled, and the local captains and pilots say they are entitled to them. Heretofore, they declare, that it has been the policy of those at the head of the city government to ignore them when making appointments to the various places carrying fair emoluments for services rendered. They assert that the time has arrived when their presence should be felt and their association recognized.

"We have a membership of perhaps only 50," says Captain Day, "but we control at least 300 or 800 votes. All of us have our friends, you know. It is time that our association should be recognized when there are positions to be filled. Frequently the best-paying jobs in the harbor and along the waterfront have been given to men who have had no more substantial recommendations back of their aspirations than the support or representations of a prominent citizen. It is high time that a change should be made in this respect. There are many members in our organization who would gladly accept some of these positions were they offered them. We have spent the best years of our life on the river, and consequently feel and know that we are competent to discharge the duties of any work that might be assigned us. Captain Emkins states that the association is preparing to get in a position to command respect and some attention before the campaign opens up in the spring. He continues: "All harbor positions should be filled by members of our organization. We have been here for years and know every foot of the river. As masters and pilots we carry United States licenses, which ought to be a sufficient guarantee that we are capable of assuming charge of any harbor position that might be tendered us. Never before have we taken any great interest in politics, but this is where we have made a mistake. We have decided to change our tactics. It is time to let the 'slatemakers' know that we are on earth."

Keep Your Eyes Open. For when you see the Palmo sign in the window of a drug store there is where you get the Palmo Tablets that are guaranteed for any form of weakness in man or woman. They cost only 50 cents, and make you sleep, laugh and grow fat.

DEATH OF J. G. FONTAINE. Joseph G. Fontaine, a business man of Salem, died at St. Vincent's hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. He suffered from liver trouble. Mr. Fontaine was born in Montreal, Canada, in 1846, and in 1874 he came to Oregon and settled in Salem. He leaves two sons, Joseph, a merchant of Mitchell, and Fred, an attorney at Sumpter. The funeral services will be held in Gervais tomorrow morning. Special high mass will be sung by Rev. Father P. Daum at the Gervais Catholic church. The remains will be interred in the Gervais cemetery.

SCOTTISH RITERS "AT HOME" AGAIN The chairman of committees on Scottish rite entertainments has announced another "at home" at their cathedral at Morrison and Lowndes streets for Monday evening, February 22. This will be welcome news to all members who have heretofore attended, as well as those who were previously unable to attend. Invitations are extended in this instance to all Scottish rite members here or elsewhere and also to the sons of Scottish Rite Masons. The date being a holiday and the anniversary of the father of our country, it is confidently expected a very large attendance will be in evidence. The committee in charge contemplates an entertainment somewhat on the order of those previously given—instrumental or vocal music, dancing, cards, cigars and refreshments. Invitations will be out in a few days and should any member be overlooked it will be from oversight and not intention; and any such may be accommodated by calling on E. S. Jackson, chairman, 246 Stark street, or upon W. C. Knighton of the invitation committee, 206 Macley building, Fourth and Washington streets.
