Oregon City and Vicinity

"drink." He related how he had seen a couple of hoboes drinking out a most charming manner. The afterexpended in other directions with better results. In passing it might be well to add that these energies could be used in investigating the way slops and garbage are handled in Oregon City. There is a particular slop wagon that Oregon City that can be smelt five blocks away, and the wind does not have to be in your direction, either. There are a number of these slop wagons in Oregon City and they bump around and spill slops, but nothing is said about them. They are not even cleaned. Serious Question.

But to return to the drinking fountain. The Humane society of Oregon City was instrumental in putting it up and with the help of the city council it was erected. Now there have been drinking fountains in existence for an unknown number of years and it has been a hard thing to determine that they communicate disease. It was intimated at the council meeting that this particular fountain was spreading infectious disease. It was further intimated that this report came from Dr. Powell. This was wrong, however. When asked about the matter yesterday, Dr. Powell said: "I have not said that diseases of an infectious nature were being communi-cated. I do say though that I think the Sountain dangerous in this respect and not an absolute convenience.

One way of spreading consumption would be by this fountain and I am heartly opposed to it.
"I was in the council when the matter of erecting the fountain came up. At that time we thought very little about it and the city appropriated about $100 to aid the Humane society in its work. I am sorry now that I voted for it, though at the time we thought we were acting for the best. I now consider it a menace to health, dangerous and not a convenience.

By a convenience Dr. Powell means that it isn't necessary for humans, for if they were thirsty they could easily get a drink somewhere. He thinks it is doing good work as far as horses and dogs are concerned. But he is decidedly opposed to people drinking as he says it is a sure way of spreading disease.

There are some people in the city who take the opposite view of Dr. Powell. They take the stand that there are greater evils than this in the city which the council does not take any cognizance of. They maintain that the fountain is no worse a disease communicator than the cuspidor, garbage barrels, slop wagons and the usual manner of washing dishes in restaurants. The city has good water and this is a good way to convince strangers of that fact. If any one thinks it dangerous to drink out of the fountain they are not compelled to. One thing the council could do is to recommend the renewing of the cup at a short interval. This would minimize the danger, if any.

Yesterday Judge McBride handed down a decision in the circuit court concerning the payment of delinquent taxes for the year 1902. The case was that of the Gladstone Real Estate association against Sheriff Shaver, and had for its purpose the deteating of the collection of taxes against property owned by the plaintiff company. Taxes against the property for that year amounted to $850, which, with accrued costs. which, with accrued costs, amounted to seril $1,200. The court decided that the plaintiff company will be obliged to pay the taxes and one-half the costs, amounting to $1,050.

Oregon City, Or., Feb. 5 .- The busi ness men are busily engaged in making extensive preparations for their banquet, which is to be given Tuesday, February 16. While the preparations are just starting, from reports the banquet will be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever given in Oregon City. An elaborate program of toasts and speeches is being prepared and there be wit and jollity in abundance The object of the spread is to bind together the business men and the professional men more closely and to form well organized board of trade. In the matter of the board of trade it is the intention to sell stock. There will be 100 shares that will sell at $30 a share. The method that will be used in paying for the stock will be after this manner: Each purchaser pays $5 down and $1 a onth. It is expected that this will provide a sufficient income to advertise the city and country. In order to promote the affair the more handily it was thought a banquet would do more to get the ones most interested together to exchange ideas. Furthermore, if the poard of trade meets with the success that is expected a banquet like the one in preparation will be one of the features in business life every three months. All members of committees are working overtime and the success of the affair is assured. Hon. Franklyn T. Griffith, chairman of the reception com-

About a year ago The Journal pub-lished a letter from W. H. Hall to his wife by which means he accused her terday and went over a good deal of of being unfaithful to him in his ab-business. Bids were advertised for the sence, naming Silas Hedges as the corespondent. The couple had lived near Springwater in this county until Hall went to Portland to work. While there he became suspicious of his wife and consulted a medium, who told him that she could see Mrs. Hall in company with a man of Hedges' description. He bought a gun and started for home. He claimed to have seen the two together, but did not molest them. Instead he followed Hedges to the country store where they faced each other and Hall began shoot ing, emptying the revolver, but every time missing Hedges. Because of Hedges' prominence as a politician the matter was the talk of the county at the time. Hall was arrested and tried and it was then that the facts came

RIGHTS UNDER THE INHERITANCE LAW

Feb. 5.—Attorney-General Crawford last evening, in response to a request of State Treasurer Moore, ren-dered an opinion on the question as to the right of legatees, under the inheritance tax law, to take their discount as provided in that law if the tax was paid after the expiration of the eight months within which the law says it shall be paid. The attorney-general holds that the discount can only be deducted if the payment is made within the eight months, and not after the expiration of that time.

that time, He says:
"Relative to your inquiry as to my construction of sections 3 and 7 of house bill 41, being the inheritance tax law of 1902, page 51, of the session laws, permit me to say that in my opinion the tax accrues in the sense of the estate becom-ing liable therefor at the date of the death of the decedent or donor, and that the same becomes due and payable to the state within eight months thereafter except in cases of unavoidable delay, as mentioned in said sections. When delay is caused by any devise, etc., mentioned in section 2, the tax is payable whenever the beneficiary comes into ac-tual possession or enjoyment of the estate, devise, or bequest, and if then paid, no interest is chargeable, but if not, interest must be paid at the rate of eight per cent per annum. When the tax is not paid in eight months, and the delay is caused by claims against the estate, necessary litigation, etc., as provided in section 7, six per cent interest must be charged from the date the tax is payable to the state, to-wit: Eight months from the death of the decedent until the cause of the delay is removed. and after that eight per cent until pay ment is made. A discount of five per centum can be allowed only when the tax is paid within eight months from the date of death of decedent.

"The tax on a devise or bequest of ar estate, the exact amount of which cannot be determined, by reason of claims against the estate, is due eight months from death of deceased and if delay in payment is caused for reason above-me tioned, six per cent interest is chargeable until delay, is removed, then eight per cent until payment is made. The rule for computing time in which an act is to be done is that the first day (in this matter the day of death) shall not be included, but the last day shall be.'

they will in the future reside.

Astoria, Feb. 5.-The county court has engaged the services of Edgar M. Lazarus of Portland, and that gentleman will have complete supervision over the construction of the new court house. He s now preparing preliminary plans and will have the specifications ready within 60 days. Work on the building will be begun before June 1. The court house is to cost $60,000 or more and in at least one respect will be the most markable building of its kind in the west, or perhaps in the entire country. The court is anxious to so arrange the plans that there will be but one vault in the building, extending from the basement to the second floor, but not accessible from this floor. It is hoped to so arrange matters that each of the four officers requiring vault space—the clerk, sheriff, treasurer and assessor-may have access to the one large vault, which will afford as much space as possible without crowding the officers quarters. The basement vault may be used for the preservation of old records The vault will be put in if it is abso lutely fire-proof. The court's idea is to afford ample vault space and minimize the expense of erecting the structure.
