Mrs. Nettle Slocum and Mrs. C. L. Butler, her sister, formerly managers of the Kingston rooming house, on Third and Taylor, will open the Van Noy hotel, Third and Pine, about March 10. The furniture and fittings of the place will be very swell, most of the carpets being of velvet. It is intended to make this one of the most comfortable houses in the city. All rooms have electric and gas lights, are heated by steam and have hot and cold water in them. Mrs. Slocum is well known in Portland as a model hotel woman, kindness and attention to guests being one of the most fascinating traits of her character. Mrs. Butler is recently from the East, yet during her brief life in Portland she has made many acquaintances and many friends. Both ladies are of that agreeable kind that nature seems to have intended for the calling they have chosen. The Hotel Van Noy is sure to be popular with the public, while these two amiable women are at its helm.

The employes of the Portland post-office have adopted the following resolu-tions, touching the death of Fred J. Maicom, who took his own life: "Resolved by the Portland branch, No. 61, of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, that we have learned with the deepest regret of the death of Mr. Fred J. Malcom, late mailing clerk in this office. That we extend our neartfelt sympathy to his bereaved and grief stricken family, who have suffered an irreparable loss. That in his death the postoffice department has lost a most efficient and faithful employe; the clerks a true friends and congenial associate, and the community a good and upright

The will of the late William Plympton was filed for probate in the county court yesterday morning. C. F. Plymp-ton, a brother, and W. W. Plympton, a nephew of the deceased, are appointed executors and empowered to distribute the estate as they see fit, the only provision made in the instrument being that Helen Florence Graham, a niece, shall be given a house and lot on Mar-guerette street. While only a few relatives are mentioned, the testator asks the executors to provide for the others

The Chinese members of the Christian mission, which is under the auspices of the First Christian church, had Pastor and Mrs. Muckley and their children, besides about 50 guests, at the mission last evening, where a luncheon was spread. Many of the women present are teachers in the mission Sabbath school and the weekday night school. The Celestials entertained their friends with games. The edibles were something entirely new to the diners.

A belated celebration of Washington's birthday was that at the public library yesterday afternoon in the children's department. Miss Harriet E. Hassler in charge of the room, entertained the children with Washington stories. The place was decorated with pictures of Washington, nis wife, and scenes from incidents in his life. Next Saturday Longfellow's birthday will be observed.

A large crowd gathered at the Y. M. A. auditorium last night to hear Montaville Flowers, the noted elocutionst of the interstate lecture bureau of Cincinnati, in his impersonation of Dickens' "Christmas Carol." Among those present was Miss Gertrude Zimmer, member of the Rostonians, who was a student with Flowers at the college of music in Cincinnati three years ago.

"ROBIN MOOD."

The horns of "Robin Hood" and his nerry men who killed the king's deer and fought the king's men in the shades of Sherwood forest have been sounding opera boards, but their sweet blast drew to the Marquam Grand theatre last night an audience that filled ever; seat. The Bostonians renew their youth by their very sensible habit of paying no attention to names, but looking for voices, young, fresh, ambitious voices that are a pleasure after the hard metallic tones of the professional who will sing every night of the season. You are reasonably sure of a performance better than average if you hear the Bostonians and this season the company is io disappointment.

Barnabee is a habit like drinking coffee, and pretty nearly as popular, and the people who have contracted the Bar-nabee habit don't want any cereal substitutes. He is as brisk today as he has been any time these 15 years, and though some of the younger members of his corps dance with a trifle more agility, he doesn't miss many steps. When he made his entrance last night he had to pause and fulfill the "bow low" part of his song long before the cue came for the audience gave him a handclasp of good fellowship that might warm the heart of any player. The second veterar George Frothingham was applauded, too, on his entrance. Somehow Frothing ham never did seem to get full credit for all he does. He is half the fun of any thing he has a hand in. W. H. MacDonald of the old guard was there too and quaffed his "Brown October Ale" with all the gusto of years ago. All the rest are new faces in Portland.

Agnes Brown was the star of the evening. She has a charming voice and very sweet and pretty. However she lacks one thing that hitherto has been a distinguishing mark of the real simon pure prima donna. Instead of standing about with a bored air palpably waiting for her cue and trying to get as much of the limelight as possible she appears to take an interest in what is going on and her little airs and graces make an important part of every scene she appears in. Perhaps Miss Brown is atempting an innovation.

Will Scarlet was sung by Howard Chambers who has a voice so big and deep that it hardly seems to belong to his somewhat youthful figure. Douglass Ruthven, the Robin Hood of the piece, sings a clear tenor. He appeared in the customary handsome makeup and there was a touch of the kalser about his mustache. Campbell Donald get some real fun out of the part of Guy of Gisborne. Delia Donald is a rather faint substitute for the original of Alan-a Dale. Blanche Morrison as Annabe sang her little part pleasantly and Dame Durden did the trifle of comedy that she has well enough,

The company has given a shock to its traditions by showing the effect of the show girl fever, in the improved appearance of its chorus women. Some of them are really pretty and the singing foot of Hancock street, in Albina. quality of the chorus has in no degree

"Robin Hood" will be repeated this ternoon. "The Serenade" will be the bill tonight and "The Queen of Laugh ter" tomorrow night.

"BOSEMARY."

Louis N. Parker, the English dramacreating characters true to life in his nineteenth century romance. mary," which Howard Kyle will present at the Marquam Grand theatre next Monday night, February 29. Sir Jasper Thorndyke, the philanthropic bachelos of 40, Professor Jogram, the sensitive but life-long friend, Captain Cruickshank, a hardy old seaman, Dorothy Cruickshank, his pretty daughter, with a love for romance and William West-wood, an ensign in the East India service, are all characters well known in the England of that period. The advance sale of seats will open next Friday morning.

MURBAY AND MACE.

Among the comedians who have large personal following among local theatre goers, none are more popular tween the prome than Murray and Mack. They come to Governor Pardee. the Marquam Grand theatre next Friday and Saturday nights, February 26 and 27, with a popular price matinee Sat-urday, with a brand new edition of the musical gayety, "A Night on Broadway," replete with new music, costumes and effects, and literally chock full of the newest specialties. Murray and Mack have a reputation for being originators of irresistible humor. The company is everywhere spoken of with the highest praise and playing to the utmost capacity of the theatre nightly. Seats are now selling.

AT THE ARCADE.

Rarely has any team or company of comedians made such a hit with a Portland audience as the Remos, two men and a girl, who are performing at the Arcade theatre. Not to see them is to overlook an opportunity to be happy.

"DOWN BY THE SEA." "Charles Saunders, who sings the comic song with local applications at Sea," covers about everything of local sea, covers about everything of local interest placed in a humorous way. The police force, the fireboat, Morrison street bridge, the gambling crusade, the 1905 fair, all are in his song which has be come the talk of the town this week.

"SLAVES OF THE MINES."

"Slaves of the Mines" opens at Cord ray's theatre next Sunday afternoon for four nights. The Olympia Opera company will be at Cordray's theatre 10 days, commencing next week, Thursday, Presents Last Ser March 3. This is the first time the com pany has ever appeared at popular
