DE. BROUGHER SAYS MUNICIPAL-ITT LOSES WHEN IT TAKES PINDS AND PERMITS GAMBLING AND LIQUOR TRAFFIC—HE INVEIGNS AGAINST PRISERT SYSTEM.

Brougher preached to a crowded house his third sermon in the series on 'Problems of City Life," His subject was. "What Shall it Profit a City to License Crime?" He took for his text, "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his soul?" and "What shall a man give in exchange for his life?" Among other things, he said: "This is the greatest question of profit and loss ever presented for the consideration of the world. There are some things that have an eternal value, and others are only temporal. Nothing can be considered worth while that does not add to Christian character and enable us to live for eternity as well as time.

nor city can afford to gain revenue at the expense of others. "A cripple with a high-heel shoe had his shoes shined. He asked the small boy the price, and was told it was 5 cents. "But," said the cripple, 'you had more to do on my shoes than others.' 'Yes,' said the boy. I know it, but I Yes, said the boy, I know it, but I would not like to make anything out of your misfortune." That little fellow was a true man. It is the natural rendezvous of the vicious. the criminal and the outcast. There is no moral argument in favor of this sa-loon business. I never met a saloon-keeper who ever claimed that there was a moral argument in favor of his business. Men are in the saloon business simply for the money there is in it. There is no money in that business for any one else. It costs more to run the police department, care for the criminals and paupers than any city ever gets out of licenses. Nine-tenths of the crime sorrow, and misery of the world center around the saloon, the gambling hell, and the brothel. A city that is willing to make criminals for support must be hard up for money, to say the least. "If the city government is willing license by process of fines, one set of criminals, they ought to be fair and treat all alike. Cambling is simply a form of robbery. When it becomes known that the laws of a city are strictly enforced, that the good people are in the ascendancy, then the city gains for itself a good name and attracts to its population the best ele-ment of the people. The lawless elements always run to a city where they know they can gratify their own evil inclinations and escape punishment as criminals. No city can afford to gain revenue from that which destroys the dy, mind and soul of the citizen. What shall it profit a city to permit the crim-inal classes to gratify their appetites for a money consideration and destroy our young men and women, pauperize homes corrupt politics, rob manhood of character, and damn the souls of thousands 'Dr. Cuyler well calls these places Banks of Losings.' Everyone who makes a deposit gains a loss,' he said. They deposit all that it is worth while and the interest paid is disgrace, disease, degradation and death. Put in a good reputation, character, business, health, and receive in return dishonor, failure, misery, and sorrow. What can it profit a city or an individual to indulge in sin and lose the higher, the truer, the nobler life? There is no profit in it, it is all loss. Some day we will see this. God grant that we may do it before it is too late."

"THE TWO VAGABORDS."

"Erminie" under the name of "The Two Vagabonds." at Cordray's last night must have reminded many old timbers of a good many years ago—too many to remember with accuracy—when Carleton brought J. K. Murray and Carleton brought J. K. Murray and Clara Lane to what was then the West Park theatre in Jacobowski's tuneful opera. It was Portland's fashionable play house and just as cozy and comfortable as it is now as Cordray's. Fifteen years is not so long, said the front row brigade and "Erminie" is just as bright and clever as ever. In fact, the reminiscences and reminders in choruses and solos, in the rattling comedy of Jacques and "Caddy" only served to stiffen the judgment of the old timers that the old operas are the best and that the writers of "Prince of Pfisen," "Silver Slipper," and kindred stuff have been wasting their's and the Last sight at the White Temple Dr.

ROSE COGELAN AT THE MARQUAM. Rose Coghlan, in the stellar role in "The Greatest Thing in the World." will ppear at the Marquam Grand theatre tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights. April 12, 13. It is good to see that Miss Coghlan has departed from the unwholesome products of the contemporary stage to illuminate with her talent motherly affection and steadfast loyalty to the elementary virtues.

The part of Virginia Bryant calls for nal devotion. In the hands of an artiste like Miss Coghlan it is exceedingly forcible and appealing to the sympa-thies of the audience. She conveys in a masterly manner the impression of suppressed feeling and deep maternal emotion which is as near an approach to to sign it may do so here, if they are not real suffering and actual experience as can be produced on the stage.

No theatrical enterprise has ever offered more brilliant promise of success than Charles B. Hanford's engagement at the Marquam Grand theatre tonight in Shakespeare's "Richard III." Mr. Hanford comes in the maturity of genius upon which both critical opinion and popular applause have set the seal of unqualified approval. The season which he closed last June with "The Taming of the Shrew," as the attraction, was the most prosperous of any that he has ever enjoyed. So extraordinary was the interest manifested in this produc-tion that Mr. Hanford has decided to retain it in his bill this season, that decision being due to a demand for its repetition on the part of the managers at whose theatres he apeared last sea-

Why Teeth Decay

All decay of the teeth begins from the outside; hence, if the surfaces could be kept absolutely clean, no decay should take place.

We can assist you in keeping your teeth clean if you will come in occasionally and have us remove the tartar and other deposits which you cannot reach.

Indigestion is often caused by decayed teeth. Without good teeth one cannot properly masticate food. So the stomach is called upon to do the work for which it was not intended. It is best that you have your teeth examined at once. Do not let them get the start on you. Examination free.
