ROBBERS SHOWED GREAT BRUTALITY

The desperate holdup and robbery of Mrs. D. S. Flanders in her home at 772 Thurman street Thursday night, the account of which was published in the Journal yesterday afternoon, has excited great indignation throughout the city, and especially in the neighborhood in which Mrs. Flanders lives.

Accosted in her home Thursday night at 10:30 o'clock, she was roughly handled by two masked men who after vainly searching her person for money found $215 in gold coin which she had hidden in her bed.

That the whole neighborhood is aroused is proved from the following statement of Pitt A. Eddy, a grocer who conducts an establishment at the corner of Sawyer and Twenty-third streets. He said: "I have known Mrs. Flanders for three years and her veracity is unquestionable. I know her to be a Christian and an industrious woman. She is a widow and never did I know her to fall in an account. As to people's honesty a grocer is a good judge. It is a shame the way crooks are beginning to infest this part of the city. Mrs. Flanders was terribly used by the thugs and in my opinion not a stone should be left unturned in a police endeavor to apprehend the miscreants who are bold enough to invade a house and there, finding a lone woman, beat and gag her and then rob her premises."

VAUDEVILLE BOOM IS STILL GROWING

Portland is fully blessed with vaudeville of all characters, but as soon as the weather will permit another will be added to the list. John E. Blazier, who recently purchased the old Hogue property at the corner of Fourteenth, Burnside and Washington streets, has a force of men at work moving the old residence, which has stood on the property for many years.

It is now said that the three Blazier brothers will put in a summer vaudeville garden at that location in the style of Shields' Park. The place will be known as the Columbia Gardens and will be managed by Rube Welch, who recently brought the stranded "Mickey Finn" theatrical company to this city.

him of duplicity in posing as the champion of the private in the army and at the same time summarily dismissing from military service his own brother-in-law, the Prince of Saxe-Miningen, who had dared to call his attention to abuses in the army. And to make matters worse, the minister of war, General Von Eilens, who loyally came to his war-lord's defense, chose his words so poorly that he only compromised the Kaiser still more in the eyes of the public.

It must have been worth listening to the Kaiser when he received his minister at the palace immediately after his speech in the Reichstag, and people at court are still laughing at the downcast expression of the general when he left his august master.

It is stated on excellent authority here that Professor Koch intends to resign his appointment as chief of the royal institute for infectious diseases and to settle in South Africa. Professor Koch went to South Africa by special request of the emperor who is loth to part with the services of the eminent scientist, and still hopes to make him reconsider his decision.

While it is true that the soldiers are carried across Korea in freight cars, it is not true that the conveyances are more uncomfortable than the cars which Germany would have to use for her soldiers in case of a great war. The cars are wider than the German cars, and they are all well heated with stoves and provided with windows which give plenty of light.

During the day the soldiers are seated on wooden benches made from boards which at night are used to make up camp beds, for which mattresses are provided. There is no crowding, only 22 soldiers being transported in cars intended for 40. The provisions are good and plentiful, and the soldiers are not even deprived of the national beverage.

The Rivera is unusually gay this winter, although the absence of Russian princes is noticeable.

There are more Americans here than ever. And judging from the lavish way in which they spend their money, prosperity in the United States must be as great as ever.

Four Crows is crowded, but the bank seems to have had luck. An Hungarian magnate left Monaco a few weeks ago carrying with him several hundred thousand of the bank's money.

Charles M. Schwab is also said to have been very lucky, and was followed by another American plutocrat, G. Harrison Power, whose reckless playing won him the admiration of everybody.
