Albin, a few nights ago, as follows: Henry C. Allen, chief ranger; John H. Marper, vice-chief ranger; John P. Meehan, past chief ranger; J. P. Miller, treasurer; Peter Meyer, financial secretary; D. W. Lane, recording secretary; J. W. Frost, J. Duff, T. Healy, trustees; John Mueller, senior conductor; J. C. Dunbroski, junior conductor; William Maxwell, outside sentinel; R. Koopert, inside sentinel. State Chief Ranger Markey was installing officer, and gave an appropriate address. Remarks were also made by Rev. W. A. Daly, J. P. Meehan, H. C. Allen and others.

It will be several weeks yet before engine company 9 will be installed at Sunnyside. While the carpenter and plumbing work on the building are finished, the painting has not been begun. Bids are now being solicited for painting this house, and that of No. 7, on East Pine street. The new automatic doors, the first in Portland, have been placed in No. 9 house and are a great improvement over the system now in vogue in the local department of keeping the stock in open stalls. The automatic door opens came from the East.

The second annual newspaper art exhibit will be held during the month in the parlors of the Portland hotel. The exhibition last year was highly successful, and was a source of surprise to the many people who attended. The following newspaper artists will contribute: F. A. Routledge, Lila Pease, John Seed, Jr., Chap Chapin, Lillian Lewis, Murray Wade, Colista H. Murray, Rea Irwin, Rita Bell and Milton Werschkul.

The 3-year-old son of John Mackin, who resides in an upshot hall at Seventh and Marshall streets, had a most miraculous escape from instant death this afternoon. The little fellow accidentally fell from the second story window of the residence, a distance of fully 50 feet, and unless he suffered internal injuries there are no outward signs that the child was seriously hurt excepting for a few minor bruises.

Kenyon's Cough Cure, sold only by Albert Berni, the druggist, Second and Washington, is peculiarly adapted for coughs and colds incident to this climate and usually gives relief when all others fail. As it sells for only 50c a bottle, there is no reason for letting a cough hang on when it can be cured.

Adolph F. Emerich, who died at his home, 287 East Eighth street, last Friday, was buried from Dunning's undertaking parlors in East Portland yesterday afternoon. Deceased belonged to Schiller lodge No. 3, O. of H. S., the members of which attended the funeral in a body after gathering at their hall.

CANADA VS. OREGON IN IMMIGRATION WAR

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—To the Editor of The Journal: Yesterday I attended a meeting at which was organized the Canadian Emigration association. This association of land men has the backing of the Canadian government, and will certainly retard immigration to the Oregon country. The Canadian government means business, and is offering special inducements to people to go north. "Free land" is the cry. "The Canadian Emigration association" is for the promotion and the settlement of Canadian lands, and the Winnipeg board of trade was well represented. Vast tracts of lands in the vicinity of Alberta were described as being the greatest grass-producing lands on earth. The name of Eugene D. White, a native son of Oregon, and the great grand secretary of the organization of Native Sons of Oregon, I was told by a prominent Canadian, is good for $50,000 up there. The association has headquarters near the Union station, this city, and officers will interview people who are headed for the Pacific coast, and endeavor to point them to free lands in Western Canada. Oregon ought to have such an organization here, and the organization should have the backing of the state rather than of individuals. The Canadian government made of a few thousand dollars of the Lewis and Clark fair appropriation than to maintain a bureau here in St. Paul, near the Union station, until the close of 1905.

PENTATEUCH SCROLL PLACED IN THE ARK

Seymour Ha-Torah, or "conclusion of the writing of the holy scrolls," was celebrated yesterday by the Congregation Talmud Torah. The Pentateuch was presented to the congregation by Wolfe and Sarah Fox, who had it specially written to order in Odessa, Russia, the characters of the scroll being Hebrew. The ceremony is an ancient one among the orthodox Hebrews. The Pentateuch is divided into 52 sections, one of which is read in the congregation each Sunday. The reading of the Pentateuch is initiated in the time of Ezra, 500 years before the Christian era, about the time the Jews returned from their exile. The Jews then spoke Chaldean. Instead of Hebrew, and the reading was interpreted by the rabbis. Today the scroll is chanted by the rabbi. The scroll presented to the congregation was three years in preparation, is written in Chaldean characters and cost $500. Quite a sum of money for charitable purposes was raised by the congregation from bids for the privilege of supplying scroll characters which had been omitted, and the ladies' bid for the privilege of putting in stitches when the ends of the scroll were fastened to the rollers. The roll was blessed and the synagogue paraded a feast. Music met the procession carrying the scroll at the door of the temple. It was placed in the Ark and covered with a mantle of silk. Mr. and Mrs. Fox received congratulations and thanks from the congregations.

CITY ENGINEER IS BACK FROM HIS TRIP

"Los Angeles has magnificent streets," was the statement of City Engineer Elliott, who returned after a short vacation to Southern California points. "All their paving is done with asphalt and the thoroughfares are 100 feet in width the streets present a very attractive appearance."

Mr. Elliott took the trip largely on account of his wife's health, but in his capacity of municipal engineer he made more than cursory inspection of the civic improvements, particularly at Los Angeles, where they are making such rapid strides in city betterments. A few years ago the city possessed a number of antiquated and antedated cobblestone streets, but these have been asphalted over. The stones were lowered, a binder laid on top and when the asphalt was laid to surface off with, and the results exceeded even the most sanguine expectations. It makes even a more permanent paving than when the asphalt is laid in the regular fashion.

SUNDAY CLOSING TALK BY DR. HILL

TAKES THE STAND THAT LEWIS AND CLARK FAIR MUST BE CLOSED ON DIVINE, CIVIC AND PHYSICAL LAWS WILL BE VIOLATED.

Rev. Edgar P. Hill of the First Presbyterian church chose for his subject last night "Proper Observance of the Sabbath." He took the stand that the Sabbath is a holy day instead of a holiday. He stated that the Lewis and Clark fair should close. That from the standpoint of religion it was the right thing to do, and also to set an example for Christianity. He said that the keeping of the machinery in motion on Sunday would eventually result in enslaving all working classes. He argued, in part, as follows:

"First, it is argued that it is no more harm to go to the fair than to go for a walk in the park. There will be no gambling there, only that which will tend to uplift."

"Second, unless the fair is opened on Sunday the working people will not have a chance to see it."

"Third, if the gates are closed, the multitude which will be in the city will have nowhere to go but to the places of vice and evil in the city."

"Fourth, the question is asked, why should people who are so conscientious about their master's day, that they oppose upon others who do not believe the same way?"

"Now, let us set ourselves to the task of considering this subject."

"First, it is a physical question. One day in seven is necessary for rest. When a man works six days if he does not rest one, he will soon break down and give out. The French revolution demonstrated this, when one day in 10 was set apart for rest. This physical law is recognized by all laboring men and labor organizations."

"Then there is a religious question. God said, 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.' One man can say, 'I enjoy the Sabbath better by shooting ducks or playing golf. That is their idea of observing the Sabbath, but does it conform to God's idea?'"

"Some people seem to think that this agitation over the closing of the fair is a rumpus raised by the Ministerial association. The principles of Christianity are at stake, and every Christian should stand up for them."

"What is the Sabbath for? Who set it apart? It is not a matter of the ministers alone. It is a matter between God and man. He designed that the Sabbath should be kept in that way. He said to remember it and keep it holy. That is the significant word. What is there holy about shooting ducks?"

"It is a day when the soul should be lifted up towards its maker."

"I have noticed that in all this discussion of the fair, the matter of religion has not been mentioned once. It has been given no consideration. They have asked what the workingman wants, and what the effect will be upon the financial and by closing the fair, but not the question been asked, 'What is God's will?'"

"In the board of directors of the Lewis and Clark fair there are two Jewish gentlemen. On certain days you will notice that the doors of their hands are closed. Other business houses are closed. Other places are open; why not theirs? That is their holy day, and they observe it."

"We as Christians are asked by people who have no convictions about all our sins and say go ahead. We should make a protest, even though we be but a handful against many."

"This matter is of national importance. What effect will it have upon the nation? The rottenness of France today is well known. Did not the Continental Sunday have something to do with bringing about that result? Emerson said that the Sabbath is the core of civilization."

"When you see the old flag, it makes your heart thrill. If a foreign foe were to step upon our shores you would kiss family and friends good-bye and go to fight it. But I tell you, there are foes more deadly than any foreign foe. There is no more deadly foe than the secularization of the nation today than the secularization of the Sabbath. Rise up and stand against it."

"Now let us consider the reasons advanced in favor of opening the gates. They say it is no more harm to go to the fair than to the park. Just remember that esthetics do not instill religion."

"Then, they say the workingman should have a chance to see the fair. If the Sabbath is observed, the workingman will become a slave. The president of the board of directors of the fair has said that as Sunday is considered a holiday by most people, the fair might be opened, but all machinery and trade shipped. If that is only a holiday, why stop the machinery and trading? Mark me, we will have the fair closed tight, or it will be wide open. There is no middle ground."

"Then it is said that, if the fair is closed on Sunday, the people, having no other place to go, will go to the evil places in the city. If people who are so anxious for the moral welfare of the multitudes of 1905 were as anxious about the welfare of the people here now, we could close up gambling and other places of iniquity and remove this obstacle."

"I believe in the largest Christian liberty in observing the Sabbath—not to say Christian liberty. But man must decide for himself how to keep the Sabbath. It is a matter between himself and God. But when a man exercises his liberty in observing the fair, I ask him just two questions: What will be the effect upon your own Christian life, and what will be the effect upon your Christian influence?"

"Of course, when men who never live a Christian life come to me and talk about Christian liberty, I know they mean worldly license. If such men should come to me and say, 'Let's keep the fair open. I would say, No; if I had to do it alone. Are we as Christians to have no convictions?'"

"The supreme court has decided that this is a Christian nation. The directors of the fair have asked for national import. If that is the case, we should respect the principles upon which our government is founded by observing the law of God."

"I believe the gates of the fair should be closed on the Sabbath."

It ought to be so arranged that the gas meter, by working eight hours, could give everybody enough heat for 24.

AT THE THEATRES

"THE BELLE OF NEW YORK."

The Pollard Juvenile Opera company opened yesterday at the Baker theatre in a return week's engagement and presented their most pronounced success, "The Belle of New York." The little folks gave a delightfully refreshing performance, and they have improved since the beginning of the season, when they presented the same opera at the Marquam Grand. The clever children received a most enthusiastic reception, and their thoroughly artistic singing and acting was a genuine treat.

The Pollard boys and girls are ever welcome to local theatre-goers, and their appearance is always an excuse for a crowded house. Scores were unable to obtain admittance yesterday and the foyer was sold out for "standing" privilege.

"In 'The Belle of New York' the children have gained one of their most pronounced successes, and each performance seems better than the last. The singing is all that could be desired, and the scenic investments are in keeping with the thorough excellence of the production. All the solo numbers were repeatedly encored and the chorus work is above the average of that given by mature performers. One specially clever dance is introduced in the scene showing the beach at Narragansett Pier in moonlight, when a spirit-like effect is secured from the use of calcium lights. A song and march is introduced in the appearance of the 'Puritan Brigade,' and the costuming and movements are splendidly executed."

Jack Pollard made a decided hit with his songs, "The Meaning of U. S. A." and "It Was the Dutch." He was recalled a dozen or more times. Little Daphne Pollard may be a child in years and stature, but she could give the majority of mature actresses a few pointers in the role of "Cora Angelique," which she interprets not only artistically but convincingly. Teddy McNamara and Merle Pollard are Bowery youngsters, "Blinky Bill" McQuirk and his girl, "Mamie Lancy," a lively couple, "Prift Fricot," the Frivole singing girl, is one of the daintiest little pictures imaginable.

"The Belle of New York" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night; "The Geisha" on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, and "The American Millionaire" on Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee.

"MICKY FINN." "Micky Finn" is a mixture of vaudeville and farce-comedy, but is well worth the while and pleased two audiences at Cordey's yesterday. All the performers can sing and dance well and each number was generously received. If there is any story to be told it is lost sight of in the kaleidoscopic introduction of specialties.

The first act shows the back yard of Mrs. Finn's home, where a number of children (lamentably mature despite their short dresses) are giving a show. The solo numbers included "Same Old Crowd," "My Moonlight Maid" and "He Gave His Life for His Country." Among the other clever numbers was "Dear Old Girl," "When Kate and I Were Coming Through the Rye," "The Man in the Moon," "He Was a Sailor," "The Giddy Old Maid" (female impersonation), "Pretty Little Dinah Jones," and "Bedelia." The third act closed with a three-round farcical boxing exhibition between Rube Welch and Frank Appleton that is excruciatingly funny.

"Mickey Finn" might be termed a continuous vaudeville show, and every number is thoroughly good. Kittle Francis makes a splendid Irish washerwoman as Mrs. Finn. Oscar Lewis is a clever dancer and singer, and Harry Delain has a splendid baritone voice. All the people on the bill can sing well. The same show will continue all week with usual matinees.

NEW BILL AT THE ARCADE.

The new bill at the Arcade theatre starts at 2:30 p. m. today and continues for the week with five shows daily. Tuneful songs, mirthful comedy sketches, characterizations, clever illusions, and new movie pictures make up an attractive program.

"THE DEVIL'S AUCTION."

The great spectacular extravaganza, "The Devil's Auction," will be the attraction at the Marquam Grand theatre next Friday and Saturday nights with a popular-price matinee Saturday. Advance sale of seats will open next Wednesday morning.

"CHARLEY'S AUNT."

Metropolitan in every way is the Baker Theatre company, which will play at the Marquam Grand next Wednesday and Thursday matinee, after appearing at Albany and Eugene for one night each. In those cities the company will present its latest play, "Jane." At the Marquam Grand that comedy, "Charley's Aunt," will be presented, with a special sketch Thursday afternoon. The company will play Friday and Saturday at Salem, presenting "At the White Horse Tavern," "Jane" and "Charley's Aunt." The sale of seats opened this morning at the Marquam.

"THE FATAL WEDDING."

Tonight and tomorrow night at the Marquam Grand theatre the melodrama, "The Fatal Wedding," will be the attraction. The play deals with the adventures of a scheming woman who, assisted by a male accomplice, designs the ruin of a happy family, and the separation of a wife from husband and children, in order that she can contract a marriage with the husband and thereby gain his fortune. The scenery is excellent.
