RIVER TRANSPORTATION COMPAN-THE WILL BUILD A SHIPYARD FOR THE REPAIR OF COLUMBIA AND WILLAMETTE BOATS-J. H. JOHN-SON TO BE IN CHARGE.

Before many months Portland will likely have another shipyard, possibly in the early spring. It will be owned and operated by the various river steamboat companies with J. H. Johnson, the shipbuilder, as general manager. A short time ago plans were practically com-pleted for launching the enterprise, but dates for holding of the primaries and Mr. Johnson was called east and the project was temporarily abandoned. Since his return the subject has again been revived, and gives every evidence candidates for the several offices to be of being pushed through to a successful filled this year. Especially thick are

The new shipyards will be equipped with a complete plant and in addition to keeping the boats in good running order, it is the intention of the owners to cater to the outside trade and build up a thriving business. Among those who are taking a lively interest in the matter are the Regulator line, the Kellogg company, the Oregon City & Transportation company, the Vancouver & La Camas Transportation company, the Shaver line and the Jones Towing & Transportation company, Capt. James Shaver believes that the new shipyards will be in operation at no distant date.

He says: 'Had Mr. Johnston not gone east the matter would undoubtedly have as-sumed some definite shape before now. He understands the business thoroughly, and unquestionably is one of the best shipbuilders in this section of the We have examined several sites, but as yet have not been able to find one which is altogether suitable. We can secure a location near Sellwood but if it can be otherwise arranged we will not go above the bridges. THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Enow How Useful it is in

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose. Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking, or after eating onlines and other odorous vegetables.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The dally use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat: I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenge's than is any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."
