

SCREECHING SHELL FROM BURSTED GUN

While at Target Practice at Fort Stevens a Projectile Goes Wide of its Mark and Fishermen Barely Escape Death.

Wasco, Wash., April 12.—A misguided shell from one of the huge guns which tower from Fort Stevens' frowning fortresses and o'erwashed the Columbia's mouth plainly showed the damage it was capable of wrecking on an enemy's ship during the regular practice of the artillery troops Saturday afternoon. Incidentally it served to impress on a party of peaceable fishermen, who were mending their nets on the beach opposite the fort, the narrow margin, which was only by the narrowest margin, that the screech of a shell is not the most pleasant sound in the world, especially from in front of the gun.

Target practice had proceeded for several hours at Fort Stevens without mishap when the accident occurred. After discharging several shells with various results of accuracy, one of the big shells disappeared guns burst, and with a deafening roar its shell went whirling forward, but at a considerably different angle than aimed.

On Sand Island, which is just opposite the fort, some two miles away, some fishermen were repairing their fishing gear. One of the number noticed a peculiar report from the fort, and almost instantly the screech of a shell could be plainly heard, gradually growing louder. Before any of the men could realize what had happened the projectile struck the ground only a few feet away and disappeared.

An examination revealed the fact that the shell had sunk only a few inches beneath the surface, but had traveled fully half a mile in the soft ocean sand before its fury was spent.

BARBER OWNS A LINK OF HISTORY

John T. Dolan, mentioned in yesterday's dispatches as being the owner of a manuscript-order-book of Gen. Arthur St. Clair, for the purchase of which the United States senate has just voted an appropriation of $500, is a Portland barber working in the Esmond shop, corner of Front and Morrison streets.

The book is in the original manuscript and has never been copied or reprinted. In the handwriting of General St. Clair are recorded the daily army orders for a period of about six months in the year 1791; the record ending abruptly a few days before General St. Clair's great defeat in Ohio, when his command was scattered by the Miami Indians under the leadership of the famous chief Little Turtle and the infamous white renegade Simon Girty.

The manuscript contains much valuable information regarding the early life in both Ohio and the northwest, the general having been military commander of Washington and Oregon during a part of the time covered by the book, which thus forms a heretofore missing link in the history of the United States.

Although over 112 years old, the book is perfectly preserved, except for slight obliterations of the cover and the musty smell incident to age.

On his mother's side Mr. Dolan is descended from the famous general, and the book came into his possession at the time of his father's death, some years ago.

J. N. WILLIAMSON.

WITHOUT A SINGLE JAR LOVING LETTER IS MYSTERIOUS

We endorse our delegation in congress and are proud of the success they have achieved in obtaining legislation favorable to our state, and we are especially gratified at the recognition obtained by our representative, Hon. J. N. Williamson, during the short time he has been in congress, and pledge him our earnest efforts for his reelection.

Endorsements Are Made.

A caucus of eastern Oregon delegates was held in the parlors of the Imperial hotel at 9 o'clock this morning. It was decided at this caucus that the delegates endorse Judge James A. Fee of Pendleton, and J. B. Hoxford of Sherman county, as presidential electors; N. C. Richards as a delegate to the national convention from the second congressional district, and Ira S. Smith as a delegate-at-large to the national convention. The endorsement of Judge Carey was overlooked, it being explained afterward that this was due to the common belief that he was a "clinch," and nobody thought to bring his name up.

The following resolutions proposed by J. J. Donegan, evoked lively discussion:

Stockmen's Resolutions.

"Resolved, That we, the Harney County Livestock association, of Harney county, Oregon, are bitterly opposed to the leasing of the public domain by the government in any shape, form or manner, fully realizing that it will prove the ultimate ruin of every legitimate business within the borders of Harney county, stop all immigration, and finally lead to the depopulation of the county; and be it further

Stockmen's Resolutions.

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be furnished to the delegates of both political parties to the state conventions, with the request that the same be read to the respective delegates."

These resolutions were adopted at a meeting of the association, held at Burns, Harney county, April 2, 1904. The consensus of opinion at that meeting was that no action should be taken on these resolutions at the caucus and that they should come before the convention proper through the resolutions committee. An adjournment was then taken.

When the last of eastern Oregon's delegations arrived last night the supporters of Mr. Moody gave up all hope of nominating their map; for, while Moody delegates are in the majority in the eastern delegations, this majority is so small as to preclude any chance of overcoming the 71 Williamson votes from Multnomah.

"Lack of organization and an insufficiency of hard work are responsible for Mr. Moody's defeat," he is heard to remark, declared W. H. Hoole, in charge of the Moody headquarters, last evening.

"If he had gone into the field and made the same energetic campaign as did Mr. Williamson, he would have had a large majority of the eastern Oregon delegations. The people are in favor of Moody, but Williamson has the delegates."

"Mr. Moody realizes that he has no show whatever," said E. L. Smith of Hood River, president of the State Hooper trade association. "So many trades are being made over circuit judgeships and district attorneys that it is impossible to tell just whether the delegates stand until they get into the convention."

W. J. Furnish, leader of the Williamson forces in Umatilla county, was in a sanguine mood. "Certainly Williamson will be nominated," said he, "on the first ballot, if it is necessary, to have a ballot. We have all but 36 of the delegates. We concede Mr. Moody, Wasco, Wheeler, Gilliam, Union and Wallowa counties, and perhaps a few scattered votes; the balance are for Williamson."

Shortly after 9 o'clock last evening the question of presenting his name to the convention on the matter being finally left to the discretion of a steering committee composed of E. L. Smith of Hood River, J. V. Wheeland of The Dalles and C. E. Cochran of Union.

that Vice-Admiral Makaroff, commanding the Russian forces at Port Arthur, has been captured by Japanese and is now being held prisoner. The report is not confirmed.

In naval circles it is pointed out, however, that there is considerable possibility of the reported capture being correct. Recent reports have stated that Makaroff has been making sorties from the port in small boats doing scout duty. There is a possibility that the Japanese allowed the admiral to grow overconfident, and have intercepted him. Makaroff being the hero of the hour at Port Arthur, his capture, if confirmed, would be a sad blow to Russia.

Still another report received here and emanating from St. Petersburg, is to the effect that the admiral was killed, together with all members of the crew of the battleship Petropavlovsk, which was sunk at the entrance to the harbor at Port Arthur by coming in contact with a floating mine. This latter report is also unconfirmed.

BAKER CITY CONCERN MOVES TO TROUTDALE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Baker City, Or., April 12.—The sand-lime brick-manufacturing concern which was created in Baker City a few weeks ago by Elmer E. Angell has been established at Troutdale, 17 miles out of Portland, on the O. R. & N. railroad, near the banks of the Columbia, where Mr. Angell secured a large tract of land for the purpose. The railroad has just finished building the sidetrack to the premises. The plant will soon be in operation, and will have a capacity at the start of 20,000 bricks a day. Mr. Angell is on the ground personally supervising the work.

PREVENTS WOMEN FROM WRESTLING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Victoria, B. C., April 12.—A wrestling match between Tom Davies of British Columbia and Nick Spensley, arranged to take place last night in the Victoria theatre, was called off. Agitation was aroused against a preliminary event advertised, an exhibition of wrestling between Mrs. Tom Davies ("Little Lady Hector") and Miss de Vinck. Bishop Perrin of the Episcopal church, in letters to the press, described the encounter as degrading. Following this Mayor Barnard instructed the chief of police to prevent the women from entering the theatre. Chief Langley attended the match last night for that purpose. The management decided not to attempt the match, and in view of the small attendance the main event was also called off and the spectators' money was refunded.

HARRIMAN GETS GREAT SURPRISE

ATTORNEY-GENERAL KNOX STEPS IN BETWEEN, NORTHERN SECURITIES COMPANY AND THE PETITIONERS AGAINST IT—STATES REASONS IN LETTER TO COURT.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—The celebrated Hill-Harriman case is now in the hands of the circuit court judges for decision and the arguments ended this morning.

Today's session was bitter owing largely to the United States being in the case.

Counsel for James J. Hill accused E. H. Harriman with seeking to delay the decision of the merger so that people would be scared into disposing of their stock at a low figure to Harriman.

This counsel insisted that the rights of 33,000 stockholders should be preserved and not allowed to be done by the Harriman crowd and that the false face of the Union Pacific be taken off to show the public that the Hill-Harriman holdings are owned by dummies, also that Hill and Morgan have been preparing for months to outwit the court.

He created a sensation by charging the Hill-Morgan interests with buying a large amount of Great Northern and Northern Pacific stock for a securities trust.

Elliott Root, ex-secretary of war, declared the accusation false in every respect.

Interest is general here over the great legal battle which is sure to be fought by the array of corporate lawyers of national repute, and who will be employed by E. H. Harriman et al on one side and James J. Hill and the former merger promoters on the other.

The subject of contention and strife was caused by the petition presented to Judge Sanborn, Van Devanter, Hook and Thayer of the United States district court, for the purpose of showing the court why the Northern Securities company should be dissolved from carrying out a plan of distribution of assets which, if allowed, will be alleged, be disastrous to the Harriman interests.

E. H. Harriman and party are represented by Attorney W. D. Guthrie, R. S. Lovett, general counsel of the Southern Pacific railroad; Judge J. M. Baldwin of Omaha, and Maxwell Everts of Ohio.

James J. Hill and the merger people are represented by Attorney E. H. Root, ex-secretary of war; John G. Johnson of Philadelphia; Francis Lynde Stetson, counsel for J. E. Morgan & Co.; George Young, Frank E. Kellogg, C. A. Severance, C. W. Dunn, general counsel for the Northern Pacific, and M. D. Crover, general counsel for the Great Northern.

As the case came to hearing yesterday a great surprise was in store for all interested in the case. "It came in the way of the appearance in court of District Attorney C. C. Hought, who represented the United States, and by the introduction of Attorney General Knox, who objected to the Harriman intervening petition."

The objection was not made known until Mr. Everts had opened the case for the plaintiffs. It was then that Judge Sanborn asked if he knew that the government objected to the petition. Mr. Everts replied that he did not, and asked the court to direct Mr. Hought to state the attorney's objection. The latter then read the following, which was over the signature of Knox:

"I respectfully submit to the court that notice has been served upon me that Edward H. Harriman, Winslow B. Pierce and the Oregon Short Line Railroad company will apply to the judges of this court for leave to intervene in this case, and to be heard in respect of the final decree of this court entered on April 9, 1902, as affirmed by the supreme court of the United States, and for such other or further or different order of relief as the court may deem fit."

"The United States neither admits nor denies the allegations of the petition, but objects to the proposed intervention. This case was heard by this court on bill, answer and testimony, and a final decree was entered, enjoining the defendants as therein recited. Upon appeal by the defendants to the supreme court of the United States, the decree of this court was affirmed in every particular, the effect of which was to end and close the case. The United States stands on the decree as affirmed, and submits that the court is only concerned to see that it is faithfully observed by the defendants according to its terms."

"P. C. KNOX, Atty.-General."

A long argument followed between Mr. Everts and Mr. Root. Many technical points were discussed without any apparent issue.

At the conclusion of the preliminary arguments ex-Congressman James Hamilton Lewis of Chicago appeared before the court and asked, as a representative of the Continental Trust company of New Jersey, that the petition be not granted, on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction. He said his company held 5,000 shares of stock.

HERMANN IS CHOSEN

Cornelius of Washington. The committee selected as chairman Walter L. Toose and Gale S. Linn, secretary.

A vote of 14 to 10 was given to the nomination for joint senators from Josephine, Douglas and Lane counties was positively contradicted by him. It has been suggested that Harris' friends should have given him recognition in the selection of delegates to the national convention, but J. U. Campbell of Oregon City and Dr. Keene of Eugene had been slated, and the Hermann managers refused to change the program.

It was agreed between the friends of both candidates that Hermann's nomination, which was to be made by Marsters of Douglas, should be seconded by A. C. Woodcock of Eugene, Harris' law partner.

At the afternoon session, reports of committees were presented, also resolutions endorsing Roosevelt and complimenting the Oregon delegation to congress for urging the completion of the Panama canal.

While waiting the report from the credentials committee, ex-Governor Geer was called upon for a speech and responded with the prediction of a Republican victory in Oregon and the election of the convention's nominees to the national convention. Lewis and E. L. Eddy also addressed the delegates. The latter paid a high tribute to Mr. Harris, eliciting the first demonstration of real enthusiasm in the convention. Cheering and applause greeted Mr. Harris when he rose to speak. He announced his withdrawal, saying that the convention would nominate Hon. Binger Hermann, "who will undoubtedly represent the district for the next two years faithfully and ably as in the past." He predicted Hermann's election and bespoke the hearty support of all Republicans.

Dr. J. M. Keene of Eugene and J. U. Campbell of Oregon City were unanimously elected delegates to the national convention with Jesse E. Edwards of Yamhill and B. F. Jones of Lincoln alternates.

The majority of the delegates to the first district congressional convention arrived last evening. Both the Hermann and the Harris headquarters are at the Willamette hotel, and there the delegates assembled to confer with the leaders and to canvass the strength of the candidates.

The news that Linn county had indicated its preference for Hermann was received during the evening, and was a keen disappointment to Harris' friends, who had hoped to capture at least a part of the delegation. Hermann's friends were jubilant, they congratulated the voters for making the decision doubly sure and to leave no doubt of their candidate's victory.

Plans for Organization.

State Senator Marsters of Douglas county, who has been managing the campaign for Hermann, was in conference during the evening with a number of the congressmen's supporters, and plans were agreed upon for the organization of the convention. George C. Brownell was agreed upon as the Hermann candidate for chairman of the convention, it being known that Harris would make no fight against Brownell.

"I do not care who is chairman or who is secretary," he told his friends; "all I want is a square deal."

Harris in the Fight.

In spite of the extreme confidence of Hermann's friends, Harris showed no signs of giving up the fight. He would not be deterred by the opposition, and said that his own strength had been greatly underrated in the published reports, and that he might yet win the nomination.

Among the majority of the delegates, however, the opinion prevailed that Hermann would have from 110 to 120 delegates out of the total of 177, and that there could be no hope of success for Harris.

Delegates to National Convention

There was some speculation as to the probable choice of the delegates for delegates to the national convention. It was generally understood that one of the delegates would be James U. Campbell of Oregon City, and the other would be some man from the southern part of the district.

Those Who Are in.

Among the arrivals at evening were Circuit Judge Harry Benson of Klamath county, who will be nominated by acclamation; Judge E. M. Brattain of Lakeview, probable nominee for district attorney in his district; S. L. King of Clatsop, who is a possible candidate for gate-at-large to the national convention; R. A. Booth of Eugene, the head of the Booth-Kelly Lumber company, who has won his fight for renomination as state senator; W. A. Mead of Clatsop, a possible candidate for prosecuting attorney in that district; B. L. Eddy of Tillamook, and James McCain of Yamhill, rival candidates for nomination to the circuit bench in the third judicial district; W. H. Stanley of Story county, daily commissioner; Walter L. Story of Independence, ex-Governor Geer's secretary; Schiller B. Hermann, just renominated for representative from Coos county; Dr. Keene of Eugene, George C. Brownell, James U. Campbell of Oregon City, A. C. Woodcock and State Senator Kuykendall of Eugene.

Gossip of Dark Horse.

One item of gossip last evening was to the effect that Story Pierce, who expects the nomination for joint representative from Coos and Curry counties, may probably be defeated by a dark horse as yet unnamed. It has been customary for Coos county to name the joint senator, leaving the selection of the joint representative to Curry county. E. D. Hume of Curry made an effort this year to secure the senatorship, and a hot fight was made against him, which has resulted in some ill feeling. Schiller B. Hermann was also a candidate, but finally withdrew in favor of John S. Coke of Marshallfield, contenting himself with a renomination to the lower house of the legislature.

Coke defeated Hume and was nominated for joint senator. Hermann's friends say that time, while professing to be with them, has secretly played into the hands of Harris and has caused the proxies of Curry's three delegates to be placed in the hands of C. B. Winn of Albany, an avowed supporter of Harris. The Hermann men are talking of retaliation, and it is possible that Story Pierce, Hume's candidate for joint representative from the two counties, may be marked for slaughter. If Coos county's votes are thrown against him he cannot be nominated.

Senator Howe for Delegate.

Some of the Yamhill delegates are urging State Senator Howe of that county for one of the delegates-at-large to the national convention. He was a classmate of President Roosevelt at Harvard, and this is one of the arguments in his behalf. Story Pierce, many of the delegates to the congressional convention left for Portland this afternoon to attend the Republican state convention tomorrow.
