Hunting for Madeline Del Ray, a vaiety performer with whom he had quarreled, after associating with her for two years, "Mike" Scully arrived in this city from Seattle Thursday. The woman left him, and coming to Portland several days ago, secured a two weeks' engagement at Blazier's music hall, 248 Burnside street. Scully is one of the proprietors of a number of variety theatres conducted in the restricted district of Seattle, and has been associated in business with the Clancys for some time Since his departure mortgages on the theatres have been foreclosed.

When Scully reached here he left his money at the Portland hotel. He was to have met a friend at 2 o'clock Saturday morning but failed to keep the appointment. Friday night he drew $200 of his money and later the remainder. Since then he has spent the most of his time around Blazier's and the Portland club. Friends have been trying in vain to locate him since yesterday. He is said to have telephoned the Clancys at
