PUTTING IN PLACE THE MACHINERY

WORK AT DRYDOCK SITE PROGRESSING FAVORABLY AND NEARING COMPLETION - SEVERAL SHIP-OWNERS MAKE APPLICATION TO HAVE VESSELS DOCKED.

The foundation of the power-house at the drydock has been completed and the work of installing the machinery has been started. Practically all the machinery is on the ground, and before a great while it will all be in place. The balance of the work at the site will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible. It is believed that the plant will be ready for operation by the middle of next month.

A short time ago fear was expressed in some quarters that a hesitancy might be felt by shipowners on the start about allowing a vessel to go in the drydock until it had passed through the experimental stage. In other words, it was argued they would likely insist that it be given a thorough test in advance to demonstrate whether or not the mechanism and management are up to the standard.

Within the past day or two these fears have all faded away. Several applications are now on file in the office of the Port of Portland commission from prominent shipowners asking upon what dates their vessels can be treated. Requests are made that they be furnished full particulars about the matter.

Members of the commission decline to reveal the identity of the applicants at this time, but state the outlook is very favorable that the drydock will have good patronage from the very beginning of its existence.

For a time the owners of the American ship Sargent, now lying at St. Johns, were anxious for their vessel to be among the first taken on the drydock. As she is scheduled to go north in April to engage in the salmon trade, it was finally decided not to wait for the completion of the structure, but to have the contemplated repair work done by hand. Accordingly a contract for overhauling the vessel has been let to Anderson & Crow, the shipbuilding firm. The hull will be given a new coat of sheathing, and many other improvements made, such as recalking the decks, etc. Work on the ship will be started Monday with a large force of men.

LILLIAN BLAUVELT TO SING WEDNESDAY

Of Lillian Blauvelt, who is to appear at the Marquam, February 10, under the management of Miss Lois Steers, a New York Critic says:

"Her voice is growing more beautiful year by year, deepening and maturing, and adding to its first flawless technique a mellow splendor of tone which marks it as the equal of any. No other singer, excepting possibly Calve, is giving us such an abundantly interesting study in the development of a truly great voice beyond the point of mere singing ability—the growth of the singing soul." Mme. Blauvelt is now in her prime. This will be the first opportunity ever granted to Portland music lovers to hear the famous star, who has won such renown in Europe and in New York. Tickets are now selling.

Long-Draw-Out Negotiations.

It takes almost as much talk to bring on a war between world powers as it does to pull off a scrap between prize-fighters.

No one would ever be bothered with constipation if everyone knew how naturally and quickly Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach and bowels.

SIGHT RESTORED TO MRS. W. A. BROWN

Mrs. W. A. Brown of Woodlawn has had her eyesight restored through an operation performed at the Good Samaritan hospital by Dr. J. F. Dickson. The case was an unusually pathetic one. The husband who was at one time well off lost his money through speculation, and later went blind. His wife struggled hard to support him and finally lost her eyesight. The people of Woodlawn erected for them a small house and, with a small allowance from the county, the old couple can live comfortably.

WE PAY YOUR CAR FARE

As an inducement to get you to visit our store we will pay your car fare. There are thousands of people in Portland who have never even seen the large building we conduct our business in, built expressly for ourselves and on which we have a long lease, let alone the inside and the enormous stock we carry and sell at prices that no store in Portland can meet. The only requirement is that you visit with us one day this week, suit your own pleasure as to the day, and while here buy something, no matter the amount, if only 5 cents' worth, and if you have come a distance of 15 blocks you get your car fare. This is our way of getting you here and making your acquaintance, for once here you will come often when wanting something we carry in stock, as it will only require one visit to see how cheap we are selling compared to any store in the city of Portland. Visit with us, make a small purchase and the pleasure will all be ours and we will with delight
