

JAPANESE PERSIST

Night Attack Reported to Have Been Made on Port Arthur.

RESULTS NOT KNOWN

Correspondents Allowed to Leave Tokio Which Causes Belief That Big Land Movement Will Soon Begin.

(Journal Special Service.) London, April 1.—The Central News published a Tokio dispatch today which states that Admiral Togo made a vigorous attack on Port Arthur Wednesday night. No details accompany the report, but it is understood that the attack was made for the purpose of taking soundings thus ascertaining the effect of the last attack when the Japanese tried to block the harbor. Aside from this report there is not a new development in the war situation and interest is greatly subsiding owing to the unreliability of such news as has been received the last two or three days. It is well known here that Russia desires the support of England for the purpose of offsetting the United States, which power the average Russian believes to be unfriendly to his country.

NEWSPAPER MEN LEAVE

Belief Strong That Stronuous Times Are About Due. (Journal Special Service.) Tokio, April 1.—Sixteen newspaper men, mostly representing British and American publications, left this morning for Moscow. Leaving at the same time were 16 Japanese transports, their destination kept a profound secret. This is the first party of newspaper men to be freed and it is considered to be significant that a big land movement is about ready to be inaugurated. A large crowd assembled at the Shimobashi station and cheered the correspondents' departure. Marquis Ito returned today from Korea and immediately held a long consultation with the emperor. It is believed his visit had the effect of furthering cordiality between the Korean and Japanese courts.

ALBIEFF AT PORT ARTHUR.

Inspects Damaged Vessels—Russian Professor Leaves Tokio. (Journal Special Service.) St. Petersburg, April 1.—Viceroy Alexieff arrived at Port Arthur from Mukden Thursday and was received by Admiral Makaroff and other officials. The party visited the ships in the harbor, inspected the repairs in progress on the vessels damaged during the bombardments. The officers also visited the torpedo boat destroyer Stini which so distinguished itself in the last battle. Professor Yusfovitch, the Russian teacher in the Tokio university, has arrived home and testifies to the kindness of the Japanese. He says students followed him to the station and entreated him to remain. At that time, he says, the Japanese public believed that Port Arthur would fall within 48 hours and that the Japanese army would capture Moscow within a fortnight, thus bringing the war to terms.

JAPANESE GROW DISTRACTED.

Niu Chwang, April 1.—Throughout the China war the Japanese never showed themselves so distracted as now. Excitement runs high. United States Consul Miller today proclaimed acquiescence to Russian martial law. The gunboat Helena leaves tomorrow. As soon as 11 merchantmen now here are loaded the port will be closed. The work of fortifying proceeds rapidly.

JAPANESE FOLLOW UP VICTORY.

Troops Advance After Battle of Chong Ju—Russians Suffer. (Journal Special Service.) Tokio, April 1.—Japanese troops in advance of the main body are pushing the advantage it gained at the battle of Chong Ju, according to private advices received here today. After dislodging the Russians at Chong Ju the Japanese rested 12 hours, when they marched to Yong Chun, 26 miles distant. After a brief engagement with the Russians they retreated to Uman, 80 miles to the northeast. It is said that the Russian Cossack cavalry in the vicinity of Wlu is in great distress. They are using telegraph poles for fuel, while scores are dying for lack of food.

RUSSIA SAYS SHE WON.

Battle of Chong Ju Reported to Be a Japanese Defeat. (Journal Special Service.) St. Petersburg, April 1.—Semi-official news from Lia Yang credits the first encounter in northern Korea as a victory for the Russian arms. The enemy's losses are reported 10 times those of the Russians. According to Korean reports the Japanese buried 50 men while 150 wounded were removed with the help of 500 Koreans to the headquarters of the Japanese main force.

SUES FOR DOUBLE HIS GAMBLING LOSS

Undaunted by the fate of Louis W. Robertson, whose suit to recover money alleged to have been lost while playing faro at the Portland Club resulted in his having to pay the costs, Charles Lewis filed a similar suit this morning in the state circuit court against Edward J. and Eugene Blasier. They conduct a variety theatre and gambling establishment at 248 Burnside street. Lewis avers that he "bucked the tiger" at Blasier Bros.' gambling-house on March 28, and lost $650. He says he has asked for the return of the amount several times and his request has been refused. Accordingly he brings suit to recover $1,350, double the amount he claims to have lost. He is represented by Attorneys H. Denlinger and J. W. Vreeland.

DYNAMITE A SAFE BUT SECURE NO VALUABLES

(Continued from Page One.) press robber proved that he did not know how to open the safe. "The robber who was the only one that did any talking said: 'We don't want to kill you, as I am sure you do not know the curves on the combination of that box.' "It was then we were ordered to place the dynamite on the safe. Twelve sticks were laid on the top of it and the whole party left the car except one thing which remained to attach and light the fuse.

"I pulled the lever and to my surprise found that the engine had been uncoupled. I ran at good speed as far as the bridge just north of the Keewick station. Here I was ordered to stop. The desperadoes got off the engine and disappeared on the side toward the river. "I expected to be killed before they left to pull me reporting the robbery, for it is evident that the bandits did not know that telegraphic or telephonic communications with Copley at that time were possible and believe it had already been given out. "I pulled across the bridge and reported the murder and robbery to the night-man at the little station at Keewick and then ran at a mile-an-hour speed to this city."

Believes He Will Get Them. After hearing the account of the affair, Sheriff Richardson immediately summoned a posse of eight men and started for Copley on the light engine. He is of the firm belief that the robbers made for the smelter town of Keewick, a mile and a half back from the railroad. Keewick is regarded as one of the toughest places on the Pacific coast, and more so particularly at this time of the month, as the 2,000 and more smelter hands and miners from the Iron Mountain district are receiving their pay checks. Fights, gambling and general disorder will be the feature of the place for a half dozen days to come. Sheriff Richardson says he thinks he will be successful in apprehending the men at Keewick no matter how carefully they are shielded by the lawless element there.

LEATHERWORKERS GET FINANCIAL AID

At the regular meeting of the Leatherworkers' union last night letters were read from the California locals which gave them assurance that they would stand by them in the present strike. By this it is said that they mean to insist upon their employers granting them the same concessions as were asked for by the local union. Their agreement with the employers expires on April 31, and at that time it is believed that they will also go on a strike. Many of the Portland journeymen say that there is little doubt that all the leather houses on the Pacific coast will be tied up before the trouble is settled. Communications were also read from eastern locals stating that they would send whatever assistance should be necessary. The international sent word that a remittance in the way of benefit funds amounting to $1,500 will arrive in a day or two. Many officers of Portland unions were in attendance and promised their moral and financial support to the leatherworkers whenever called upon.
