

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS AT 'SWORDS' POINTS

Struggle for Control Appears Inevitable at Tonight's Meeting of the County Central Committee--Rival Factions Evenly Balanced.

The hopes of an amicable adjustment of the differences between the two elements in the Democratic county central committee seem doomed to disappointment. The committee is to meet at 8 o'clock this evening in the Mining exchange, Chamber of Commerce building, and the indications point to a stormy session. A fight for control, between the conservative element, headed by the chairman, Alex. Sweek, and the more radical faction, headed by Newton McCoy, George H. Thomas and L. T. Peery, seems to be inevitable. The conservative faction includes in its ranks Governor Chamberlain, Judge Bellinger and many others of the prominent Democrats of the city.

city and county, if they can be assured of a general expression of the party's choice. To this end they would be satisfied to have the nominations made in ward meetings. But they object to the plan advocated by the executive committee, of calling primary meetings to be held in the various precincts. They think that in many precincts where Democrats are few the meetings would not be attended and no recommendations would be made, with the result that the selection of nominees would be left entirely to the executive committee. They argue that this would result in the nomination of adherents of the McCoy-Thomas-Peery faction, which would thus gain control of the convention.

NEW ORDINANCE ALMOST READY

NEW FIRE AND BUILDING ORDINANCES WILL SOON BE REPORTED BY THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO THE COUNCIL--AN IMPORTANT MEASURE.

"I believe that every street that extends to the river should be provided with a concrete bulkhead. I am willing to vote the money."—Councilman A. K. Bentley.

"Property owners are now paying 40 mills tax on the investment. Next year it will be more. No matter what we want that 40 mills is staring us in the face. I've got to skirrnish around myself, and pay $1,800 in taxes within a few days."—Executive Committeeman W. H. Fliener.

"I wish I could say as much."—Mr. Bentley.

During the consideration of the new fire and building ordinance bill this morning by the special committee that has been drafting it, Councilman Bentley and Mr. Fieldner put themselves on record in a short informal debate. The councilman went so far as to state that everything possible should be done by the city to protect its streets, and the executive committeeman stated his opposition to what he considered needless expense.

The special committee was in session two hours this morning and succeeded in checking over about half of the new bill. The final meeting will be held Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Chairman Bentley stated that he desired to present the bill to the council next Wednesday evening. The bill is lengthy and covers the ground of 60 ordinances now in effect. The committee has been at work on it for over six months. Everything pertaining to building construction, fire protection and the fire limits is defined. No changes of importance were suggested at today's meeting. Several architects and building contractors were in attendance. A communication was read from W. H. Gordon, suggesting that the ordinance be made as complete as possible.

During the argument regarding bulkheads, Mr. Fliener declared there were other things of vital importance that should not be overlooked. "Why, we can't even find room for our new fireboat, which we paid $40,000 for," he said. "Talk about the city protecting its streets. Some of you gentlemen may not know it, but the Jefferson street depot belongs to the city of Portland. But the loss of the site to the city cannot be blamed on any one party. A Republican legislature gave it away and a Democratic judge confirmed the gift. We have the privilege to land our boat, but no place to keep it."

The members of the special committee which drafted the bill are: Chairman, A. K. Bentley, council; William Fliener, executive board; J. P. Sharkey, council; W. R. Roberts, fire marshal; W. C. Elliott, city engineer.

P. I. JACOBY WEDS A PORTLAND GIRL

MRS. MAY KOSHLAND JACOBY.

PHILIP I. JACOBY.

One of the most elaborate weddings of the season was celebrated at the Portland hotel, last night. Miss May Koshland, daughter of Theodore Bernhelm of Portland, was the bride, and Philip I. Jacoby of San Francisco, the groom. The wedding took place in the large parlor, which was transformed by palms, flowers and lights into a bower. The four pillars which support the central arch of the room were wound with ropes of smilax, and about them were banded palms and clusters of stately easter lilies. Midway between the pillars were pyramids of pink and white azaleas, crowned with crystal vases from which drooped long stemmed American Beauty roses. From these pyramids, white satin ribbons were festooned to the pillars on either side, where they were held in place by huge bunches of pink and white Maman Cochet roses. At the end of the aisle thus formed, in the alcove, was a canopy of smilax studded with tiny electric lights. At the front of the canopy white doves held in their beaks white ribbons which fell gracefully to the pillars on either side. The background of palms and ferns was interspersed with callas and easter lilies. The mantles were banded with ferns and American Beauty roses, while the mirrors on either side reflected the graceful arrangement of palms and lilies.

the groom, Mrs. Bernhelm and Isadore Bernhelm, mother and brother of the bride. The bride was met by the groom and best man, Julius Bernstein of San Francisco. Rev. David Levin performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white mull silk, simple in design, with a tucked yoke and garnitures of point applique, rose point, and pearls. The skirt was shirred soft and full, with trimmings of folds and chiffon ruching. The soft flowing overs were supplemented by an inner one of chiffon mousquetaire style. Her tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms and her bouquet was of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Koshland, wore a becoming gown of pink tulle, while the bridesmaids were gowned alike in pink organdie. The little ring bearer, Helen Abrahamson, wore a fluffy white organdie frock. The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of black chiffon crepe, over white silk, and the groom's mother was attired in black satin with garnitures of jet. Mrs. Hugo Abrahamson of San Francisco wore a gown of champagne colored chiffon cloth, trimmed elaborately, in point lace.

After the ceremony dinner was served in the large dining room. Covers were laid for 70 guests. The table decorations were jonquils, daffodils and ferns. Mr. and Mrs. Jacoby will reside in San Francisco.

The out of town guests for the wedding are: Mr. Kaspare Cohn of Los Angeles, Mrs. L. N. Jacoby, Mrs. Hugo Abrahamson, Helen Abrahamson, Mr. Julius Brownstein and Mr. N. Kauffman of San Francisco, Mr. Samuel Frauenthal and Miss Newberger of Seattle.

TREMONT ROAD BITTERLY FOUGHT

AFTER LONG LITIGATION IN COUNTY COURT C. H. BUELL CARRIES HIS OPPOSITION TO COUNTY ROAD TO CIRCUIT COURT--ROAD WAS ONCE AUTHORIZED.

The scene of one of the hardest contested legal battles witnessed in the county for years has been transferred from the county to the state circuit court. Notice of appeal from the decision of County Judge Webster was filed today by Bronaugh & Bronaugh, counsel for C. H. Buell, who is endeavoring to prevent a county road being laid out in the Tremont addition. The transcript on appeal is a bulky document containing a copy of all the transactions in the county court from August 19, 1903, to February 4, 1904.

James F. Huggins and others petitioned for the road and Judge Webster appointed viewers. They reported favorably, saying the proposed road would cut off an eighth of a mile and connect Corvallis and Tremont additions. Buell then came forward as remonstrant, declaring that Huggins did not care to see the road built as a matter of public utility, but because he has a store located at what would be its terminus. He averred that the proposed highway would confiscate nine-tenths of an acre of his own property worth $500, and cut off one and three-quarters acres from the main tract, causing him damage in the amount of $1,000.

The viewers investigated the charges and reported that such a road would not damage Buell's property in the least. After months of litigation the court overruled a motion to quash proceedings and ordered the road built. From this order, issued on last February 4, an appeal is now taken to the state circuit court.

CROSSES HAZARD IN QUICK TIME

BRITISH BARK THISTLEBANK MAKES PERILOUS TRIP FROM TILLAMOOK LIGHT TO ASTORIA IN FOUR HOURS, THE FASTEST TIME MADE IN MONTH.

Four hours after reaching Tillamook light the British bark Thistlebank, which arrived in port last evening, was safely anchored at Astoria. Captain Parry, commander of the bark, says at 5 o'clock in the morning he was abreast Tillamook light, and two hours later a pilot was aboard and a tugboat alongside. At 10:30 o'clock the bar had been crossed and the vessel was lying in the still waters of the Columbia.

It is believed by mariners here that this is one of the best records that has been made in recent years. Usually during the winter season a ship has to beat around on the outside several days before she is reached by a tugboat.

The Thistlebank brought a general cargo from Antwerp, a portion of which was discharged at Lewis and Clark. The shipment for Portland amounts to 1,400 tons, and consists principally of cement, glass, pig iron, whisky and beer. It is being discharged at the foot of Pine street.

Just before Cape Horn was reached J. Willink, the cook, died suddenly of heart disease, and his body was buried at sea.

In speaking of the passage, Captain Parry this morning said: "We left Antwerp on July 21, 1903. Coming down the English channel contrary winds were encountered. We cleared the Scilly islands on the seventh day out. There were favorable winds to and through the northeast trades, losing the latter in 24 degrees north and 25 degrees west longitude; light to strong southwesterly monsoons to the equator, which was crossed on the thirty-second day out.

Then there were favorable southeast trades to 25 degrees south, followed by northeast to north winds to the river Platte, South America, to Staten islands strong west and southwesterly winds, and we experienced great difficulty getting south and west. We rounded Cape St. Johns, Staten island, on September 25, after being 65 days out. From that date until November 9 continuous gales were experienced, two or three of them being particularly severe. We were nearly 60 days going from 50 degrees south in the Atlantic to 50 degrees south in the Pacific, during which time some of our principal sails were lost. We had unfavorable winds to 32 degrees south, when fine weather was once more experienced and carried until our arrival at Port Los Angeles on January 2. We left the California port on February 4, and made the passage up the coast to Astoria in just 13 days."

The Thistlebank is not chartered.

IN MEMORY OF CHARLES M'GINN JR.

Members of the class of 1900 of the law department of the University of Oregon have called a meeting of the member of the Multnomah county bar to take suitable action regarding the death of Charles M'Ginn Jr., who died yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal. The meeting will be held at 2:30 a. m. tomorrow in Judge Fraser's division No. 1, of the state circuit court.

Mr. and Mrs. M'Ginn left Los Angeles this morning with the body of their son. The funeral will take place in this city probably next Monday afternoon.

Senator Talliferro pronounces his name as "Talliver." Still, this is no more objection than pronouncing Senator Detrich "Not guilty."

THE NEW, THE BEAUTIFUL THE EXCLUSIVE

A MAGNIFICENT GATHERING

You are undoubtedly interested in the new styles and will turn toward "The Exclusive Dry Goods Store" for information regarding Fashion's 1904 decrees. We have been among the largest manufacturers known to the world, and have gathered of their productions the choicest creations—many of which are now here, awaiting your approval. We emphasize the faultless character, the perfection of style, the elegance of finish, the exceptional high quality—and most emphatically do we pronounce every price a revelation.

Not that we are perfect in the know-how of dry goods selling—simply that we are always willing to learn and quickly adopt the better way whenever the better way has proved itself the best way. That's why we are growing into a broader field of action, without limit. That's why the volume of our business is larger now, than it ever was—larger the past week than it was the week before—larger this year than it was a year ago. We deserve the increase, else it would not be ours. This store (you know) cannot receive beyond the measure of its giving to those who build its greatness. You will see today's store news is unusually concentrated, into an unusual attractiveness.

FASHION'S LATEST IN SPRING SUITS

EXCEPTIONAL GARMENTS AT EXCEPTIONAL PRICES

Uncommon pricing of the most fashionable garments that ever came to this fascinating department. Liberal reductions from lowest regular quotations. If you are informed on the question, and will inspect these suits, you cannot disagree with us in claiming for them most extraordinary value. A low price on inferior garments is one thing—of these we have none. A low price on garments bearing the highest stamp of perfection, in detail and finished whole, is another thing—and our interpretation of "extraordinary value." For this and next week we call special attention to our showings of medium priced suits, as well as the fact that you can get the best in the market, as high in price as you care to go.
