

CITY TO REBUILD BROKEN SEWER

CITY ENGINEER PREPARES PLANS FOR PERMANENT WORK ON TAN- NER-CREEK DRAIN SEWER— COUNCIL TO ISSUE CALL FOR BIDS.

Contracts will soon be let for the construction of 2,000 feet of the Tanner-creek sewer, including the portion which was damaged and which caused the recent flooding of the surrounding district. At its next meeting the council will likely authorize the call for bids.

The sewer has been repaired by the city engineer so that any further blockage is considered impossible, and no fears are entertained of a repetition of the recent flood. The repairs were only of a temporary nature, however, and for that reason bids will be asked for the construction of a permanent sewer.

The sewer was built years ago and has always been considered defective. The break is said to have been due to imperfections. The new sewer will be built in a more substantial way and will have a stone-block bottom set in asphalt. The arch will be several inches in thickness—heavy enough to support the mass of earth above with no chance of another cave-in.

"We have the sewer repaired now so that there will not be another blockage and flood," said City Engineer Elliott today, "but it is still defective. It was not built properly in the first place, and the only thing to do is to construct a new one in that section where the break occurred. It is very weak for quite a distance, and another cave-in at some other point is possible. The repairs were only of a temporary nature, however, and for that reason bids will be asked for the construction of a permanent sewer, which will include the part that was recently broken and the parts that appear to be the weakest and most likely to yield to the enormous pressure above."

"There is now no danger of another flood, however, and the work of building a new sewer will not begin before late in the summer."

FUNSTON GIVES GUARD HIGH MARK

After showing the regular army officers that it could stand a rigid inspection and that it was ready to march to the front in the morning, the Third regiment, Oregon National Guard, closed the evening by proving to the visiting ladies that it could dance and do the gallant.

The annual inspection of the Third regiment was held last night in the armory, the troops being given 95.65 per cent. General Funston, commanding the department of the Columbia, with his staff was present and expressed his satisfaction at the showing made by the organization.

Governor Chamberlain was present as commander-in-chief of the state forces, and praised the men and officers for their fine showing. In addition to the staff of General Funston, many officers were in attendance from Vancouver barracks and Colonel Huston, post commander, with his personal staff assisted in the review and inspection. At the close of the inspection the officers of the regiment received the visiting army officers, while the men devoted the remainder of the evening to dancing. The following number reported for duty last night from various companies and staffs:

Field staff, noncommissioned staff and band, 14 officers and 26 men; Company B, three officers and 61 men; Company C, two officers and 50 men; Company E, two officers and 43 men; Company F, three officers and 52 men; Company K, two officers and 48 men, a total of 29 officers and 345 men.

M'BRIDE'S STRENGTH WANING RAPIDLY

Mayor Gilbert Hunt of Walla Walla, a Republican and a staunch supporter of United States senator Levi Anthony, is in Portland today. Mayor Hunt is on private business and will return home this evening.

"Governor McBride and his issues are dead numbers in Walla Walla," said the mayor. "Before his recent visit to the governor's followers in Walla Walla were jubilant, but now they are moping with downcast looks. Even Miles C. Moore is saying but little."

Speaking of the street improvements in Walla Walla, Mayor Hunt said: "We expect to expend about $100,000 this summer in pavements. Just what kind will be laid is a question now under consideration. A new fire engine has just been added to the city's equipment and an additional fire station is nearly ready for use.

"When we will get a street railway is a question I cannot answer." The annual city election in Walla Walla will take place in July. The mayor declares active campaigning has not commenced. "This annual election business," he said, "is somewhat of a nuisance. We should hold elections every four years. But Walla Walla is governed by an old charter granted by the territorial assembly and it will take a legislative act to amend it."

KANGAROO TICKLES SIX PRISONERS

The kangaroo, which Chief Hunt has secured as his official mascot, put in full time at the private police court this morning, and as a result six prisoners arrested last night were released without any form of legal trial. The six were pleased, the kangaroo was happy, and the chief was very much tickled.

It was the same old story, only that Chief Hunt was down at the police station many minutes earlier than he was yesterday morning, and the men were released a few minutes later than those freed yesterday. The skirmishers, the battle line, and the reserves were bunched this morning, and the whole three-ringed show passed off with a rush. The men knew their first names, their hands were hard in spots, and they were released just because the chief wanted them released.

INCOME AN OFFSET TO TAX JUDGMENT

In ruling on a demurrer in connection with the suit of J. E. Knaster against Basis Faxon it was decided by Judge Cleland in the state circuit court this morning that the income from property during the period of its redemption shall be considered a diminution of the redemption money. The power is deemed important in law though the suit is ancient. It arose over the transfer of property before and after it was sold for satisfaction of a tax judgment.

MEETING TO DISCUSS TRAFFIC IN GIRLS

"The Traffic in Girls in America and India" is the subject for the mass meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Marquam Grand theatre under the auspices of the Indo-American Women's Restoration league. Mrs. Charlton Edholm and Mrs. Caroline P. Wallace will speak, and Sukhoda Banarjee, a Hindu child wife, will be present in costume to tell the story of her life.

In the evening at 7:30, Mrs. Edholm, Mrs. Wallace and Sukhoda Banarjee will speak at Taylor Street M. E. church.

CLEAR SKIES ARE PROBABLE SUNDAY

Fair weather may be expected tonight and Sunday, with slowly rising temperature. District Forecaster Edward A. Beals says that indications, while not of the best, point to a continuance of clear skies "if it is high time," he said, "we were getting clear weather."

The snow of yesterday throughout northern Montana was followed today by dry cold weather. Only .08 of an inch fell in Portland yesterday. A light frost is predicted for this evening, but no damage is expected to result. Gentle northerly winds, are predicted for tonight and tomorrow. The only clouds visible today are high and thin. Their formation indicates a change of some sort, but the forecaster hardly expects anything but fair weather for the next 24 hours.

Killing frosts are reported from the sound country. Temperatures in the Mississippi valley are very low for this time of the year. The local maximum temperature recorded yesterday was 42 degrees, and the minimum 26 degrees.

WOUNDED BOY BETTER.
Ernest Austin, the 11-year-old boy who was accidentally shot in the body with a 22-caliber rifle last Thursday afternoon, is reported to be recovering from the wound as rapidly as could be expected. He is being treated at the Good Samaritan hospital and, although it was at first thought that he would not recover, Dr. Charles Hill and George Wilson, who first dressed the lad's wound, now think that he will be well again within a few weeks.

COUNTY PAYS PIPED AS STOREY DANCES

SHERIFF'S ACTIVITY IN POLITICS RESULTS IN MONEY ACCUMULATING IN BANK, WHILE INTEREST FILES UP ON COUNTY WAR- RANTS.

While Sheriff Storey was running around the city trying to mend his political fences prior to the Republican county convention, and while he was engaged in discharging those deputies whom he looked on as "traitors" to his cause, the county has been paying needless interest on outstanding warrants aggregating almost a million dollars. The sheriff's punitive methods in discharging his deputies have also proved a boomerang, as by working on a reduced staff in the tax office he has got far behind in his work. Yet he claims as a defense that his men are overworked and that money cannot be checked out of the bank to County Treasurer Lewis as fast as desirable.

Storey turned over more than $683,000 to the bank this morning and received a receipt therefor. The checks representing this amount have been on file in his vault for periods extending back to March 5, the last date previous to this morning on which money was checked out of the bank to the county treasurer. In the meantime the county has been paying interest on almost a million dollars.

In addition to the money placed in bank this morning the sheriff checked out of that institution a little more than $200,000 to the county treasurer, a small amount in comparison with the necessities of the situation.

"We have done the best we could," said the sheriff. "Every one of the stubs on which are tabbed the amounts coming in have to be gone over, as an error would mean that I should have to repay the amount out of my own pocket. I have made it a rule that the amounts checked out of the bank should be in favor of Lewis, as I refuse to be responsible. I have had to keep the men working nights to keep up as well as they have."

CANAL IS PUT FIRST

tion proceedings may be instituted to secure his land. Terms have been virtually agreed upon between the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company and the state commissioners. The railroad stipulates that the pending suit to condemn right of way for the portage road shall be dismissed, and the state commissioners will accede to this condition, inasmuch as the route contemplated by that suit conflicts at several points with the route selected for the canal.

Canal Put First.
The commissioners consider that the canal is the more important of the two projects, being more permanent in character, and as the act authorizing it was later than that directing the construction of the portage road, they feel justified in giving precedence to the canal. When the surveys for the canal were made it was found that at several points it would conflict with the route previously surveyed for the portage railway. The effort to carry out the latter project was therefore suspended, until the task of obtaining a land acquired for the canal had been completed. Comparatively little now remains to be done before the commissioners will be able to convey title to the government. Some details are yet to be arranged with the O. R. & N., and if an amicable adjustment can be reached, the title must be acquired from him by condemnation proceedings, but though there may be some delays, there is little doubt that a successful consummation will finally be reached by the commissioners.

As soon as the right of way for the canal has been secured the state commissioners will cause a new survey to be made for the portage railway. The route will necessarily be quite different from that originally determined upon for the canal, and a considerable portion of the land upon which it was first proposed to build the railway. One consequence will be that the cost of constructing the railway will be materially increased, for any route other than that first proposed will involve some heavy cuts and the construction of expensive trestles. Engineers say that it is very doubtful whether the portage railway could have been built for $150,000 on the route first planned, and that the cost will certainly exceed that figure if any other route is adopted.

The legislature appropriated $100,000 for the purchase of the right of way for the Cello canal, and the commissioners expect to keep well within the appropriation.

Joint Survey in Progress.
In order to establish definitely the precise line of the canal, a joint survey is being made by engineers representing the government and the O. R. & N. Co. Lieutenant Fries of the corps of United States engineers has just returned from a trip to Cello, where a surveying party is laying out the route for the canal. This preliminary work will be completed within a few days, but unless congress makes an additional appropriation for the purpose, the project will be abandoned.

Lieutenant Fries says that it is probable that nothing further will be done than to run the lines and draw up plans for the waterway.

There is money available for the clearing out of the obstructive route Three-Mile rapids, and as that is a part of the canal project, the engineers say that active work on the big enterprise of making a continuous waterway from the sea to Lewiston, Ida., will be in progress in the near future.

"Speaking about climate," said the lieutenant, "there is certainly a big difference in the weather at Portland and Cello. At Cello a blinding snow storm was raging all day Thursday, and it kept one hustling to keep warm. Just a little distance above where the surveyors were at work the mountains were covered with snow and presented a very distinctly wintry appearance. In some places, however, rivers and flows were blinding, and the immediate surroundings gave every evidence that spring is near at hand."

HURRIES FIRE WITH OIL; DIES OF BURNS

MRS. R. WEAVER SPILLS KEROSENE ON HER DRESS WHILE PERFORMING FOR BREAKFAST—HER SUFFERING ENDS AFTER TWO DAYS.

After suffering many hours from severe burns received last Thursday morning, Mrs. R. Weaver died last evening at her home, 447 Mississippi avenue.

Last Thursday morning Mrs. Weaver got up somewhat early, as it has been her custom for some time, and in some way spilled a pint or more of coal oil on her dress. It is thought that she was attempting to make a fire burn more briskly by the use of the oil, and while pouring it on the blouse accidentally spilled a part of it on her clothing.

Hearing the screams of her mother, Mrs. Weaver's daughter rushed into the room and found that nearly all of the clothing of the old lady was on fire. Mr. Glass, a son-in-law, also rushed to the room where Mrs. Weaver had attempted to start the fire. Quickly throwing blankets and heavy wearing apparel about the body of Mrs. Weaver, the flames were soon extinguished, but not before Mrs. Weaver had been most severely burned from the waist upwards.

Dr. W. C. McKechnie was at once called, and everything was done to relieve the intense pain of the sufferer. It was at once seen that the burns might prove fatal, but heroic efforts were made to save her life. Dr. McKechnie informed Mr. Glass yesterday afternoon that he feared that nothing could be done to save Mrs. Weaver's life.

Mrs. Weaver moved to Portland about five weeks ago from California. She was about 60 years of age, and made her home with her daughter.
