PROPERTY OWNERS MEET AND ASE COUNCIL TO REPEAL STEEL BRIDGE ORDER, LATELY PASSED POR SULLIVAN'S GULCE-COUN-CILMEN PAVOR GOOD BRIDGE.

It is the general impression today that the majority of the city council will insist upon two steel bridges across Sullivan's guich at Grand and Union avenues, despite the action of the east side residents last night in declaring for wooden structures. A number of the councilmen attended the meeting and they say that the session was composed of strictly the large property owners, and that the vast majority of interested people, those owning from one to three lots, who are in favor of the steel bridges, were not present

Following the meeting R. R. Duniway, who had been elected secretary, drew up a communication addressed to the city council, stating briefly the resolutions that were passed for wooden structures and asking the repeal of the existing ordinances calling for steel bridges. There was an extended dis-cussion, and but two or three voices were raised for the steel bridges. The majority of those present insisted that the cost would be excessive, especially if assessed upon the particular district as proposed, and that wooden bridges were all that was needed.
