Marquam Grand.—The Silver Slipper, the first of the series of plays, will be given at the Marquam Grand, Tuesday evening, April 12, at 8 o'clock.

The chairman of the committee for the Silver Slipper, Mr. H. B. Breyman, has called attention to the fact that the different committees must make arrangements in accordance with lists furnished and funds on hand a few days before the event is given. The return to the audience is a larger attendance than ever before, and in order that suitable provision may be made for the increased attendance, it is desired that all unlisted members who contemplate attending should call upon W. C. Kingston, 415 Commercial block, or E. S. Jackson, 246 Stark street, on or before Friday, April 8, as a meeting of all committees is called for Saturday, April 9, when final arrangements will be made. The committee is desirous of making the entertainment a grand success and to that end request prompt compliance herewith.

At the next meeting a committee of three will be appointed to arrange the program for the year.

The value of a suit or overcoat is determined by the quality of the cloth, together with trim, tailoring, and general style of garment. Hart, Schaffner and Marx's fine clothing is known to that great majority of men who prefer to buy their clothes ready to wear. You will find our prices are below what others charge for clothing of the same quality and appearance. We sell these goods at honest prices, not upon what the garments look to be worth. Send for booklet showing the styles. Samuel Rosenblatt, corner Third and Morrison streets.

AT THE THEATRES

"THE SILVER SLIPPER."

One of the best musical comedies to tap the northwestern theatrical circuit this season is "The Silver Slipper," which opened at the Marquam Grand last night for two evening performances and a matinee.

"The Silver Slipper" is one of the few road companies that lives up to the promises in its advertisements. The cast and scenery put on last night were the same as seen at the Columbia theatre in San Francisco, and is fully up to the standard set by the show on Broadway. Every number in the attraction was given—even to the encores.

As a laugh-maker, "The Silver Slipper" delivers goods of the best grade. From Samuel Collins, the short comedian with the long list of fun, to diminutive Alice Leasing, the soubrette, the only tears shed during the evening are those of Collins, who, in the role of papa under the title of Henry Bismark Hench, showman and fakir, weeps because even his daughter, Miss Leasing, cannot stand the strength of continuous bunco put on by Henry.

Musically, "The Silver Slipper" is one of the most tuneful comic operas sent out this season. There is scarcely a song not worthy of repetition. The only criticism that can be offered is that the voices of some of the soloists are not as strong as they might be. The costuming of the piece is on a magnificent scale, the "Champagne Dance" sextette being but a small part of the wealth of color, both in costuming and stage scenery.

"THE GIRL FROM PARIS."

Counter attractions appear to have no effect on the drawing power of the Olympia Opera company in their splendid production of "The Girl from Paris" at the Marquam Grand this week. This musical comedy has made an emphatic hit, and the comments of the audience when leaving the theatre are universally favorable. Sparkling wit, beautiful choruses, the saucy soubrette, and the laugh-provoking comedian, together with about 20 numbers of original music constitutes a very tempting menu. The Portland patrons have not been slow to recognize the merits of the Olympia Opera company in "The Girl from Paris" which runs all this week.

Next week commencing Sunday afternoon, the same company will produce "The Two Vagabonds" (Ermeline) with an augmented cast, including Miss Jenkins, soprano, and Mr. Ed Seaman, tenor.

ROSE COGHAN.

Rose Coghlan will appear at the Marquam Grand theatre Tuesday and Wednesday nights, April 12-13, in one of the purest of modern plays, "The Greatest Thing in the World." The role of Virginia Bryant, played by Rose Coghlan, is a study in exquisite costuming, and there is much opportunity for elaborate gowning for the other ladies of the company, which is made the most of.

STANFORD IN RICHARD III.

The advance sale of seats will open next Friday morning at 10 o'clock for the eminent tragedian, Charles B. Stanford, who comes to the Marquam Grand theatre Monday night, April 11, in Shakespeare's historical tragedy, Richard III.

PORTLAND ITALIAN BAND.

The advance sale of seats will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock for the Portland Italian band, which will be heard at the Marquam Grand theatre next Saturday night, April 9, in a grand concert of popular and classical music under the direction of the brilliant young conductor, Signor D'Urbano.

NEXT WEEK AT THE BAKER.

A magnet that will crowd the Baker theatre all next week beginning Sunday afternoon, April 10, will be the production of Bronson Howard's satire on British nobility, "Aristocracy," by the new Neill-Morocco company. The play is one that will prove almost new to Portland theatre goers not having been seen in the city for some years. It is beautifully written, in fact one of the best works of this noted author, and was first produced at Palmer's theatre in New York, where its success was almost instantaneous. In "Aristocracy" there is a combination of well-written dialogue, coherent situations and incidents that point out the wisdom of righteousness. There are a number of caricatures of European nobility.

"PUDD'NEAD WILSON."

No one should miss the pleasure of seeing one of Mark Twain's greatest stories, Pudd'nead Wilson, portrayed by the new Neill-Morocco company at the Baker this week. Howard Gould's "Pudd'nead" is a fine piece of work, and nobly supported by every member of the cast. Amelia Gardner as Roxie seems to love the splendid character part of the wild-natured slave woman, and with our own Elsie Esmond as the charming little Roy, with Harry Metcayer, Frank MacVicar, Thomas Oberle, in parts that fit them like gloves, and George Woodard as the old sheriff, it is easily seen why the entire performance is pleasing.

No trace has been found of the party or parties who placed the infernal machine on the river steamer Albany, early yesterday morning. Detectives Kerrigan and Snow are working on a clue, but as yet the mystery is still unsolved. Captain Whitcomb found the guard-rail of his boat free of rubbish this morning.

The infernal machine found on the Albany yesterday by Captain Whitcomb was dumped in the river soon after it was examined by powder experts. The white sock that was wrapped around the box of caps and the Chinese paper wrapped about the bundle are being kept by Henry.

Mystery of the Sock.

Detective Kerrigan spent some time yesterday afternoon attempting to clean up the mystery of the white sock. The foot covering was shown to numerous second-street merchants, whose kin sleep in Chinatown, but every one of the Chinese denied that it was the sort worn by their countrymen. They all said that the sock had never graced the foot of a Chinese. "Chinamen white sock made linen," said one of the merchant princes. "No white sock on Chinaman, he all time wear other kind," said another. The sock bears no laundry mark, but when found it was clean. The Coghlan and the Chinese are in a round, and there is much opportunity for elaborate gowning for the other ladies of the company, which is made the most of.

The Chinese paper that was wrapped around the infernal machine is said to be the sort used to wrap up Chinese shoes exported from Hongkong.

Heard Men on Dock.

The chief officer of the steamer, W. B.

"originator of rag-time."

He appears with Jessie Haynes as the head-liner on the Arcade's new bill. Mann and Frank's Eastern songs, and Myrtle Frank's diminutive soubrette are pleasing. Douglas and Fletcher are good in blackface work. Jesse More sings as her illustrated song, "Please Mamma, Buy Me a Baby."

AT THE PARK.

A man with a chest expansion of a little more than a foot is the feature of the bill at the Park theatre this week. He is Wallace of Wallace & Cowles who startle the audience with some athletic feats. Chetwith and Frank in character sketches, the Thompsons in a Chinese apes and Katie Coyle in illustrated songs and a good Swedish monologue together with the moving pictures, make up an entertaining bill.

EAST VIEW TO HAVE CHURCH.

East View, a suburb on the Mount Scott line, will soon boast of a Presbyterian church. A Sunday school was organized about a month ago under the auspices of the Home Mission committee of the Presbytery of Portland. The Sunday school has a membership of about 36. Besides the Sunday school, preaching services are held every Sunday afternoon, with Rev. D. A. Thompson, pastor of the Sellwood Presbyterian church, acting as pastor. Woodmere Hall is being used for these services, but it has been found that in order to organize a church, a church edifice must first be erected. Mr. Johnson, Sabbath school missionary for the Presbytery of Portland has been collecting subscriptions and all of the needed money has been promised so that work will be begun at once. A lot 100x50 has been donated by Harry Smith, and on this the chapel will be erected. It will be a modest affair, but as the work grows, a more pretentious one will be built. The chapel will be ready about June 1. Soon after this, those in charge hope to organize a church and secure a permanent pastor.

Matheson, makes his home on the boat. He said that he came aboard the Albany about 7 o'clock Monday night, and read until about 9:30 o'clock.

"About midnight, Monday," said Matheson this morning, "I heard several people on the dock near the boat. They seemed to be talking about and were talking in subdued tones. All were white men. These men did not cause me to lose much sleep, I being of the opinion that they were just some strollers bumbling about. I could not hear a word they said, so turned over and went to sleep."

"When I got up yesterday morning I noticed an old bundle on the starboard guard. Just supposed that some one had tossed a bunch of newspapers off the dock and that they had landed on the guard. But when the captain came down, he thought he would see what the bundle was. So he went out and got the thing and brought it into the engine-room and opened it. When we saw that there was powder, caps and a fuse there was a scatter among us."

"I don't know who put it there—haven't any idea why a fellow would do such a trick. I have never had serious trouble with any of the hands, and am on good terms with all the men who have been fired off the boat since I have been on her. Perhaps the Chinese are mad because we would not let them cook aboard the Albany. But then this is only a guess."

"I went to bed early Monday night and did not hear anyone moving about the dock," said O'Neill, one of the boat's firemen, who sleeps aboard. "I came down to the boat between 8:30 and 9 o'clock and turned in right away. When

WARN CAMPERS NOT TO MAKE FIRES

In view of the approaching season when hunters, fishermen, and campers will haunt the woods and streams, Commissioner W. A. Richards, of the general land office, has issued circulars warning the public against carelessness, since disastrous fires have resulted from neglected camp fires. The law provides a maximum fine of $5,000, or imprisonment for two years, or both, if

I came aboard there wasn't a soul in sight about the boat or the dock."

O'Neill said that he had been employed on the Albany for some time. He said that he never heard of any serious trouble with the officers or owners of the boat and the deckhands or firemen. He said that he did not see the bundle of powder until the captain brought it into the engine-room early yesterday morning. "Had I known that that badly thing was on the guard I should have got off this boat just as quick as my legs would have carried me," said the fireman.

Thinks No Harm Was Meant. C. H. Leadbetter, manager of the Western Transportation company, does not think that anyone made an attempt to blow up the Albany. He thinks that the sack of powder and the box of caps were placed on the boat's guard by a mistake.

"It seems to me that it was left on the guard by some fisherman who either forgot it or was afraid to return for the stuff," said Mr. Leadbetter. "The caps were of an ancient pattern while the fuse was an old timer. I think that some one was going to take it out in the country to blow up stumps and some unknown reason left it on the guard. We have never had any trouble with any men that would cause them to wish to blow up the boat, and I do not think the Chinese would think of playing such a trick."

"Perhaps the owner of the powder got a little drunk, and wandered down this way. He may have grown tired of tarrying the bundle and just dropped it over the side of the dock and it lit on the guard. The powder was good stuff for blowing up stumps."

The fire is set maliciously, and a fine of $1,000, or imprisonment for one year, if the fire is due to carelessness. Every fireman and summer, it is said, large acres of public and private forests are devastated and the destruction is a universal injury. It not only destroys a valuable asset in the list of the country's resources, but is productive of floods. The forest is said to be the most effective means of preventing floods and producing a more regular flow of water for irrigation and other useful purposes.

CHIEFLY PERSONAL.

Felix Bloch, of the Portland Loan Office, will leave Sunday evening for a four months tour to the eastern states and Europe. He will stop at Chicago and New York and April 26 will sail for London. He expects to return to Portland September 1. Mrs. John Temple Grayton left yesterday for Seattle.

MOZART CLUB GAVE GOOD PROGRAM

The Mozart Symphony club of New York gave a most pleasing and instructive concert at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening. The club consists of four, a number of whom plays several different instruments, a number of these being instruments not often heard in concert work. Marie Stori, the prima donna soprano, sings well and also plays the violin. Richard and Stoelzer plays the Viola d'Amour, lute, saxophone, bells and viola. Herr Theo. Hoch plays the cornet, Roman trumpet, trumpet, Alpine echo horn and violin, and Marie Blodeck, the da gama, atter and cello.

The auditorium was filled, and the audience was liberal in its applause. Herr Theo. Hoch, in his concert fantasia, "Sieg Heil," pleased, as did the "Tyrolean Romance," with either accompaniment played by Herr Hoch and M. Blodeck. The program: Overture—Rosamunde. Schubert. Mozart Symphony Club. Viola d'Amour Solo—Frelus and Traumerer. Mr. Richard Stoelzer. Violin Solo—Frelus. Saranute. Cornet Solo—Marie Stori. (Singsvogelchen). Herr Theo. Hoch. Da Gamba Solo—Frelus. Wright, the popular dentist at No. 242 1/2 Washington street, was awarded to Samuel Galbraith of Tualatin, Or. The drawing took place just after the performance of "The Girl From Paris," which many witnesses, Little Miss Lillian Gwynn, of No. 260 East Eighth street, drew the lucky coupon, No. 11661. The launch is a trim little craft and it is understood Mr. Galbraith was an exceedingly anxious and expectant owner. The boat is valued at $400.
