

METHODIST MISSION WORK AMONG PORTLAND'S CHINESE RESULTS IN CONVERTS WHO CARRY THE MESSAGE

PUPILS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHINESE MISSION, WITH THEIR TEACHERS AND SOME OF THEIR WHITE TEACHERS, ARE HERE SHOWN.

Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street. Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district. Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system. The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them. Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments. Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests. At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers.

Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted. Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist.

Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used. The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all.

One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help. The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission. Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street. Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district. Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them.

Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments.

Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests.

At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers. Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help. The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives.

Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission. Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden.

As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission. Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized.

They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district.

Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system. The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them.

Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments.

Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests.

At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers. Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help.

The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission.

Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed. The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district. Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system.

The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April. Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas.

He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them. Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily.

The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments. Last year more than $1,400 was expended.

A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests. At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers.

Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help.

The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission.

Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district.

Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system. The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them.

Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments. Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests.

At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers. Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help.

The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission.

Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district.

Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system. The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them.

Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments.

Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests.

At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers. Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help.

The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission. Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district.

Now that a new house of worship is about to be built, it is expected the church extension society will give quite liberally toward it, as it is recognized as a most worthy branch of the mission system. The amount to be given will probably be determined at the general conference, which is scheduled to meet in Los Angeles in April.

Rev. Chan Sing Kai is a native of China, but has been in this country for many years, and is thoroughly Americanized in his ideas. He is recognized as a man well qualified to have charge of the mission, for he is very popular among his people and understands how best to handle them.

Since he has been at the head of the mission improvements have been made steadily. The members have but recently fitted up a hall on Front street for their exclusive use and have decorated it with both American and Chinese ornaments.

Last year more than $1,400 was expended. A portion of this sum was for maintenance of the night school, which is a leading feature of the mission; a portion for other running expenses, and $300 was distributed in various charitable interests.

At the time of the Heppner flood $40 was subscribed for the sufferers. Showing a natural desire for the evangelizing of their brothers in their native land, the members of the Portland mission last year sent $245 to the China field, where the Methodist workers used it to educate the benighted.

Of this gift the members here are very proud, as they want their enlightenment to be spread abroad throughout the Celestial empire and count it a great privilege to be able to assist. Meetings are held every Sunday, at which Rev. Chan Sing Kai preaches, the songs are sung and the ritual of the Methodist Episcopal church is used.

The members are punctual in attendance, as they have been taught to be prompt at every session. Hardly a member enters a minute late, and the highest respect is paid the house of worship by all. One of the strongest points taught at the mission is self-help.

The members are schooled to stand alone, and to be independent in their lives. Each is expected to impart what knowledge he has to his Chinese friends, and to endeavor to bring them into the mission.

Every Sunday the members of the mission try to bring some friends with them that the membership may be increased, and that the work may broaden. As soon as the new church is ready for occupancy a greater effort will be made to bring in many Chinese of the city who have hitherto remained outside the mission.

Under Rev. Chan Sing Kai's preaching 21 young Chinese have been converted, and were recently baptized. They are now full members of the Methodist Episcopal church. Among the most successful enterprises of the Methodist Episcopal church in Portland is the Chinese mission, located at 111 Second street.

Under the superintendency of Rev. Chan Sing Kai it has been so prosperous that, although there are but 50 active members, a house of worship to cost not less than $1,000 is soon to be erected, at which time the mission will broaden into a regular church, 452 having already been subscribed.

The Chinese mission is controlled by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. Certain cash allowances have been set aside for the institution from year to year, and special attention has been paid to its development by the officers of the conference, and especially the presiding elder of the district.

GRIP AND CONSUMPTION CURED BY DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

Frances Moore of Clarksdale, Miss., and R. Dorsey of Washington, Had Grip and Pneumonia Which Developed Consumption. Both Were Cured by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

FRANCES MOORE.

They said I'd die of consumption, but thanks to Duffy's I am today as strong and healthy as any man living," writes Mr. Dorsey. "I caught cold and had grip, followed by bronchitis, with terrible pains in my lungs. Pneumonia set in and my doctor said nothing would prevent my dying of consumption. A cousin urged me to try DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, which had cured him of pneumonia. Before I had finished half a bottle I felt stronger and more hopeful. I was so much better at the end of the second bottle that I could go outdoors. Five bottles completely cured me. I have gained 30 pounds and am today a strong, husky man, able to do a hard day's work alongside of any one. DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY saved my life and I recommend it to every one."

For 50 years over 9,000 doctors and hospitals have prescribed and used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for all diseased, weakened, wasting conditions. It is invaluable for overworked, run-down men, delicate women and sickly children, and in malaria and all low fevers. Contains no fusel-oil, and is the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

The Only Certain Cure for Lung Diseases.

Duffy's is a gentle invigorator, tonic and stimulant, which enriches and purifies the blood, strengthens the circulation, aids digestion so that you can get from food all the nourishment it contains. It tones up the nerves and heart, invigorates the muscles and replaces diseased tissues. For 50 years over 9,000 doctors and hospitals have prescribed and used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for all diseased, weakened, wasting conditions. It is invaluable for overworked, run-down men, delicate women and sickly children, and in malaria and all low fevers. Contains no fusel-oil, and is the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine. This is a guarantee.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, mindful of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations and malt whiskey substitutes, which are put on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful. Demand "Duffy's" and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure Malt Whiskey which contains medicinal, health-giving qualities. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in sealed bottles only; never in flask or bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. Beware of refilled bottles. Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Interesting medical booklet sent free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR LIKELY

(Journal Special Service.) St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—The Japanese are massing a powerful naval force at Port Arthur according to a dispatch today from Viceroy Alexieff. He believes another attack is imminent. The Japanese fleet now off the harbor includes 17 battleships and cruisers and eight destroyers.

WITNESSED PREPARATIONS. FRAISE FOR JAPAN.

Big Freighter Arrives at Victoria from Seat of War. (Special Dispatch to the Journal.) Victoria, B. C., Feb. 27.—The mammoth freighter Hyades of the Boston Tugboat company, which left Yokohama on the 10th, arrived here today. She was at Port Arthur a little time previous to the engagement there. Her officers report that the Russian navy was keeping a careful watch of the harbor, but no obstacle was offered in the way of discharging and taking on freight. The warships were preparing for action by removing the woodwork and stripping. Of the fleet in the harbor at that time about half of them were ready for action and went out cruising every day.

About four or five trains of 10 coaches each were arriving daily with Russian forces and supplies. About 60,000 men are believed to have been there then. The Japanese merchants were winding up their business and selling goods at any price in order to get away. The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

The Hyades visited Vladivostok on the trip previous and reports that strictest rules were in force there. The Russian officers took entire charge of the steamer and superintended all the unloading. The strictest order of a guard was kept on everything during the stay.

COLONEL GRAYSON BURIED IN EAST

Funeral services over the remains of the late John Temple Grayson, who died in Cincinnati, O., Thursday night, were held at 2 o'clock today in that city under the auspices of the Knights Templar. Burial will also take place there.

The widow and children of the deceased are still in Portland, and Mrs. Grayson stated today that she was unable to go east to attend the funeral. She has not made definite plans for the future, but may return to her New York home to reside.

Frank Y. Grayson, the Cincinnati newspaper man, is no relative of the late Colonel Grayson, according to the statement of Mrs. Grayson. She also says she has no information regarding his alleged appointment as administrator of the Grayson estate.

The outlook for the year in the fire insurance business is very black," said James Manner of the Manner company, in the Inmanworth building today. "The great Baltimore and Rochester conflagrations have caused great losses to almost every company in the United States, and some of the smaller concerns have been hit so hard that they have been forced out of business. In fire insurance, a company may have a large number of policy holders in one city, like Baltimore, and may have hardly any in another city, like Rochester. So it is impossible to tell how things stand at present. But the year's averages will be very bad, I'm sure."

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

Funeral of Pioneer. (Journal Special Service.) Corvallis, Or., Feb. 27.—The funeral from the Catholic church of the late Joseph Whitaker, a pioneer of 1851, was well attended. He lacked but 17 days of being 87 years old, and was a native of Germany.

BOYS' STORIES DIFFER GREATLY

Earl Ciper and Vernie Leisure differ over Parsons' theft—Leisure is released and Ciper is sent to boys' home by Judge Rogue.

Municipal Judge Rogue this morning ordered Earl Ciper, aged 9 years, to the Boys' and Girls Aid society. The case against Vernie Leisure, aged 15 years, was continued. The boys were arrested last Thursday morning by Detective Hartman on the charge of breaking into J. H. Parsons' cigar and candy store, 265 1/2 Front street, Tuesday night and taking several hundred pennies and nickels, some postage stamps and a bunch of photograph coupons.

In speaking of the robbery, Ciper said: "Vernie broke in the store by knocking down a window with a large stick. I stayed outside until he got in and then I ran home. Vernie came by and howled for me. I went out to see what he wanted. He told me that he had gotten a lot of pennies, nickels, postage stamps and those ticket things. He wanted me to keep the money and stamps, but said he would sell the tickets for a cent apiece. I put the money in my pocket.

The reason I went down to the store with Vernie is because he was mad at me, and said he would hit me if I didn't go long and not tell. That is why I went with him. He is bigger than me.

"I don't know what he wanted me to stand outside the door for, but as soon as I saw Vernie go in I ran home and was going to bed right away. Lots of times Vernie