Oregon City and Vicinity

(Journal Special Service.) Oregon City, Feb. 4 .- There was all kinds of excitement at the council meeting last night. Remonstrances and res-ignations were listened to and various ner arose and said: "It has occurred to me before, but I have never had the opportunity of men-tioning it before the council, but I think the city attorney should be instructed to investigate the status of Councilmen or investigate the status of Councilmen and domestic tranquility were aired at a great rate in the recorder's office at a great rate in the recorder's office winding when L. D. Teagle the city attorney should be instructed storey and E. D. Kelly, both having changed their residence since election. Mr. Storey has moved from the Third ward to the First, and Mr. Kelly from the First to the Second. I should like to know, as a point in interest, if anything the council might do, if they were not entitled to their seats, would be considered legal. I therefore move, Mr. Mayor, that the city attorney be so instructed.

Councilman Kelly had gone home, but Councilman Storey picked up his ears and went and had a few whispered words with City Recorder Curry. What the recorder said to him is only conjecture. It might have been "How old is Ann?" or something like that. In any case, Mr. Storey smiled and then looked grave. "Mr. Mayor, as I see that Mr. Koerner does not want my presence any longer in the council I tender my resignation

This action on the part of Storey was thunderbolt and several councilmen tried to have him recall his resignation.

He was firm. Mr. Koerner then said that there was nothing personal between him and Mr. Storey, and thought that Mr. Storey was a little hasty and that he ought to wait ntil the city attorney made a report. Mr. Storey was still firm and stared at the ceiling in defiance. Mr. Storey said: "For certain reasons Mr. Koerner desires my resignation. He has it." Mr. Sheehan then spread a little oil on the stormy waters, said oil, no doubt, the kind that the paper company is go-ing to burn. He said:

Mr. Storey ought to reconsider his action, as he has just as much right to a seat here as Mr. Kelly. I know that he would not be here a minute if he knew he had no right to the seat. It is better to leave the matter with the

The matter of cows was brought up. Whether the ordinance prohibiting them to run at large within the city should be strictly enforced.

Tales from citizens and the mayor were listened to wherein it appeared that the "cow" was breaking down fences, eating fruit trees, and doing other things of an uncowlike nature. It was decided to stop this and a poundmaster is to be appointed. He will enforce the dog tax ordinance, too. It developed after discussion that Dr. W. E. Carll was the only citizen who was paying a dog tax. Some there last night were heard to say that "they doubted whether the animal was worth his tax."

As a case it did not amount to much except some new ideas were brought out by Lawyer Schuebel, who defended Teagle, as to the manner that most women will act when engaged in a hair-pulling contest. Mr. Schuebel was very much wrought up over the case and at one time City Attorney Storey suggested that "he take the stand if he knew so much about what happened." Storey and Schuebel had a number of minor differences, which added interest to the

From the testimony it appeared that there had been many vile names used and much pulling of hair. Both Mr. and the county court yesterday and a large Mrs. Smith testified that Teagle had insulted Mrs. Smith and had struck her in the face, breaking her glasses, and cutting her face. It seems that Teagle and wife had been renting from the Smiths and had been notified to leave Monday as Mrs. Smith "could not stand the noise and trouble they made fight-Accordingly they were moving out when Mrs. Smith accused the Teagles of stealing spoons. The Teagles naturally resented this and then began the mix and the billingsgate. Mrs. Smith was a lit-tle excited as she thought Teagle laid hands on her. But this was not the case. Mrs. Teagle testified that it was she, and not her husband, who clumped Mrs. Smith over the head with a stick of wood and scratched her glasses off.

Judge Curry was much annoyed over the conflicting testimony but discharged the defendant after moralizing over "good conduct" in the neighborhood. Evidently life in Falls View isn't always

Mrs. Freeman is considered an excellent entertainer and the afternoon is said to have passed all too quickly. Some of the members of the club gave interesting talks and readings on the favorite theme of the club, music. A very interesting reading on the noted operatio singer, Marcella Cembrich was given. Mrs. W. A. Huntley read a very inter-esting paper and Mrs. P. K. Hammond contributed "current events." There was considerable discussion over the proposed Valentine party to be given by Mrs. Moffatt on February 14 for the musical club.

Light refreshments were served in the ourse of the afternoon. The members of the club present were: Mesdames C. G. Miller, P. K. Hammond, G. E. Hayes, A. S. Dresser, C. O. T. Williams, C. H.
