J. B. Kelly, Portland agent for the White automobile, has removed his head-quarters and salesroom to the building recently vacated by the Pacific Coast Home Supply association, Second and Salmon. The structure is being elegantly fitted up for its new purposes, and will contain a splendidly equipped washroom, in which autos of any make may be cleaned. In addition there will be a free reading room, supplied with all sorts of automobile publications and twice each week free lectures will be given on automobiling, which will include instruction for the operation of any machine on the market. It is inany machine on the market. It is intended to make this a popular resort of all persons interested in the new and popular road carts of the day.

The Rose Mfg. Co. has opened its parlors at 405 Morrison for the treatment of the scalp. These ladies are well known Portland citizens, and the treatment they give has been profitably employed by very many of our people who will heartily endorse the methods of the institution. The ladies advertise that they will give electric scalp treatment and shampooing, and that for the purpose of introducing their treatment to a wider circle they will charge only $3 pose of introducing their treatment to a wider circle they will charge only $5 tercol for a course of 10 of these electric massage and scalp treatments to all who begin the course next week. Both sexes are treated with equally beneficial results.

TEAMS FROM THE UNIVERSITIES OF WASHINGTON AND OREGON TO WEESTLE WITH IMPORTANT QUESTION AT MESTING IN SEAT-TLE TONIGHT—PIFTE CONTEST.

Washington in Seattle tonight. The University of Oregon men have the af-firmative and the Washington men the negative. Large numbers of people are expected to be in attendance, and interest in the event is very keen.

Each of the institutions have won two debates and tonight's bout is for the championship. Washington's men have always been more successful when on the negative side, which they take to-night. In this contest Oregon chose the subject, while Washington chose her fa-vorite side. In but few instances has she ever lost when taking the negative, but it is known that this debate will be a battle royal, for Oregon's men have been making preparations for a long time and will surely give their contest-

PIONEER BURIED FROM LATE HOME

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Skinner took place at her late residence yester-day morning, Rev. T. I. Eliot officiating. Mrs. Skinner was born in Concord, N H. in 1808. She was reared and educated at her home, and in 1840 was married to P. S. Skinner, now mail agent between Albany, N. Y., and Detroit, Mich. In 1860 Mrs. Skinner came to Portland as a pioneer and lived here until her death. She was a charter member of the First Unitarian church and was prominent in its humanitarian work. Up to the time of her death she visited the prisons, distributed literature among the poor, and engaged actively in rescue work. Her death was due to old age. She weakened suddenly Sunday afternoon, was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital and died Tuesday

BOARD TO CONSIDER TAXPAYERS' REPORT

The resolutions adopted by the Tax-payers' league and recently published in The Journal, will be one of the principal eatures for consideration by the execuive board at its meeting this afternoon. They recommend several changes in the office of City Engineer Elliott, the most important of which is a rule that he must make daily reports of work being ione by his deputies to the city auditor At present no such reports are filed with rumors current that not all the deputy engineers were earning their salaries. Auditor Devlin held up the March payroll, requiring all of the deputies to sign affidavits that they had performed the work specified by the city engineer in his roll before receiving their pay checks.

A Live Way of Calling the Attention of

The big two-page advertisement of the Paul Strain stores in this issue demonstrates the plan of a live merchant in calling attention of the public to his business. In addition to this gread advertisement, The Journal has printed for Mr. Strain 20,000 posters from the type used in the ad., and these will be distributed to the people of Portland and its environs. The printing is in colors, and is evidence of what may be accomplished by this modern and up-tolate printing establishment. The printing of these "bills" required half an hour's run of the big press, a feat that can be accomplished at no other newspaper office in the west. Mr. Strain, during his eastern visit, secured a tremendous bargain in the purchase of the stock of the Baltimore Shoe & Clothing company, and these goods will be put on sale tomorrow morning at the prices stated in the advertisement. The two stores were closed all day today preparatory to the great sale, and tomorrow it is likely that there will be such a rush of business to compel the doors to be frequently closed again. It is a chance to buy clothing at small expense that will not be had again at these stores for quite
