Paul Strain returned to St. Paul from Chicago this morning, and left immediately over the Northern Pacific for home. He writes that in Chicago he bought the largest stock of clothing he ever carried in stock, and beginning with tomorrow there will be a slaughter of prices at the Strain stores that will call forth much of the spare dollars now in men's pockets awaiting bargain opportunities. Mr. Strain is a bargain-hunter himself, and having succeeded in every willing to "shake hands" with his customers, letting them in on his good fortune. Just now he is going to "do business" on the murder price plan for a few days, so that clothing buyers have a chance for pick-ups that are not often met with.

The Oregon Irrigator, Irigon, Oregon, is a dancing, prancing, bounding newspaper, published in the liveliest town on earth. Irigon is the centerpiece of the modern Garden of Eden being brought to the attention of the world by the Oregon Land & Water company, a corporation engaged in reclaiming a large tract of the stoneless, stumps, rich soil of Morrow county. The Irrigator faithfully portrays the possibilities of a region where crops cannot fail, and weekly tells the world of the progress of the company in watering its vast possessions. It is a rattling good paper for $1.50 the year. That's what's the matter.

Two classes of students at the Columbia university joined in a debate yesterday afternoon. Elias D. in the English department argued that the United States was justified in its interference in the Panama rebellion, and gained the decision over class F, which took the negative side. Today the second inter-class debate between the two higher English classes will be held on the same subject. The speakers will be F. Martin, C. Parker and C. A. McKenna for the affirmative, and L. J. Shell, C. C. Roe and I. E. McNamee on the other side.

If you need a trust, suspensory bandage or supporter, you will find it to your interest and satisfaction, both as to quality and price, to call on Albert Berni, the druggist, Second and Washington streets.

The city council of Milwaukee has decided to maintain some electric lights for the streets, and have made a contract with the Portland General Electric company to put them in. Work is now under way.

The name Otto Schumann means that you need not look farther if you're hunting for some one to do fine marble, monumental or granite work. He's next door to Taylor street church.

If you're an east side resident, and are going to buy something in the jewelry line, you needn't come farther into town than 307 Morrison street. That's John A. Beck's place.

Multnomah camp, Woodmen of the World, will hold an open meeting in the hall, East Sixth and Alder streets, at 8 o'clock tonight. A musical entertainment will be given.

A social ball will be given by the Hoffmings lodge, No. 20, D. H. S., on February 28, 1904, at Foresters' hall, Second and Yamhill streets. Admission, 25 cents.

Essentially English in growth, creation and cultivation, little has ever been seen in America other than the rosemary, with which English gardens are profuse. The non-appearance of the flower here must needs excuse the lack of knowledge as to its particular beauty. To have constructed a romantic drama replete with pathos and comical elements of domestic, hinging on a sprig of rosemary, stamps Louis N. Parker as an author of merit. Howard Kyle will present "Rosemary" at the Marquam Grand theatre on next Monday night, February 29. Seats are now selling.

"THE CHIEF JUSTICE." Dan Sully as the star of an original and powerful play entitled "The Chief Justice," will be seen at the Marquam Grand theatre next Wednesday and Thursday nights, March 2 and 3. The play is a powerful romance of modern times, in which love, ambition, financial and social rivalry are skillfully woven by the dramatist. The character of Hon. Morgan O'Connell, played by Mr. Sully, is a magnificent example of the integrity of some of the men who dignify, with honor and high ideals, the robe of justice. The sale of seats will open next Monday morning.

AT THE THEATRES

"THE QUEEN OF LAUGHTER." "The Queen of Laughter" opens with a chorus of tears. This is only one of many surprises in the new opera produced for the fourth time in its history at the Marquam Grand theatre last night. The Bostonians planned originally to open in the new piece but changed their minds and put it last on the list. The change was probably fortunate, but at the same time the audience was disposed to be friendly and to overlook many shortcomings because the piece is new. S. Williams Brander the composer and Tealbe de Witte Kaplan, the librettist, are both of Cincinnati where the "Prince of Pilsen" comes from.

The music is pleasing, and when the pruning hand of the stage director, already visible last night, gets a little more of its practical work, the little may be made to last awhile, although it is difficult to believe that the Bostonians have secured in it anything like a permanent success.

Gertrude Zimmer and Agnes Brown sang with their customary skill. H. Barnabee and George Frothingham in the comedy parts had to work hard to make anything of their lines. The rest of the company is up to the usual Bostonian standard, which is above the average. The opera is handsomely staged.

"PLAYING" ARIZONA. "Down by the Sea" played tonight and at the matinee tomorrow and last night at Cordray's theatre tomorrow night. Last season when "Down by the Sea" played the Pacific coast cities Mr. Phil Hunt, the manager of the attraction received a telegram from Kirk La Shelle, who owned the play "Arizona" asking why he had not obtained permission before presenting his play. Mr. Hunt, who is quite a facetious personage, replied: "I am playing Arizona, but am also playing New Mexico and California." Mr. La Shelle had seen Mr. Hunt's ad in a dramatic paper, which read: "Playing Arizona this week."

OLYMPIA OPERA COMPANY. The "Olympia Opera Company" comes to Cordray's theatre next Thursday night. Portland has had but little opera the past year, and this engagement of a standard musical organization at this time is opportune.

"THE TWO ORPHANS." So many thousands of sympathetic hearts have followed the adventures and persecutions of the two orphans, Henry and John, that it is not surprising that their story of misery and suffering which ends in peace and happiness is a familiar one in nearly every home. The Baker company will give a fine production of the beautiful play next week beginning Sunday afternoon, and those who have seen it before and those who have not will find it has all its old powers and fascination.

"THE CASE OF REBELLIOUS SUSAN." The play at the Baker this week is a very pleasing comedy, not the loud, coarse farcical comedy, but of a clear, high tone that appeals to the intelligent and refined. "The Case of Rebellious Susan," as the name indicates, deals in a humorous way with a charming young woman called "Sue," who became displeased with things in general, and her husband in particular, and to use a common "horse" expression, "went over the traces." Which brought on a whole lot of matrimonial difficulties difficult to describe but funny to follow in the play.

RETURN OF THE FAVORITES. Murray and Mack in the new edition of "A Night on Broadway," which will be the offering at the Marquam Grand theatre tonight and tomorrow nights with popular priced matinee tomorrow, Saturday, is the joint work of three of our best known writers in the creation of successful musical shows. When Mr. Campbell writes the book, Edward Skinner the lyrics and Morton Kerker the music, one is led to expect something beyond the ordinary. In this instance, one will not be disappointed in any particular, for the piece must be numbered among their best works. The dialogue is bright and snappy, scintillating with the most gracefully witty repartee, while the situations range from the supremely ridiculous to the grotesque.

The lyrics have a delightful singing quality and are written in Mr. Skinner's most characteristic hand. The music is best described by hearing it. No words can do justice to Mr. Morton Kerker's beautiful songs and choruses, whose mystic measures set both tongue and foot a-gog. Everybody will be singing "The Lazy Little Mazy Jones," "Four Little Red Cross Nurses," "The Conversation Song and Dance," "Kitty's Automobile."

"ROSEMARY." Essentially English in growth, creation and cultivation, little has ever been seen in America other than the rosemary, with which English gardens are profuse. The non-appearance of the flower here must needs excuse the lack of knowledge as to its particular beauty. To have constructed a romantic drama replete with pathos and comical elements of domestic, hinging on a sprig of rosemary, stamps Louis N. Parker as an author of merit. Howard Kyle will present "Rosemary" at the Marquam Grand theatre on next Monday night, February 29. Seats are now selling.

W. H. Winfree, a lawyer of Spokane, is in the city. He is a member of the firm of Shine & Winfree. He was formerly a resident of Portland, having been associated with the former law firm of Cox, Teal & Minor here.

Rev. Edwin L. House left this afternoon for Albany, where he will deliver a lecture this evening in the Congregational church on "The Wonderland of America."

MYSTERIOUS SHOTS PUZZLE OFFICERS

A mysterious shooting affair occurred on the east side at an early hour this morning. So far no results of the fusillade have been discovered by the police. The shots are supposed to have been fired on Union avenue, between Couch and Burnside streets.

Patrolman Myers reported that he had heard several shots fired in the vicinity of the Burkhard building about 2:30 o'clock this morning, but that no cries nor groans followed the shooting. The patrolman stated that he at once went to the scene, but that he was unable to discover a clue to the person who was guilty of disturbing the night echoes. Patrolman Myers made a thorough investigation of the Burkhard building, but could find nothing that would lead him to believe that murder or suicide had been committed.

Last week some one fired into the home of Hugh Dennison, corner of East Stark and Seventh street, and the bullet nearly struck Mrs. Dennison, who was lying on the couch in the sitting room.

DEEDS SIGNED BY DR. JOHN M'LOUGHLIN

Among the documents on file in the vaults of the Clackamas county recorder's office are two deeds which are of great historical interest and will grow in value as the years roll on. While cleaning out the vaults before reconstructing them recently the documents were found by F. A. Sleight, the county clerk and recorder. He was in this city a few days last week with County Clerk Fields relative to the convention of clerks and recorders to be held here in March, and at that time informed Chief Deputy Recorder McCord of what had been found.

Among the documents were two deeds signed by Dr. John M'Loughlin, the pioneer owner of Oregon, in 1850. Another was a petition for a road to run from Columbia slough to the Clackamas river. This petition was also filed in the early fifties.

Pointer on Love Making. If I smile, and you smile, and I smile on you, And you know that I know that you know that I do, Then I know that you love me, and you know it, too, And you know that my love for you, love, will be true. At this juncture we will stop for breath long enough to explain that Bark Tonic is the remedy that requires only four to ten days to cure rheumatism. It is the remedy that cleanses the system of all impurities, and that is equal to the best remedies, and better than most remedies, for constipation and biliousness. It is sold by all druggists at 75 cents per bottle.
