

GREETINGS TO THE SUNDAY JOURNAL FROM THREE PUBLIC MEN

ELWOOD WILES

GOVERNOR CHAMBERLAIN

By Governor Chamberlain. I am glad to know that the Journal intends to issue a Sunday morning edition, and this thought is shared by many people with whom I have conversed since the idea was first suggested.

SENATOR MITCHELL

By Senator Mitchell. Washington, March 19.—The enterprise of the publishers of the Journal in their decision to issue a Sunday edition is to be commended.

SENATOR FULTON

By Senator Fulton. Washington, March 19.—All who have followed the course of the Daily Journal will, I am sure, be gratified to know that it contemplates issuing Sunday editions.

A Bright Young Politician and Business Man.

Princeton 46 on the east side had one of the brightest young men in that bullwink as one of its delegates in the Republican county convention yesterday.

anything but business, and that such as will win for me a reputation for honesty that will count as capital in my business.

PORTLAND AND VICINITY IN BOREAS' GRASP

Dragging her anchors and at the mercy of the winds for a period of two hours last night the big government dredge Chinook pulled out three dolphins and four pilings at Martin's dock.

was upset at Twenty-first and Everett streets. The driver was little the worse for the mishap outside of getting his clothing covered with mud.

A crew of 30 men was on board at the time, most of whom were preparing to go ashore. Had the accident occurred an hour later, it is likely that the dredge would have floated down the current.

Wind's Many Freaks. One of the most peculiar freaks of the wind was perpetrated last night just before dark, when a heavy plate-glass window 7x5 feet was blown from its place in front of the Graves Music company's store.

The accident occurred at 6 o'clock last night. The Chinook lay at Martin's dock, where she has been since last Sunday for repairs to her boilers.

At 4 o'clock the fire department was called to the corner of Eleventh and Main streets by an alarm from box 66. Upon arrival it was discovered that a strong wind had worked the telegraph pole loose, and in so doing had caused the pipe leading from the fire box to grate so hard against the box as to turn in the alarm.

The crew was at supper at the time and there was a hurrying of men on deck. Officers gave orders rapidly and the one remaining anchor was quickly cast.

At the corner of Sixteenth and Hawthorne a house under course of construction was blown to the ground. This was reported by Patrolman Scott. The name of the owner could not be learned.

"If it had happened an hour later," said one of the officers, "nearly all the crew would have been ashore and the six or seven men who remained would have been unable to have done much to save her."

On Jefferson street between Eleventh and Twelfth telephone wires became crossed with electric light wires, and for a time there was a brilliant display of fire. The current was soon cut off, however, and the wires repaired.

"While the storm was at its height," said Mr. Gevurtz, "a very heavy gust of wind switched around the corner of First and Yamhill streets and tore a large awning and its frame from its fastenings in front of the store of Gevurtz & Sons."

A huge maple tree at Seventh and Salmon streets fell at 6 o'clock with a crash that was heard for blocks. Those who were passing saw the threatened danger and escaped by being crushed by the giant trunk. It fell directly across the porch of the residence of C. M. Cartwright, 215 Seventh street, smashing windows and brushing boards from the wall as it fell.

Damage on Washington Street. A window in Oles & King's dry goods store at Fifth and Washington streets was broken. An awning swung loose and struck it, but was caught and tied safely before further damage was done.

Street car traffic during the night of wind and rain was irregular. The chief trouble was caused by limbs of trees that were blown across the track and compelled motormen to stop and remove the obstacles, only to move on perhaps half a block, where another barricade of boughs would be encountered.

Two new houses under construction at Fifth and Irving streets were damaged. The roof was partly on these structures, but the shingles were blown off and scattered all around the neighborhood, several being shot through a window of Larry Sullivan's abode.

The City & Suburban found little difficulty in maintaining its service, except on Morrison street, where the service has been irregular and round-about for several days, owing to the Tanner-creek sewer overflow. The schedule of the Vancouver line of the Portland railway was erratic on account of the ferry service, which was shut off by the prevailing high winds.

LOOK, BEFORE YOU DRINK, at the name on the label. If the liquor is supplied by The Full Measure House you can be absolutely certain that it is perfectly pure, as in all wines and liquors bearing our name, their purity cannot be questioned.

AGED MEN FIGHT OVER THE ELECTION

Difference of opinion as to whether only those who can show tax receipts should vote either at the primaries or elsewhere, brought about a fight yesterday afternoon between two aged men who resulted in the arrest of J. D. Wright, aged 55 years.
