

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

The Daughters of the American Revolution were entertained last Monday afternoon by Mrs. Walter Burrell at her home, 828 Hawthorne avenue. A delightful afternoon was spent by the club and a number of invited guests, about 60, being in attendance. A program of unusual interest was provided in honor of the day. Mr. C. E. B. Wood gave an excellent address on "Washington as an Example." William Wallace Graham played a violin solo, the D Minor Concerto (No. 4) by Vieuxtemps, which was enthusiastically received, and he responded, with a delightful Bach air, played on the G string. Miss Amy Newman accompanied him on the piano.

Miss Ethel Lytle's sweet soprano was heard in De Koven's "Dapple Grey," accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Wilbur. Harry Hogue sang a group of three songs by Dvorak, Brahms and Henschel, which were greatly enjoyed. At the conclusion an hour of social converse was spent, and tea was served by Mesdames Griswold and Vorhies.

PERSONALS

Hon. Oliver W. Stewart and wife of Chicago will arrive in Portland Sunday morning. They will be the guests of...

Witch, Lois McCoy; Thanksgiving of Prefabers' day, Laura Harding; Christmas day, Santa Claus; Spirit of Winter, J. A. Clemenson and Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

An excellent musical program followed. The Y. W. C. A. Mandolin and Guitar clubs played selections. "Topsy," Miss Corinne Carr sang "Oh! Kentucky Home," accompanied by the Halloween Witch (Miss Lois McCoy). The Y. W. C. A. quartet sang "Last Night" and "By the Sea." Christina Nilsson Morgan recited, Clytie Stuart played a piano solo, and the Y. W. C. A. orchestra rendered several selections. Home made candies piled up in dainty fashion were sold to add to the building fund. The rooms were crowded with interested friends. The building fund for the much-needed new home for the Y. W. C. A. is growing rapidly and the secretary, Miss McElroy, says that the amount is probably close to $5,000, although an official report has not yet been made.

Major Langfitt entertained a party of friends at luncheon on board the Chinook on Tuesday afternoon. The Chinook is stationed at the mouth of Fort Stevens, on the Columbia. Major Langfitt's guests were met at Astoria by Collector Robb and Captain Bernard of the Perry and escorted in the collector's tug to the Chinook. After luncheon had been served the party were entertained by watching the Chinook's great suction pumps in action and the other machinery on board the dredger. Major Langfitt's guests were: General Funston, Colonel Tucker, Majors Evans and Bethel, Captain Stewart, Collector of Customs Patterson, Internal Revenue Collector Dunne and Superintendent M. G. Hall.

D. C. O'Reilly gave a dinner at the Arlington club on Tuesday evening in honor of the Towel brothers and Mr. Loucks of St. Paul. Mr. O'Reilly's guests were: David C. Lewis, Robert McElroy, Frank Spencer, Robert Lewis Norman Lang, J. C. Ainsworth, John Wilcox, Hunt Lewis, Henry O'Connor, Mr. Burbey and the guests of honor, Messrs. Towel and Loucks.

Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Funston gave a large dancing party on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Funston's sister, Mrs. Cullen in their home at Vancouver barracks. The Nineteenth Infantry band furnished music for the dancing, and an elaborate supper was served late in the evening. A large number of guests enjoyed General and Mrs. Funston's hospitality, most of them being the officers and ladies of the post and headquarters. The guests present from Portland were: Miss Maxwell, Miss Strong and Miss Wolsey.

A shirtwaist party was given last Friday evening by the ladies at the Norton. It was a very informal affair, but greatly enjoyed by those present. There was dancing down stairs until a late hour, when supper was served in the dining room. Besides the guests of the house the following were present: Mrs. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Keating, Dr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Cheal, Mr. and Mrs. Herring, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur, Robert McCracken, Drake O'Reilly, the Misses Hill, Miss Dunne, Miss Groat, Mr. J. M. Holland.

Mrs. Samuel Lockwood and Mrs. George D. Greene gave a reception this afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Lockwood, 633 Broadway, in honor of Mrs. W. J. Honeyman and Miss Abbie McElroy, the president and secretary, respectively, of the Young Women's Christian association. It has been planned to give a number of these receptions in different parts of the city, to arouse the interest of women in the general Y. W. C. A. work, and to acquaint them with the scope of its work. Few are aware for instance, that the association has among the other beneficent branches, an employment agency of growing proportions. The advantages of this are evident, those having in charge are acquainted both with the needs of the employer and the employed. This is but one of the useful works which the Y. W. C. A. accomplishes daily, in a quiet way. The afternoon was spent in conversation, and an interesting musical program ending with refreshments were served by the hostesses.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fleischer were host and hostess of a luncheon given last Tuesday afternoon at their home, 231 Seventh street. The luncheon was in honor of Miss May Koshland, her fiancée, Phillip Jacoby, of San Francisco and the guests from California who came to attend their wedding. The table was arranged in green and yellow, with a banjo, jangle and ferns in the center. Mr. and Mrs. Fleischer's guests were: Miss May Koshland, Mr. Phillip Jacoby, Mrs. J. Fleischer, Mrs. E. Meyer, Mr. Kaspare Cohn of Los Angeles, Mrs. Hugo Abrahamson of San Francisco, Mr. Julius Brownstein and Mrs. I. N. Jacoby of San Francisco.

aration. A vocal solo was given by Frank D. Hennessy, and the choir rendered "The Star-Spangled Banner" in rousing patriotic style.

Hon. John P. Kavanaugh delivered an excellent address.

The faculty of the Western Academy of Music and Oratory gave a reception on Saturday evening to the pupils of the academy and their friends. The large hall and the academy rooms in the Mulkey building were hospitably thrown open, and were thronged with guests until a late hour.

During the evening the "Girls' Glee Club" connected with the college sang several selections. The young ladies who compose the Glee club are the following: Sopranos—Lucia Barton, Nellie O'Brien, Eva Wells, E. Morgan, Elsie Marsh, Reatha Fowler, Bertha Royal, Alta Mae, C. M. M. Mrs. C. Bolton, Miss Mae Breslin, Rose Schwinen, Mabel Albright, Mollie Reynolds, Petronilla Connelly.

Mrs. R. P. Graham entertained a number of her women friends Tuesday afternoon, at her home in Irvington. Eighteen hands of cinch were played at six tables, the prizes being won by Mesdames Banks and Darrow. The parlors were prettily decorated with Oregon grape, pussy willows and cut flowers. Mrs. Graham was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Bishop and Miss Pearl Hungerford. Those present were: Mesdames Graham, Bishop, Fox, Doernbecher, Wetherby, Capron, A. G. Smith, A. L. Brasfield, Bowman, Banks, W. Riley, J. H. Dundore, J. C. Mann, W. T. Turner, T. J. Clouston, Charles Alton, Bishop, H. L. Moreland, Braden, Alice Gibbs, B. M. Denison, Denison, W. Riley, J. H. Dundore and Misses Conway, Fox, Doernbecher and Hungerford.

Mrs. Otto E. Langranger entertained informally at cards Friday afternoon.

The Sons of the American Revolution held their annual banquet and election of officers last Tuesday evening at the rooms of the University club, on Twenty-second street. Mayor George H. Williams delivered an address on Washington. The same officers were re-elected for the coming year.

The Tillicum society was entertained on Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Scott, 631 East Ankeny street. Quotations in remembrance of Washington were given by each of the 21 members. Mrs. M. W. Pillsbury read a paper on the subject, "Recent Tendencies of Industrial Evolution;" Mrs. J. B. Scott had a paper on "Economic Classes," and Mr. C. Steele talked on "Immigration During the Nineteenth Century." A general discussion of these subjects followed, and refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. O. M. Scott, 615 East Alder street.

A charming Leap Year party was given on Monday evening by the Misses Elizabeth and Florence Walton, at their home, 455 West Park street. The young women were very attractive in their colonial costumes, and the young men entered the spirit of the occasion to the extent of powdering their hair and "making up" their faces. A unique way of choosing partners afforded much amusement, and then they were informed that the couple who could write the most improbable story would receive a prize. The prize was awarded, however, on the premise that all patriotic people, in remembrance of the great Washington, should not tell lies. The first prizes were awarded to Miss Nettie Kemp and Fred Nelson, as the couple who wrote the most improbable story. The rest of the evening was spent in games and music. Refreshments were served by the young hostesses. Those present were: Misses Elizabeth and Florence Walton, Vesta and Alda Broughton, Mabel and Bessie Hammond, Ione Townsend, Nellie Johnson, Gertrude Hutchinson, Lottie Thomas, Alice Collier, Lillian Clark, Mrs. Lewis, Nettie Kemp, Anna Doernbecher, and Cook, Chester Walton, Charles Nachand, George and Edward Clark, Walter Durham, E. Doernbecher, Harold Gilbert, Otto Koch, Louis Rice, Ray Steel, Otto Koch, W. Carey, Reno Hutchinson, Rev. H. A. Start.

Mr. and Mrs. Isam White gave an elaborate dinner party on Friday evening in honor of Miss Florence Wolfe, who is to leave next week, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wolfe, for a year's stay in Europe. The table was sprinkled with its beautiful arrangement of yellow tulips, while the dining room was decorated with flags of the different countries Miss Wolfe intends to visit. After the dinner Miss Wolfe was presented with a handsome American flag, while the guests were given the others as souvenirs of the occasion.

Covers were laid for 12. Mr. and Mrs. White's guests were: Miss Florence Wolfe, Mrs. S. Ahpel, Misses Amy Feller and Nettie Rossner of San Francisco, and Helen Rosenfeld, Leo Friede, Mrs. Rosenfeld, Sanford Lowengart, W. F. Lipman and Sanford Rosenfeld.

At the patriotic service held at the First Congregational church last Sunday evening the choir rendered a patriotic program.

The quartet sang Reginald De Koven's "Song of the Flag," in which W. A. Montgomery sang the baritone solo. Schnecker's "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was beautifully sung by the choir.

Rose Bloch-Bauer rendered the "Star-Spangled Banner" with great spirit. The choir joined in the last repetition of the chorus, and Mrs. Bauer ended with the high C.

The Society of King's Daughters met Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. H. H. Northrup, 261 Fourteenth street. The society meets every week during Lent to sew for Good Samaritan hospital.

The Arion society concert given last Tuesday evening was a memorable occasion, musically. The choruses selected for the male voices were satisfactorily rendered, and the rendition under the leadership of Louis Dammasch was marked by good taste and an unusual degree of sympathetic shading. This was especially true of Koschat's familiar and always beautiful "Verlassen," in which the basses carry the air, while the other three parts sing a soft accompaniment. In "Die Kapelle," which was sung without accompaniment, the chorus did perhaps its best light work. The "Brauiliert" was an acrobatic number, too, but showed here and there a slight weakness in the tenor parts.

A piano virtuoso, he shows talent of an unusual type. His improvisation of Brahms' "Hungarian Dances" was a revelation to the audience, and was applauded with marked enthusiasm. As an encore Mr. Courtienne played the "Eleventh Rhapsody (Liszt). In his second number, "Vom Rhein bis zur Donau," Mr. Courtienne skillfully wove together a delightful medley of favorite selections, representative of the country "from the Rhine to the Danube," including airs from "Faust," "Il Trovatore," the old folk song "How Can I Leave Thee," and the stirring German national hymn, "Die Wacht am Rhein," all of which were connected by original themes of Mr. Courtienne's. This was greeted with rounds of applause, and was one of the hits of the evening.

It is always a pleasure to listen to Mrs. Bushong's singing, and her work on this evening was especially good. She sang with exquisite feeling in "Shadows," and as an encore sang "Cynthia" (Jennie P. Black), Ethelbert Nevin's "Oh, That We Two Were May-

A "Martha Washington Tea" was given in the parlors of the First Baptist church on Tuesday evening by the young people of the church. It was an elaborate affair, fully 200 guests coming as spectators, while about 50 were in colonial costumes, the young women with powdered hair, pointed bodices, panniers and lace fichus, while the young men wore the powdered wigs, ruffled shirts and velvet coats of long ago. The whole company of young people in costume marched into the auditorium to the quaint strains of the "Washington March" played by Mr. Wilder. The march was led by Columbia, attractively impersonated by Miss Bushnell, followed by George and Lady Washington and 50 handsomely dressed colonial men, stately Few members of the Portland Hunt club have taken more interest in the fortunes and affairs of the club than Mrs. F. O. Downing, whose husband, F. O. Downing, is president of the club. As an evidence of Mrs. Downing's love for riding, having a desire to see the first spring meet of the club a success, she donated a costly gold and silver cup as a trophy for the winner of the paper chase on Washington's birthday. The event was a glissade, proving to be the greatest paper chase ever run in the northwest, and at the finish of the long run Mrs. Downing presented the cup to V. S. Howard, who rode Jim Budd to victory. Mrs. Downing herself is an enthusiastic and daring horseback rider, and participates in all the Hunt club's rides.

ing," was so well sung by Mrs. Bushong that the greatest of all praise greeted her at its conclusion—perfect silence, preceding a burst of applause. At the conclusion of the program the members of the club and their friends enjoyed an informal dance. The program: Die Kapelle, Arion Maennerchor, Kreutzer; Shadows, Mrs. W. A. Bushong; Impromptu—Hungarian Dances, Dvorak; Piano—E. M. Courtienne; Maerchen aus schoener Zeit, Carl Faux; Brauiliert—"Lohengrin"; Wagner; Arion Maennerchor; Mit Piano Begleitung, (Courtienne); Oh, That We Two Were Maying, E. Nevin; Alto solo, Mrs. W. A. Bushong; Verlassen, Arion Maennerchor; Koschat; Vom Rhein bis zur Donau, Dvorak; Piano solo, E. M. Courtienne; Friedrich Barbarossa, Dvorak; Mit Piano Begleitung, Louis Dammasch, Dirigent.

A merry crowd of young people were chaperoned through Chinatown Wednesday evening, after which Anna Ditchburn served refreshments at her home. Those present were Anna Ditchburn, Faith Powell, Marye Strache, Pat Holmes, Poston, Roy Searie, Olive Walker, Jim Wheeler and Earle Parker.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments of the series given this winter at the Seaman's institute took place last Wednesday evening at 109 Front street. The program was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Hoben. The program included an "overture" by the Downs Mandolin club, which was encored. A duet from "Eli Capitan" was sung in excellent style by Madame G. Ferrar and Mrs. Millie G. Perkins, and they responded to several encores.

Miss Agren recited "Sister and I," with excellent expression. Miss Faith Youman sang a contralto solo, "Come Back to Erin," which she sang in fine voice, and her second selection, "Cupid Will Guide," was well received. Master King danced the "Sailor's Hornpipe," in costume. James Ruchman pleased the audience with a "Scotch Fantasy," and responded to a hearty encore with the old-time melody, "Killarney." R. Gowanklock sang "Where the Sunset Turns the Ocean's Blue to Gold," Mrs. Millie Perkins sang "Oh, Happy Days." S. W. Dougherty sang a baritone solo. Mrs. Perkins recited, and the Nordsons on children sang selections. Captain Porter, of the British ship Red Rock, sang "The Mighty Deep," with great expression. The program ended with "America," sung by the audience, led by the soloists of the evening.

The Misses Florence and Mildred Walrath entertained a few of their friends at the game of "sixty-three" last Thursday evening. The guests present were Mayme West, Marye Strache, Anna Ditchburn, Ethel Kern, Edna Church, Elliot Holcomb, Earle Parker, Theron Poston, Roy Searie, Olive Walker, Jim Downing, Tom West and Lloyd Magness.

A council of the Order of Pendo was organized last Thursday evening at the Seaman's institute. The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: Past counselor, Liszt Belding; counselor, Dr. Ward B. Van Vechten; vice-counselor, Evera McFern; chaplain, Lenora Yoc; secretary, Parthiner Cullick; treasurer, Sarah Jane Lindstrum; guide, Andrew J. McFern; warden, Charles F. Stephenson; sentinel, Mary L. Woodcock; physician, Dr. Van Vechten; trustees, Dr. Van Vechten and Evera McFern; musician, Ruth Tuckberry. F. Joplin, supreme guide, inspected the officers.

Miss Agnes Gilbert and Bernard O. Schucking of Salem were married at 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Gilbert, on Liberty street.

Rev. P. S. Knight performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the near relatives of the bride and groom, and six of the bride's girl friends. The best man was Dr. Walter Whiterberg of San Francisco, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Ray Gilbert.

The bride wore a handsome gown of duchess lace, over white silk, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

She wore a point lace handkerchief which had belonged to her mother's trousseau, and her tulle veil was crowned by the same wreath of orange blossoms her mother had worn at her wedding.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gilbert, wore a becoming gown of white silk net over white taffeta, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Fay Rosenfeld of Portland played the wedding march from Lohengrin. A wedding supper was served at the house, after which a reception was held at the Hotel Willamette. The following young women assisted at the reception: Misses Maud
